Wood Fire, Electric Cold.
Science Is No Menace.
The Little Brown Church.
Bonfils Says It's Hoover.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 24.

RATHER WARM on these fertile Nebraska plains, today, but the human organism, with its marvelous thermostatic arrangements, maintaining the same blood temperature on the Equator and in the Arctic, adjusts itself to heat or cold.

The dining car of this Union Pacific train, artificially refrigerated, is almost as cold as one of the "chilling rooms" in Chicago's packing houses.

TEN THOUSAND centuries ago men learned to control fire, to warm themselves and cook their food. They worshipped fire, incorporated it in their religions. It plays a part in some of them today.

Now men learn to cool themselves with electricity as they warmed themselves a million years ago with burning logs.

It would surprise our savage ancestors of the caves, that shuddered when they saw the lightning, to know that their descendants use the lightning now to cool a dining car and keep meat from decaying.

For information about cooling machinery, ask Mr. Wooley, of the American Radiator Company; Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., of General Motors, or Gerard Swope, of the General Electric Company.

PROF. SWEENEY, of Iowa State College, tells chemists assembled in Denver that science may turn out to be a Frankenstein monster. Says the professor:

"Nations fall when population becomes too crowded in a small area."

And, says he, feeding and clothing congested population is a problem.

Modern production could feed ten times as many people as there are on earth. The state of Texas, intensively cultivated, would feed the earth's population, clothe and house them and that entire population, by the way, could stand at one time on Staten Island, in New York harbor. The flying machine, taking men from their work to the distant hilltop residences, will soon settle the crowding problem.

THE OLD-FASHIONED woman, with old-fashioned good taste, is not extinct.

The Omaha Bee-News, intelligent newspaper which prints this column, says that when 1,886 women of Nebraska were asked to name their favorite song, their first choice was "The Little Brown Church in the Vale." Second choice was, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie;" third choice "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia."

Reno would be surprised to know how many husbands and wives with white hair sing "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," with no thought of changing partners.

FREDERICK G. BONFILS, owner of the Denver Post, another intelligent newspaper that prints this column, telegraphs this:

"In my opinion it's a cinch for Hoover."

He backs his opinion with reasons. Col. Bonfils, who never speculates, and does not need to, since he owns one of the most profitable newspapers in America, attaches perhaps too much importance to recent signs of life in Wall street.

EVEN THOSE convinced that the election of President Hoover would be the best thing for the country can hardly expect ten million idle men and their twenty million voting wives, sisters, aunts and daughters to feel cheerful merely because certain stocks, that they don't own, have gone up in price.

Business men who want to reelect President Hoover would better put five million men to work and let stocks stay where they are, rather than leave the ten million idle and put stocks up.

SCIENTISTS OF Johns Hopkins University, aided by other scientists from General Motors laboratory, in Denver, show a working model of a molecule of "chloro-benzine." The scientists show you how the different atoms act within the electron, although no human eye has seen a molecule.

A molecule of water, for instance, has two atoms of hydrogen and one atom of oxygen, and to make the molecule visible to the naked eye you would have to magnify the drop of water to a diameter of one hundred thousand miles. Of the atoms that make up the molecule, each is a little solar system, much like our own with its sun, called the nucleus or proton, at the center, and the electrons, its "planets," revolving around it.

ONCE MEN hunted only gigantic animals—bison, bear, wolf. Now science hunts creatures, too small to be seen, that cause our diseases.

Hitherto industry has occupied itself with gigantic machinery—locomotives, dynamos, turbines.

As the release of power in the atom approaches, we may change to studying the infra-microscopic machinery of the molecule and atom.

Thirty years ago Nikola Tesla, sitting in the old Delmonico restaurant at Twenty-sixth street and Fifth avenue, New York, held a wine glass in his hand saying:

"If I could release the power locked up in the atoms in this glass I would have energy enough to run a locomotive many times around the earth."

What imagination told Tesla, science is proving. Practical use of atomic energy is doubtless far away. When it comes it

BENJAMIN G. EYNON

Mr. Eynon, the "Benj. G. Eynon" on your auto license cards, who today at Harrisburg made known that he has been discharged as state commissioner of motor vehicles for issuing special license plates to the recently slain Volpes and "certain law-breakers." He denies it.

CANOE VICTIM'S BODY FOUND

Nearly 36 hours after he and his sweetheart were drowned in the Allegheny river when their canoe capsized, the body of Walter Davidson, 24, Duquesne University la wstudent, was recovered today.

The body of the young man's companion, Miss Dorothy Soeder, 23, Terre Haute, Ind., was found yesterday wedged in the overturned canoe.

Miss Soeder's father appeared at the morgue, early today, and identified his daughter. Arrangements were made to have her body taken to Terre Haute.

Soeder said he last saw his daughter Saturday, when he put her on a train for Pittsburgh. He said the tragedy occurred on the morning of Dorothy's birthday.

Davidson was employed in the patent department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

Amy Drops Hop To Join Mollison

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Capt. J. A. Mollison, famous British flier, who recently flew solo from Ireland to New York, said today he expected to start his flight back to Britain Friday. In London, his wife, Amy Johnson, said today she had reconsidered her plan to fly across the Atlantic, in deference to the wishes of Capt. Mollison.

Mrs. McCormick Retaining Strength

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick stubbornly retained her strength today in her remarkable resistance to the inroads of incurable illness. From her sickroom in the Drake Hotel came a bulletin describing her condition as "unchanged."

Homewood Bank Sale Approved by Court

Judge Thomas M. Marshall in court today approved the sale of the property of the Homewood Peoples Bank, which closed last fall, to the reorganized Homewood Bank at Pittsburgh, which is to open soon, for $75,000. The property consists of a new bank building in North Homewood avenue.

EYNON FIRED OVER VOLPE AUTO TAGS

Denies Issuing Plates Carrying Initials To Racketeers

HARRISBURG, Aug. 24.—Benjamin G. Eynon, deputy secretary of revenue, was discharged today because, it was charged, he had issued the much-coveted low-numbered automobile license plates to the Volpe brothers who were murdered three weeks ago in Pittsburgh.

Eynon denied the charge. He said the plates were issued to the Volpes by H. Richard Stickel, who succeeded Eynon as registrar of motor vehicles two months ago.

DISCHARGED BY LETTER

Eynon was discharged by Dr. Clyde L. King, secretary of revenue, by letter. Eynon said the letter was dated August 15, but he had not received it nutil Monday.

Eynon's statement said:

"The letter informs me that I am responsible for 'handing out of special numbers to law breakers.' I am also charged with having 'brought the work of the department into disrepute' because certain numbers were given to the Volpe brothers.

"These statements I deny. I have had nothing to do with handing out special numbers to the Volpe brothers.

"In my letter to Doctor King I have said I did not know the Volpe brothers and am informed by Mr. Stickel that he and not I assigned these numbers.

WITHDRAWAL BARRED

"Last November I was informed by memorandum that the Volpe brothers were under indictment. This file was referred to Mr. Stickel to withhold the issue of special numbers.' It was returned with the information that they had been issued and request made as to

Sinclair Lewis Asks Return of Saloon

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—"I believe absolutely in the return of the old-fashioned saloon," so said Sinclair Lewis, author, today, just before sailing for Europe. With Lewis, sailed his wife, Dorothy Thompson, and their son, Michael, 2.

Says Lottery Job Prevents Starvation

Jerome Maiorano, 22, of Shady avenue, testified in East End Police Court today he had been selling chances on the numbers lottery for a man known as "Flo" Nathan, to keep from starving. He was held for further hearing.

War Vet to Hang For Killing Girl

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 24.—(INS.)—Paul H. Kauffman, 33, Columbia (Pa.), World War veteran, today was sentenced to be hanged September 30, for the slaying of Avis Woolery, 17-year-old Webb City (Mo.), high school girl.

Mine Chief Freed On Assault Charge

GIRL TRAPS OFFICER FOR ROBBERS

2 Other Men Beaten, Attendant Kidnaped By Holdup Gangs

A trio of highwaymen, using a pretty girl as a decoy, staged three holdups early today, according to police reports.

The first victim of the gang was Constable M. J. McCann, of 2916 Stromberg street. He stopped his car in Glass Run road, Baldwin Township, at the signal of a young girl.

Three men with guns answered his "What's the matter, miss," and his gun, blackjack and wallet, containing $9, were taken from him, he reported to police.

An hour later three men, answering the same description, held up Charles Frederick, 35, no home, on the Glenwood Bridge, and beat him when they found he had no money, according to a police report. Frederick was removed to South Side Hospital.

Later, P. J. O'Donald, attendant of the Standard Oil Company station at the Boulevard of the Allies and Craft avenue, reported he was forced into the bandits' automobile and driven to Schenley Park, where he was robbed of $150. He walked home.

With the butts of their revolvers, two bandits beat 67-year-old William Wray unconscious in his barbecue on the Clairton road, near Wilson, shortly after last midnight. Wray told county detectives the thugs attacked him when he denied he had a large sum of money hidden in the shop. The bandits departed without loot.

Norman's Visit Puzzles British

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Today's newspapers, still puzzling about Montagu Norman's visit to the United States, continued quessing as to the reasons for his presence there.

The Laborite Herald suggested that Mr. Norman was secretly making arrangements which would commit Great Britain to an eventual return to the gold standard.

Menjou Boy Drunk, Murder Jury Hears

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—(AP.)—A physician and a police captain testified yesterday at the murder trial of Harold Menjou, 20, they believed he was intoxicated when his automobile overturned and killed Marjorie Gauthier, 16-year-old student.

The youth is the son of Mrs. A. L. Abrahams, former wife of Adolphe Menjou, film star, who adopted the boy.

JANET LEE HUTCHINSON, 6 . . . . . WAVING FAREWELL WITH HER SEA-FLYING DOLLY

Miss Janet, who with her father, mother and sister and a crew of four men, today continues over a far-northern route on the family's flight from New York to London in the "City of Richmond," a giant amphibian. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

Fliers in Ocean Race To Oslo Safe in Crash

Rivals at First Goal, Delay Sea Hop to Help Victims

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—What at first was an impromptu race from the United States to Norway today was halted by a mishap and the airman's code.

The wrecked airplane of Thor Solberg and Carl Petersen lay at Darby's Harbor, Placentia Bay, while the Green Mountain Boy, Oslo-bound from Barre, Vet., rested on the air field here with its fliers, Clyde A. Lee and John Bochkon, under orders to delay their hop for Europe so as to give any possible help to Petersen and Solberg.

Both planes had struggled through a heavy fog last night in vain efforts to locate the Harbor Grace airport. Lee and Bochkon brought their plane safely down on the beach at Burgeo and at daylight they continued their flight to Harbor Grace. Petersen and Solberg, the meager details available said, crashed at Darby's Harbor without injury to themselves but with considerable damage to their plane.

Hutchinsons Undismayed At Denmark's Warning

ST. JOHN, New Brunswick, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—Undismayed by refusal of the Danish government to accept responsibility if any trouble occurs in Greenland, Col. George Hutchinson and his "flying family" made ready today to take off on the second leg of their leisurely air journey to Europe.

With no more ceremony than that of the average family on a long automobile trip, the Hutchinsons—father, mother and little daughters—arose early today and breakfasted while their crew of four was busy refueling their amphibian plane for the jump to Port Menier, Anticostia Island.

Customs and immigration details occupied half an hour. The colonel's little girls, with dolls in flying togs tucked under their arms, waited impatiently during the necessary formalities, but amazed bystanders by their coolness and acceptance of the unprecedented air tour as little more than a lark.

Tear Gas Guards Pittsburgh Women

TORONTO, Ontario, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—A constable and a crowd of inquisitive citizens had a good cry when the constable reached into a parked car, touched what turned out to be a tear gas gun and set off a cloud of gas.

The car owners, two Pittsburgh women, told police it was lawful to carry such a gun in their state. Police did not take their names.

Roosevelt's Flying Campaigners Crash

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—Assemblyman Langdon Post and his pilot, James Elkus, on an air trip to the middle west in behalf of Gov. Roosevelt, crashed in the Ozark Mountains last night. Post notified friends today.

Neither he nor Elkus was hurt, but the plane was wrecked.

Ousted Minister Denies Barrel Fast

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—The Rev. Harold Francis Davidson, 60-year-old pastor recently ousted from the church, today described as "nonsense" a theatrical promoter's announcement that he would go on a 10-day fast in a barrell.

Seek to Save Man Trapped by Cavein

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—Firemen and a score of laborers worked feverishly here today to extricate a ditch digger who was buried alive when the walls of a 12-foot ditch in which he was working caved in and pinned him under tons of dirt and gravel.

PROCESSION 4 MILES LONG

Martial Law Urged In Illinois to Halt Invaders

STAUNTON, Ill., Aug. 24. (AP.)—A motor caravan four miles long, carrying striking miners, left here today for an invasion of the Southern Illinois coal fields, where they will attempt to dissuade their fellow miners from working under the new $5 wage scale.

Mine leaders prophesied the protest march would be the largest labor march in the history of the country. They estimated that at least 25,000 persons would be in the line of march before they camped tonight at Dowell.

THOUSANDS MASS

It was virtually impossible to estimate the number of miners in the monster parade. They were still arriving at Staunton when the procession started south. Recruits came from as far north as Peoria and Pekin and from as far east as Danville. Hundreds came from Taylorville where four big Peabody Coal Company mines are running with skeleton forces as the result of a successful march on the Taylorville district last week by thousands of diggers.

In line with orders that there were to be no arms among the marchers, leaders in charge of local contingents searched the automobiles. They said no arms were found. Intoxicants also were banned. The "big push" was conducted along military lines, with 32 sergeants in charge of preserving order.

A carnival spirit prevailed among the marchers. "Little Cigar," the Italian lad, who kept the picket line in Christian County in good spirits with his accordion music, pumped away at his instrument early today, entertaining the crowds.

MARTIAL LAW HINTED

BENTON, Ill., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Talk of martial law entered conferences today of Illinois National Guard officers and Franklin County officials conferring over the mounting problem presented by the impending invasion of strike-agitating coal miners from other sections.

A conflict loomed between civil officials determined to keep the invaders out of the county and military men bent on keeping the peace.

State Attorney John Hanson, of Perry County, which is adjacent to Franklin County, suggested to Maj. O. J. McMackin, of the National Guard, that martial law be declared with one officer in nominal charge and deputy sheriffs to enforce it.

Maj. McMackin, ordered here last night as an observer by Adjt. Gen. Carlos E. Black, of Springfield, pointed out that only the Governor could declare martial law, and that civil authorities would be supplanted. He relayed to Gen. Black a request of Sergeant No. 13, of the Illinois Highway Police, that all available motorcycle patrolmen be rushed into adjoining counties to keep peace on the highways.

WORKERS ARMED

The town was full of armed men who have elected to accept the new wage of $5 a day, against which the invaders are protesting. They lined the county border to the north and west, watching for the advance guard of invaders.

Mrs. Fannie Robinson, wife of Sheriff Browning Robinson, of Franklin County, asked Maj. McMackin to urge the state police to block the highways to the invaders. The woman, her husband's adviser, said:

"That's a mob. They aren't peaceful. They should be kept out."

GAS, GUNS USED IN FARM STRIKE

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 24.—(INS.)—Tea gas and pistol shots were used for the first time in the farm strike war near here early today when a dozen deputy sheriffs resorted to force to break up a blockade on a highway leading into Council Bluffs and Omaha from the Iowa side.

Three farmers were arrested and were being held in jail.

Tear gas bombs were hurled when 300 pickets turned on officers who ordered them to allow 10 trucks through their blockade. There were numerous fist fights and several farmers were bruised and cut.

The clash between officers and striking farmers occurred after authorities went to the scene of the blockade when complaints were made that all trucks were being refused passage.

Some 300 pickets on Highway No. 6 narrowly escaped injury when, as they were building a barbed wire fence across the road, a farmer intent on breaking through the blockade drove his truck at high speed into the barrier. Barbed wire and fence posts flew through the air, scattering the pickets in all directions.

Darrow Scores Law Used Against Labor

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Clarence Darrow, veteran Chicago criminal lawyer, attacked conspiracy laws last night as "children of the Star Chamber," tracing their origin in England to what he termed their misuse in the United States.

He spoke at a discussion given at the University of Chicago sponsored by the Student Bureau for Miners' Relief.

Pittsburgh Girl Leads Derby, Tuohy Out

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—J. H. Tuohy, Olean, N. Y., entry in the Cord Washington-Cleveland air derby who led the field at the end of the first lap last night, was disqualified today by the official scorers.

Announcement was made that Tuohy changed the propeller of his Waco plane at Atlanta, increasing the speed of the ship.

Derby officials said Tuohy informed them of the change at Atlanta, made necessary because the old propeller split and he was unable to obtain a duplicate. The two laps yesterday disclosed the new propeller materially increased his speed, officials said.

A point tabulation last night showed Tuohy leading, Fred Dorset, Augusta, Ga., second; S. C. Hufffman, Dayton, O., third, and Helen McClockey, Pittsburgh, fourth. However, this morning a recheck by Chief Scorer Clarence Bell revised the standings, giving the lead to Miss McCloskey after Tuohy had been disqualified. Miss Helen Richey, also of Pittsburgh, was in ninth place.

Raiders of 'Lysistrata' Ban Turtle Racing

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The police vice squad, which in the last year has raided the classic play "Lysistrata" as a leading theater, 20-cent burlesque shows and dog races, descended on a turtle racing course last night, arrested 15 men on gambling charges and rounded up 100 turtles.

Among the 15 was Tod Sloan, famous jockey of the past. Another prisoner was Louis Hirsch, asserted head of the enterprise.

About 200 persons were present when the officers walked onto the track at the conclusion of a somnolent "heat" and announced that the sponsors were under arrest for operating an option betting system. The track opened last Tuesday.

Steel Plants Here Await Repair Plans

Representatives of the Carnegie Steel Company today said they were without details of the proposed $5,000,000 expenditure for plant rehabilitation, announced by the United States Steel Corporation in New York yesterday. Part of the money is to be spent in Pittsburgh, according to the announcement.

M. E. DRY BOARD DENOUNCES HOOVER AS BETRAYER

ALLIED FORCES PRAISE HIS RUM PLANK

Rift Widens Between Prohibition Backers, Bitter Fight Seen

By PAUL C. YATES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The powerful dry organizations of America were split further today over President Hoover's stand on the liquor issue.

The Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church launched a blistering attack upon the President, accusing him of betraying the dry cause.

HOOVER PRAISED

At the same time, the Allied Forces for Prohibition praised Mr. Hoover's acceptance speech pronouncement on the liquor problem as "a clear-cut document of statesmanship."

A campaign of no quarter in its fight to retain the Eighteenth Amendment without modification, was sounded by the Methodist board.

Through Deets Pickett, its research secretary, this numerically huge organization declared:

"It would be idle to deny that the utterances of honorable and respectable political leaders, which are in keeping with the cries of the hoodlums who filled the galleries of the Chicago Stadium, have been bitterly disappointing to the supporters of the prohibition law.

"Particularly is this true in regard to the utterances of the President, made in his acceptance address.

'TURNED FROM FRIENDS

"It must have been with a heavy heart that the President turned from these loyal friends and joined hands with their enemies and the enemies of the Eighteenth Amendment. Those who so advised him did a disservice not only to their party, but to their country."

Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the Allied Forces for Prohibition, declared that the executives of his organization have voted to support Mr. Hoover. However, with the Methodist Board, the Anti-Saloon League and the W. C. T. U. breaking away from the President, the biggest bulwarks of his dry following have crumbled.

Third Party Hopes Of Drys on Wane

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 24.—(INS.)—Possibility of a third party arising to champion the cause of prohibition is slowly fading, Dr. Clarence True Wilson, dry leader, told International News Service at his country home in Gresham today. He said:

"The time is too short now for such concerted action. I am convinced, however, that millions of voters would have cast their ballots for such a party."

Dr. Wilson had just returned from a trip into Idaho, Wyoming and Montana. He conferred with Senator Borah while at Boise, saying:

"We had hoped to get Senator Borah to head a third party. The Senator seemed of the opinion that the time has passed for party organization."

Polk Mentioned For Walker's Job

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The Herald Tribune says Frank L. Polk, acting secretary of state under President Wilson, is being considered seriously as Tammany's candidate for Mayor in event James J. Walker is ousted.

While a close friend of leader John F. Curry, Polk has never been identified with the Tammnay organization.

Ask Permit for New Beechview Crossing

EYNON FIRED FOR VOLPE PLATES

what should be done. I sent the file back with the information that nothing could be done. The reason for this was that we had been informed by the Attroney General's office that once tags are issued we had no authority for withdrawal other than the specific reasons set forth in the code.

"In this case there was no specific reason because they had been paid for and issued in the regular course of business. If there was anything to cover certainly the correspondence would not have been sent to the files. Our files are open and there was nothing to conceal.

"I have been in the Bureau of Motor Vehicles since April 1, 1919, and this is the first time that any such statement has been made regarding my activities."

WILL NOT APPEAL

Eynon told the Sun-Telegraph by telephone that he did not plan to appeal his discharge. When asked if he thought Gov. Pinchot had a hand in the dismissal, he answered.

"I'm not doing any thinking."

The dismissal included Eynon's directorship on Gov. Pinchot's Committee on Street and Highway Safety.

Dr. King did not set a date of retirement and in his reply Eynon asked for his two-week vacation.

Volpe's 16-Cylinder Car Plates Carried Initials

Johnny Volpe sported one of the sets of license plates which brought about Eynon's dismissal. His impressive numerals were JV-8, attached to his sporty 16-cylinder coupe.

A year ago Johnny's license plates were even more impressive, being simply his initials—JV. But in the interim Johnny lost much of his political influence in Wilmerding and the JV plates went to John W. Vickerman, director of Allegheny County's Bureau of Elections.

Both Arthur and Jim Volpe, who were slain with Johnny in their booze headquarters in Wylie avenue, also drove cars, and at least one of them flashed low-numbered plates.

For some time it has been rumored that the Volpes were able to obtain their low-numbered plates through a Pittsburgh politician, a former newspaperman —who is no longer on the state payroll.

Cleared in Volpe Case, Cirone May Be Deported

Tony Cirone, 32, arrested as a suspect in the racket slaying of the Volpe brothers, today faced deportation to Italy on a seven-year-old murder charge.

Detective Walter Monaghan absolved Cirone of any connection with the Volpe case before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today, but said he had been informed by Federal immigration authorities that Cirone was wanted in Altavilla, Italy, on a charges of robbery and murder of a jewelry store owner. He was implicated by the confession of his accomplice, Monaghan asserted. Cirone was turned over to immigration officers.

An intercepted letter from Kansas City, advising Cirone to go there if "things got too hot in Pittsburgh," caused his arrest.

Frank Paulo, 30, of 2207 Imperial street, arrested after he was alleged to have boasted knowing "all about" the Volpe slayings, was turned over to Center avenue police today by Rothenberg as a tire theft suspect. Detective Monaghan said he, Paulo, knew nothing of the Volpe case.

Court Halts Bakery Use of Union Label

A preliminary injunction to restrain Morris Swimmer from using union labels on bread made at his bakery, 2400 Josephine street, was obtained in Common Pleas Court today as an aftermath of a strike of his employes called August 5.

The injunction was granted by Judge Thomas M. Marshall, and it is returnable August 30.

Transfer $30,000 To Mrs. Fry's Estate

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The estate of Mrs. Elizabeth W. Fry, who died in 1925, will receive $30,000 from the estate of her brother, John Wanamaker, an inventory revealed today.

The appraisement lists this amount as the value of a bequest from the merchant's estate. The bequest was originally $50,000, but was reduced to $30,000 under an agreement which provides that "a substantial portion of the estate be maintained for charitable purposes," of Mr. Wanamaker.

WARLIKE NAZIS DEFY REICH IN RALLY

Hitlerites in Rowdy Protest to Save 5 Doomed to Die

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Enraged by the imposition of a death sentence on five Fascists convicted of political murder, hundreds of National Socialist storm troops staged a demonstration today in front of the courthouse at Beuthen where the sentence was passed on Monday.

They turned out in defiance of a government declaration that the iron fist will fall upon all those guilty of political violence. The occasion was the arrival of Capt. Ernst Roehm, an emissary of Adolf Hitler, to confer with defense attorneys in an effort to liberate the condemned men.

SING BATTLE SONGS

Edmund Heines, a Nazi member of the Reichstag and a leader in the Beuthen district, apparently had ordered the men to turn out in uniform. Police reinforcements had difficulty keeping the crowd in hand as it surged through the streets singing Nazi battle songs and shouting "Free our men!"

Wilhelm Frick, chairman of the Nazi party in the Reichstag, sent a telegram today to Chancellor von Papen warning that disastrous consequences would result if the sentence of execution of the five men were carried out.

REICH WARNING

Issued jointly by the Reich and Prussian governments, a manifesto previously stressed that the severest penalties for political violence would be invoked "against every law breaker, regardless of person or party." It said:

"Acts of violence, which seriously prejudiced the authority of the Reich, necessitated President von Hindenburg's emergency decree of August 9 providing severest penalties for political violence.

"The terms of that decree must be imposed the same moment they were put into effect against every lawbreaker, regardless of person or party. The Reich's government will use all its power to make the law respected by everyone and will not allow anyone to revolt against it."

Man Saves 2 Girls From Blazing Auto

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—Two little girls were alive today, rescued from a flaming automobile by the father of one of them. Ruth Mortenson, 8, and Frances Johnson, 4, were sitting in an automobile while Ruth's father, Frank Mortenson, was filling the gasoline tank. The tank exploded. His own clothes ablaze, Mortenson jumped into the flame-sheathed car and dragged the children out. All three were in a hospital today, severely burned.

ROOSEVELT WET TALK SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, will speak on the thorny subject of prohibition at Seagirt, N. J., Saturday, James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, announced today.

Gov. Roosevelt will make a personal appeal tomorrow night over a nation-wide radio hookup to the rank and file of the Democratic party in an effort to fill the $1,500,000 presidential campaign war chest.

With campaign contributions running far behind the desired amount, the Democratic "high command" has decided to appeal to the "little fellows" for contributions ranging from $1 to $2.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Word has reached here that Speaker John N. Garner will begin an eastward journey about September 10 from his Uvalde (Tex.) home to open his campaign as Democratic vice presidential candidate.

SMITH AT WORK ON MAGAZINE

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Editor Alfred E. Smith plunged today into the task of recreating a magazine, letting folk speculate as to whether he intends to take the stump for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket.

Answering questions as to his plans for "the New Outlook," Smith said yesterday he would not go to Seagirt, N. J., Saturday for the Democratic gathering at which Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is to speak. As to his future activities, he said that, away from his post with the magazine:

"I can do anything I want to do."

"The New Outlook," nonpartisan, non-sectarian monthly, will arise in October from the ashes of "The Outlook and Independent" which suspended last spring and later was sold to Frank E. Tichenor, who will publish "The New Outlook."

Hurley to Address Rally in Providence

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, who will speak tonight in behalf of the Hoover candidacy at a Republican rally, arrived here this morning, accompanied by Mrs. Hurley.

Secretary Hurley is expected to reply tonight to the recent address at Columbus, O., of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for the presidency. This afternoon he spoke at the Rhode Island Republican Club clambake.

WALKER TRYING TO LINK HOOVER IN INQUIRY

Ouster Charges Held Outcome of G. O. P. Plot to Win Votes

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

ALBANY, Aug. 24.—"Behind the scenes" politics in the investigation of Mayor James J. Walker was due today for an airing at the removal hearing before Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt at the executive chambers in the Capitol Building.

The Mayor's aggressive counsel, John J. Curtin, prepared to summon to the witness stand W. Kingsland Macy, Republican state chairman, and seven other G. O. P. state leaders, in an effort to prove his charge that the investigation of Mayor Walker and Tammany Hall was inspired at a conference at the White House which Macy attended.

Macy was in the "Hall of Governors" as today's session began.

TAXI QUIZ CONTINUES

Edward M. Schindler, an independent taxicab operator, was the first witness.

Shortly before the hearing opened Curtin, the Mayor's counsel, filed a brief before Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley in which he declared that "a chaotic condition" will prevail in New York City if Walker is removed. The brief was in support of Curtin's contention that Gov. Roosevelt has no legal or constitutional authority to oust the Mayor.

Mayor Walker was immaculately attired, as usual, in court today. He wore a gray suit and gray shirt, a blue and gray tie and a blue and gray pocket handkerchief. He seemed to be in good spirits as he chatted with his legal assistants.

With night sessions in prospect to speed up the hearing, it was regarded as likely that Curtin will soon reach "the political phase" of the Walker case or, as he terms it, the "motive" behind the inquiry into the government of New York City by the Hofstadter legislative committee.

G. O. P. PLOT CHARGE

Curtin, referring to the alleged conference in Washington, claims that Walker was at the outset only a secondary target, the original plan being to disrupt the Democratic party in New York through an attack on Tammany so that the Republicans could carry the state in the November presidential election.

For two days, the Republican state leaders have been waiting to be called to the stand. But before summoning them Curtin has produced a group of witnesses who testified to other angles and ramifications of the intricate Walker case.

Paul Block, the millionaire publisher, Leonor F. Loree, the noted railroad executive, and half a dozen other witnesses, have come to the front and testified in Mayor Walker's behalf. Block was particularly loyal to the Mayor, refusing to be swerved from his defense of Walker by the most rigid cross examination by both Gov. Roosevelt and Samuel Seabury, the author of the 15 charges against the Mayor.

SEES RACKET IN DOCTORS' FEES

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Dr. William Walker, brother of the Mayor, was termed "a symptom and a sample of a great medical racket" by a grievance committee witness today.

Paul Blanshard, executive director of the city affairs committee so described the Mayor's brother at a preliminary hearing of the grievance committee of the state board of medical examiners.

He made his statement in continuation of his opening remark that he did not wish to make Dr. Walker an isolated victim of charges of fee splitting in connection with city compensation cases which his committee has filed against the Mayor's brother and four other physicians. Blanshard said:

"He is a symptom and a sample of a great medical racket. It would be as silly to remove him without getting at the racket as it would be to sew up a wound with proud flesh underneath."

Dayton Car Barns Swept by Flames

DAYTON, O., Aug. 24.—(INS.)—Fire swept through the barns of the Dayton Street Railway Company, here today, destroying 15 45-passenger and three work cars.

Eight 24-passenger cars were saved.

Court Case Raises Issue of Planes' Right-of-Way

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—When air traffic becomes congested and two planes meet, which has the right of way?

Judge Leo A. Murasky must answer the question in a suit asking $3,600 damages filed by Miss Afton Lewis, stenographer and amateur flier, and Alec Schwartz, veteran pilot, against Paul San Martin.

Miss Lewis alleges the plane she was piloting, owned by Schwartz, was wrecked and she was injured because San Martin's plane in landing passed her to the left instead of the right. She says San Martin's plane struck the lower wing tip of her ship, driving her to a forced landing.

Actress Dead, Mother Pushes De Forest Suit

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The mother of an actress to whom Dr. Lee De Forest allegedly agreed to pay $350 a month for 10 years filed suit against him for $35,150 in Supreme Court yesterday.

The elderly radio and talking picture inventor moved for a dismissal, declaring he had paid the woman "thousands of dollars in excess of my promises" and that she broke the agreement by leaving an apartment he had provided for her in February, 1930, two months afterwards.

The actress, Mrs. Henrietta Tilghman O'Kelly, killed herself by poison in January, 1931. Her mother, Mrs. Ethel M. Tilghman, said her daughter started the suit before her death and asked to be substituted as plaintiff.

She is suing for $2,800 she charged Dr. De Forest was in arrears to Mrs. O'Kelly, $2,950 for diamond bracelets he allegedly promised to redeem, and $29,400 as a continuance of the $350 monthly payments for seven years after her daughter's death.

A FEW WORDS concerning Zabala, amazing 19-year-old Argentine winner of the marathon.

When he finished his run of more than 26 miles, beating the world's picked runners, reporters described him "staggering across the line, exhausted."

Exhaustion had nothing to do with it. When the race was over Zabala said to W. G. Clark, of Los Angeles:

"When I saw that I was winning that race such a wave of emotion swept over me that I could hardly run, and actually staggered."

Emotion is more powerful than fatigue.

WHEN NEWTON had nearly finished calculations that were to verify and establish for all time his formula of the law of gravitation, and perceived that the calculations were coming out as he hoped, he was too much agitated to continue, and called an assistant to finish the calculations for him.

GRANDCHILDREN EXPOSE MAN AS SLAYER OF SON'S WIFE

CHAPLIN FIGHTS SONS' EARLY FILM DEBUT

Court Action Looms on Contract Signed by Former Wife

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—One of the greatest of all movie successes himself, Charlie Chaplin is so opposed to his two young sons starting in his footsteps at their tender age he plans court action to prevent it.

Counsel for the famous pantomimic artist said he intends to file, possibly by tomorrow, a petition contesting the rights of his divorced wife, Lita Grey Chaplin, to take the children into the movies without Chaplin's sanction.

CONSENT NEEDED

The former Mrs. Chaplin has had custody of the children since the sensational divorce some five years ago. She recently signed a contract for herself and the boys—Charles, Jr., 6, and Sidney Earl, 5, to appear in pictures for Fox Film studio.

Chaplin's lawyer, Loyd Wright, said the divorce agreement is worded to prevent the boys being started on a professional career except by mutual consent of the parents.

In the absence of comment from Chaplin, who was reported slightly ill at his home, Wright said the comedian feels that his sons are too young to be subjected to the influences of a movie career, that they should be given the best opportunity for normal boyhood development and allowed in later years to select their own careers—movie or otherwise. Chaplin also was represented as feeling that he had made ample financial provision for the boys.

LITA NOT INFORMED

Mrs. Chaplin said she didn't know anything about a court action and would have nothing to say until one is brought.

She is reported to have received a $650,000 settlement in the divorce and $1,000 a month for support and education of the children.

Chaplin, for the first time in two years, took the boys away from home for several hours Monday for a reunion, exercising his right under terms of the divorce to see them periodically. Yesterday he is reported to have made trust fund deposits providing incomes for them until each reaches the age of 25.

Weather Conditions.

The eastern high is centered off the Middle Atlantic Coast, and covers most of the eastern half of the country. A trough of low pressure extends from Manitoba southwestward over the Plains States to the far Southwest, with a center over the Dakotas. Another high covers the Northwest. The rainfall for the last 24 hours was limited to the Gulf States and to scattered small areas in the West. Due to the vast high pressure areas the skies are clear this morning over much the greater portion of the country. Temperature changes were slight. Maximum temperatures of 90 degrees or higher occurred yesterday over most of the Plains States as far north as northern North Dakota, and over the Ohio Valley to the state of Ohio.

River Conditions.

REYNOLDS HOME TO SIFT DEATH OF BROTHER

Kin to Study Tragedy Involving Libby and Victim's Friend

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—R. J. Reynolds, Jr., was back in his home town today presumably to investigate the death of his younger brother, Smith, who died two months ago of a bullet wound.

Although in seclusion, Reynolds was expected to confer with attorneys and relatives on the tragedy which cost his brother's life and resulted in indictment of Smith's widow, Libby Holman Reynolds, of Broadway fame, and Albert Walker, a friend, on murder charges.

Reynolds arrived here late yesterday by automobile from Miami, ending a journey nearly half-way around the world. He was cruising off the coast of Africa when informed his younger brother was dead.

Smith's widow has been in seclusion in Maryland since she surrendered to a murder charge in Wentworth, N. C., two weeks ago. Walker is at the home of his father here. Both are under $25,000 bond.

Answers Identical, Naval Academy Bars 17

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—When 17 identical answers are given to the same questions by 17 different young men, the Navy Department considers it somewhat more than accidental.

So the department has ruled that the 17, who took Naval Academy entrance examinations at Columbia, Mo., can never enter the Annapolis institution.

With the approval of Secretary Adams, the group were ruled guilty of collusion and were barred from again trying for the academy.

KILLED WOMAN TO CONCEAL ROMANCE

Confession Follows Story Told by Boy, Girl

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The innocent prattle of his two little grandchildren today led Charles E. Weeks, 42, Brooklyn undertaker, to break down and confess, according to police, the murder of his attractive daughter-in-law, Caroline Weeks, 24.

The comely woman, an expectant mother, was found garroted to death on a couch of her apartment in Brooklyn.

A strip of gauze, knotted at intervals, was tightly tied about her neck.

His nerves shattered after nine hours of questioning by police, Weeks nevertheless stuck to a story the young woman committed suicide, until he heard Dorothy, his 4½-year-old granddaughter, and her brother, Charles, 2, contradict parts of his recital.

Then his frayed nervous system was shattered entirely and hysterically he told of committing the crime because he was afraid a two-year love intrigue with his son's wife would be disclosed.

His earlier story was that he was passing the house when Dorothy summoned him to the apartment from a window, crying:

"Something's happened to Mama."

Detectives brought the children to the police station where Weeks was held for questioning and let them play, asking them questions now and then. In this way they learned Weeks called at the house without Dorothy's invitation.

PLANE SUICIDE'S BODY HUNTED

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Setting out at daybreak, searchers under the direction of Sheriff R. Glenn Prout, early today prepared to comb the marshes and woods along the ragged shore line of the South and Severn rivers near the Chesapeake Bay for the body of Miss Marjorie Fletcher, who leaped from an airplane near here yesterday.

Undaunted by his failure yesterday to find the body in the location pointed out by Roger Scott, pilot of the plane, the Sheriff extended the territory today to include all possible places where the body might have fallen after her 1,800-foot leap.

Miss Fletcher, native of Forestville, N. Y., was a graduate of Oberlin College and had been living with friends in Washington. Shortly after noon yesterday, Miss Fletcher hired a plane at Washington for a sight-seeing trip over Southern Maryland. Scott said she appeared all right until they neared Annapolis, when she leaped from the plane.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McConoughy, with whom she lived, said the woman probably was despondent over the loss of her mother, who died last January.

ENTER PLEAS IN LODGE LOTTERY

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Conrad H. Mann, of Kansas City, director general of the Fraternal Order of Eagles; Bernard C. McGuire, of New York, head of the B. C. McGuire Merchandise Company; Raymond Walsh, his aide; Frank E. Herring, editor of the Eagles magazine; M. J. Revise, of the Western Union Telegraph Company, and the telegraph company itself today pleaded not guilty to indictments charging them with promoting and distributing tickets for a lottery, and with conspiracy.

Bail was fixed for McGuire at $2,500, and for each of the other defendants at $1,000.

The arraignments took place today under only two of the four indictments returned last week by a federal grand jury as a result of United States Attorney George Z. Medalie's inquiry into the sale of alleged lottery tickets in connection with admission tickets to dances, receptions and other fraternal order affairs.

Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, who also was indicted, arranged last week to appear for arraignment after the Moose convention in Cleveland this week in which he is taking an active part.

Passenger Flight To Rome Delayed

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—The non-stop flight to Rome planned by William Ulbrich, pilot, with a girl and a man passenger, was again postponed today, due to adverse weather.

Ulbrich, whose scheduled companions are to be Edna Newcomer, nurse, of Williamsport, Pa., and Dr. Leon M. Pisculli, Yonkers, N. Y., said he would start as soon as bad flying conditions over the Atlantic improved.

EXPLORER DIES IN GREENLAND

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—The death of H. G. Watkins, young English explorer and scientist, while on an air route mapping expedition to Northern Greenland was revealed in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen today.

Watkins was drowned, the dispatch said, when his kayak (native hunting canoe) was overturned.

The accident occurred on August 20. Watkins left England some months ago as the leader of an expedition to the Greenland ice cap in connection with establishment of a regular commercial air route between Europe and America by way of the Arctic.

In 1931, Watkins led the expedition which resulted in the rescue of August Courtauld, another young British explorer, who was marooned for months in a tiny ice-covered hut in Northern Greenland.

TITLED WOMEN TO DEFY DESERT

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Lady Louis Mountbatten and the Marchioness of Milford Haven, both relatives of the royal family, are leaving England next week on an adventurous trip into the Persian desert. They will take with them neither companions, servants nor luggage.

The trip may occupy many weeks and the means of transportation they will use will include trains, ships, airplanes, horses, mules, camels and their own feet. The Marchioness said:

"We want to get away from people, towns and hotels. We shall take with us only the clothes we stand up in and one change, as well as a light tent and two sleeping bags."

She is 36 and her companion 31. The two travelers intend to depend entirely on their own resources and to enjoy themselves "roughing it."

'THIRD DEGREE' TRIAL BEGINS

MINEOLA, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Five Nassau County policemen were placed on trial today on an indictment charging first degree manslaughter in connection with the death of Hyman Stark, who died after police questioning.

One hundred of a special panel of 200 veniremen drawn for the case reported before Supreme Court Justice John B. Johnstone and the task of selecting a jury was begun.

The five policemen on trial are Deputy Chief Frank Tappen, Lieut. Jesse Mayforth and Detectives Charles Wesser, Harry Zander and Leslie Pearsall.

Eight other Nassau County policemen are under indictment for assault and conspiracy in connection with the death of Stark, who died of a fractured larnyx.

Doolittle Plane Mishap Threatens Race Plans

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Mechanics rushed an examination of Maj. James H. Doolittle's record-making airplane today to determine if damages suffered when the noted speed pilot made a forced "skid" landing were sufficient to keep him out of the Bendix trophy race from Burbank, Cal., to Cleveland.

Doolittle landed with a faulty retractable landing gear which kept him in the air nearly two hours yesterday on a test he had planned to last only 15 minutes.

Doolittle, who set a transcontinental flight record of 11 hours and 11 minutes a year ago, was unhurt. Preliminary examination, however, showed the plane's propeller blades were bent and a wing strut twisted. Doolittle said:

"I could have bailed out, but the plane would have been demolished."

The flier who won the Schneider speed trophy in 1925 and the Harmon trophy for blind flying experiments last year, brought the plane here several weeks ago in an effort to have its speed stepped up to 300 miles an hour.

Wild Pigs Peril 'Eden' Of Pair on Desert Isle

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 24.—(INS.)—The experiment of Dr. Frederick Ritter, of Berlin, and a woman companion in creating a twentieth century "Eden" on Charles Island, off the coast of Ecuador, is a success—but the pair is kept busy preventing wild pigs and insects from devastating their cultivated property.

That was the information brought back here today by Templeton Crocker, San Francisco capitalist, and a party of scientists, who collected several thousand rare specimens of bird, fish and plant life on a 900-mile cruise in the Crocker yacht, Zaca.

Dr. Ritter and the woman are voluntary "castaways" on Charles Island. They went there to "escape civilization."

A new car that needs a new word to describe it

So we call it TERRAPLANE

NOTE: This is a long advertisement, yes, but if you want to be informed on an automotive engineering achievement so substantial and far-reaching that it dates the new-type motor car from July 21, 1932, you will find it worth while to read every word.

TERRAPLANE!

That's the new way to get from where you are to where you want to be.

That's the new word to describe what the automobile industry has been groping for these many years in vain.

That's the new physical sensation in motoring needed to meet the down-to-earth demands of these deflated days.

Since the time of the old one-lunged side-winders, keen designers have known it had to come.

They knew in their consciences that roadability is king, and that weighting a chassis down with inert steel to make it rideable was not the answer.

Cycle cars, banties, midgets and the whole discarded lot were attempts to work it out.

But they didn't click, and until now, if you wanted anything but a black-and-blue ride you bought the extra tonnage and paid grimly to have it chugged around.

That was simply because attempts to get a real high power-to-weight ratio meant skimpy building along traditional, outworn lines.

Shedding Wasteful Avoirdupois

Until the ESSEX TERRAPLANE, every car, no matter what the size or price, has been built by perching a body on a chassis. The power-plant, wheels, frame and other chassis parts have been built in one unit, the body—often produced in a separate factory—in another.

The result has been a duplication of materials—and an automobile needlessly high and needlessly heavy. To offset this, costly cars have been ballasted with hundreds of deadweight pounds, and many inexpensive cars have been lightened to flimsiness.

In the TERRAPLANE, the body and chassis are of unified design, a single continuous unit skilfully constructed around a basic frame. The very floor of the car is the rigid centerbrace of the weaveless X-membered frame—the frame reinforces the body, the body the frame. Even the handsome instrument panel is a strength-member serving to reinforce the whole car by its truss construction. That is why the new ESSEX can be so safely low and still have the spaciousness that full comfort demands.

1932 — and it's different now

The new ESSEX TERRAPLANE in this year of 1932 knocks precedent for a row of f. o. b.'s and forecasts for the average man a radically new type of car.

Here certainly is the first combination of featherweight nimbleness and heavyweight stability and "road sense" which the motor car industry has ever engineered into the same automobile.

With it comes a new form of transportation, smooth and thrilling as flying, yet safe as terra firma, only to be described by a brand new word.

Save for top-speed, and that's only a matter of gear ratio, the stock TERRAPLANE will outperform anything you ever drove, — even the highway Pullmans that sell for ten times its price.

What a Car! — and the lowest-priced Six in America!

and up, f.o.b. Detroit

HERE IS A CAR WITH GETAWAY like a startled rabbit, that accelerates from 10 to 30 faster than any stock car built, regardless of price, size or number of cylinders;

—A CAR THAT SNUGGLES DOWN on the road and follows its nose with the surefooted steadiness of the best-handling heavy car you ever saw, and yet carries not one pound of weight more than it should;

—A CAR THAT SKIMS UP HILLS with quieter ease and more stuff to spare than any car now available in the market;

—A CAR THAT LACKS NOTHING in head-room, leg-room, shoulder-room;

—A CAR WITH THE HIGHEST PROPULSIVE EFFORT per pound of any production car built in this country or abroad;

—A CAR WITH SO LOW A CENTER OF GRAVITY and so low a total height that it offers safety-and-stability-at-speed in the extreme;

—A CAR WHICH COULD ORIGINATE only in the untrammeled atmosphere of a bold engineering department with the sympathetic encouragement of independent management.

Let's go Terraplaning

You'll never think of this ESSEX TERRAPLANE chiefly as a low-price car, because its low, trim, compact lines proceed from inspired design, not from rule-of-thumb mechanics.

A beauty to the eye it certainly is, but come slip under that wheel and let's go TERRAPLANING.

You won't move a hundred yards before you've caught the idea.

As you touch toe to the treadle and take off you are conscious of a smoothness as of flowing oil.

There's finesse in the action of that full 70-horsepower of six-cylindered pneumounted power—sweet quiet and velvet ease as well as a wallop.

There's no more vibration—anywhere throughout its speed range—than you find in a cake of ice.

Now you get it: if you've ever cruised the skies in a great airliner you recognize the sensation.

You're not exactly riding and yet you're not flying.

Brother, you're TERRAPLANING!

Soaring along the road because your weight sits down in and actually becomes a part of the car.

Not a chatter. Not a jar. Not a bounce. Not a bobble.

Just fluid motion as the TERRAPLANE answers—fun to ride and fun to drive.

Hills? You scarcely know they're there.

Curves? You take them in your stride.

TERRAPLANING! The nearest thing to flying possible on wheels!

Come see it! Terraplane! Compare!

The price figures place the ESSEX TERRAPLANE actually right down among and UNDER the former lowest-priced Three.

But that's a triumph of smart engineering and able manufacture, and not a sacrifice of the things you want.

Did you ever lift an old cane fish-pole after casting with a four-ounce fly-rod?

That's the difference between the TERRAPLANE and the older heavy brethren of the road.

Just give a glance at the performance chart based on tests made by the scientists of Guggenheim School of Aeronautics, New York University.

See what the TERRAPLANE did against the representative finest and costliest cars that American automotive genius has contrived.

That's the story—not to mention the bedrock economy with which the ESSEX does it.

Come on, take a TERRAPLANE ride!

JOB, CREDIT AID AIM OF HOOVER CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—More jobs and easier credit is the goal of the conference of America's business leaders opening here Friday with President Hoover.

The national gathering is timed to take full advantage of what the government believes is a definite upward break in the economic crisis and administration officials are optimistic.

Mr. Hoover believes if the flow of caiptal can be speeded up and the jobs passed around to spread buying power, the conference will have contributed a big boost for an economic rise.

DEMOCRATS TO AID

So on these two main objectives are focused one of the most representative meetings of American business leadership in recent years.

Democrats and Republicans are joining the push. Owen D. Young, of New York; Atlee Pomerene, of Ohio, the chairman of the Reconstruction Corporation, and Melvin Traylor, of Chicago, are among the outstanding Democrats who will participate as members of the 12 business and industrial committees of the Federal Reserve System.

Talk at the White House of spreading employment has led to a belief that the President will seek actively to spread the staggering of employment. This is a system whereby men would be employed for three or four days a week, thus necessitating more men for the jobs available.

A. F. L. Scores Hoover On Economic Program

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(Universal.)—While reporting a better business outlook, the American Federation of Labor today had criticised President Hoover's economic program as failing to get at fundamentals.

The present optimistic sprit, reflected in rising commodity and security prices, is not without foundation, the Federation's monthly survey of business said. It continued:

"But it takes more than a gleam of light to assure a clear day, and no one can tell yet whether the change from gloom to hope will be followed by real business improvement.

"Business cannot recover from the top down. Until production increases and workers have jobs, and their buying can bring orders from stores and factories and thence to farms and mines and increased railroad traffic, we shall have no real basis for business recovery. Workers' buying power, based on jobs, is the foundation. The gains so far have been in prices."

BOOTLEGGERS SEEK WINE 'CORNER'

Option Two Million Bottles of Cognac, Champagne

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—American bootleggers, facing the loss of their tremendously profitable industry, are attempting to corner the French champagne and cognac supply to resell in the United States if prohibition is repealed.

They expect to make a handsome profit in the first few years after the United States abandons the dry regime, it was revealed to International News Service today.

OPTION STOCKS

Instead of buying French stocks outright, they are trying to option them. This is working to the advantage of both the French growers and the American bootleggers. The bootleggers are putting up substantial sums for options. If attempts to repeal prohibition fail, the growers will pocket a good profit. If prohibition is repealed, the chances are that a ring of American bootlegger kings, whose names are being kept secret, will control a majority of the champagne and cognac stocks in France.

There are 170,000,000 bottles of champagne in stock in France today. An investigation in the champagne country around Rheims and Epernay and in the cognac country of Southwest France developed the thoroughness with which the Americans are combing those regions with offers for options.

Count Maxence de Polignac, head of the Pommery Champagne Company, at Rheims, told this correspondent today that for some time he has been receiving an average of two callers a day, seeking options on the Pommery stocks. M. De Polinac said:

REFUSES OFFERS

"They want us to gamble with them demanding a longer option and a smaller deposit if Hoover is elected and a larger deposit and shorter option if Roosevelt wins. Our company, however, is refusing to deal with speculators since we intend to open our own office in New York."

One American representative of a New York syndicate told International News Service:

"We now have more than 2,000,000 bottles of champagne and cognac tied up. The Frenchmen are happy to accept 10 per cent of the total value for a six months' option. By that time we will know which way the cat is going to jump and will certainly have the market well cornered."

BELFAST, Ireland, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Austin T. Boyd, director of Old Bushmills Distillery Company, left Belfast today for New York to make plans for selling whisky in America if prohibition is repealed. He said:

"We are confident that the United States is going wet after the presidential election. Already we have received many trade inquiries from America."

Scott Funeral.

Funeral services for James H. Scott, 78, a retired library curator, who was in charge of the North Side Carnegie Library nearly a third of a century, were to be held this afternoon in his home, 1320 Arch street. He died Sunday night. Mr. Scott at one time was a fireman in old No. 3 Engine Company, Arch street, and entered the library service after an injury to his leg, received while fighting a fire. He was the oldest employ in any Carnegie Library in the world in years of service and began his library career in 1890 when the North Side Library was opened. He retired in 1923. He leaves his widow.

Kestner Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Kestner, 83, who died yesterday, will be held from her home, 21 Curtain avenue, Allentown, at 8 a. m., Friday, with a requiem high mass in St. George's Church at 9 o'clock. She was a member of St. George's Church. She leaves two sons, Frank and Charles V. Kestner, and a daughter, Mrs. William C. Reinhart.

Mrs. William E. Standeven.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Louise Thompson Standeven, formerly of Edgewood, at her home in East Aurora, N. Y. Mrs. Standeven is the daughter of the late John C. and Frances Ella Snell Thompson, of Edgewood. The funeral services were held Monday from her late home. She leaves her husband, William E. Standeven; a daughter and a son.

Belvin Funeral.

Funeral services were held in Richmond, Va., today for Mrs. Preston Belvin, wife of a well-known businessman and mother of Mrs. Charles Kruse, formerly of Pittsburgh, whom she frequently had visited here.

$5,500 AWAITS CLAIMANTS

Pittsburgh relatives are being sought to share the $5,500 "poke" left by John Thomas (Old Tom) Cannons, 72, an Alaskan "sourdough," who died several days ago, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Seattle, Wash.

Old Tom's money belt was left in trust with a Seattle bank for someone who has an honest claim to it. He was said to have brothers and sisters in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

He was born in Ireland. His mother's maiden name was Nora Carr.

HOOVER GAINS ON ROOSEVELT IN POLL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—President Hoover slightly improved his position in today's tabulation of ballots in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

With 80,472 votes canvassed, Hoover has 391 more who voted Republican in 1928 now supporting him than Gov. Roosevelt has of 1928 Democrats. Yesterday Roosevelt had 131 more Democrats than Hoover had Republicans.

EASTERN RETURNS

The Hoover gain in the party vote was brought about by the addition of 737 Republicans to the Hoover column as against only 330 Democrats to Roosevelt in new returns from New Jersey; and 1,100 Republicans to Hoover against 1,006 Democrats to Roosevelt in added returns from New York state.

As a result of these gains, the percentage of 1928 Republicans now supporting Hoover rose from yesterday's 59 to 60 today, while the percentage of Democrats of four years ago now supporting Roosevelt dropped from 96 to 95.

SWING IN SOUTH

Roosevelt maintained a tremendous advantage in the returns in the vast number of former Hoover supporters now favoring the Democratic nominee. The swing from Hoover appears centered in the normally Democratic solid South, the corn belt of the Middle West and on the Pacific Coast. The South appears to have returned solidly to the Democratic column.

Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska in the Middle West and California and Washington on the Pacific Coast are outstanding examples of Republican defections. In California the former Republicans now backing Roosevelt outnumber those supporting Hoover by more than three to two.

SLIGHT MARGIN OF ROOSEVELT CUT IN N. J.

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—New Jersey became dangerously close with today's tabulation of ballots in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

By the splendid margin of forty-three one-hundredths of one per cent, Gov. Roosevelt held on to the 16 electoral votes of that state with 3,020 Jersey ballots counted. The Roosevelt majority now stands at only 26 as against 177 prior to today. A swing of men votes to Hoover was responsible for this inroad into the Roosevelt lead. Roosevelt continues ahead among women voters in that state.

While Roosevelt suffered this setback in New Jersey, he substantially increased his lead in New York state from the 350 majority of yesterday to 853 today. New York City accounted for this Roosevelt gain. He obtained the better share of both the men and women votes recorded, 3,043 new ballots being added to the New York count.

With some scattered returns from other states a total of 80,472 ballots now have been tabulated for the country as a whole. Of these, Gov. Roosevelt has a 5 to 3 advantage. His total is 50,221 to 30,251 for President Hoover.

URGES WARNING SIGN AT TUBES

Warnings to motorists against stopping in the Liberty tubes to change tires or make mechanical adjustments should be erected at the entrances to the tunnels, Allegheny County's Commissioners were told by the Pittsburgh Motor Club today. Tales of rough treatment of motorists not familiar with traffic rules in the tubes were relayed to the commissioners by the club. In one instance, the commissioners were told, an officer shoved a car from the jack upon which the driver was changing a tire and forced him to continue on a flat tire.

JOB INCREASE SEEN IN STATE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—A slight improvement in Pittsburgh's steel and iron industries during July was reported by Lewis G. Hines, state director of the United States Employment Service, in a statement which noted that employment increased during the month in several of Pennsylvania's major industries.

The report said additional workers were engaged in steel and iron operations; that textile mills recalled a great number of employes, and noted gains in clay, chemical, rubber, electrical appliances, hardware and other industries. Activities in bituminous coal fields remained "greatly curtailed" and printing and paper houses were reported as operating slightly below normal.

Man in Jurges Case Fined on 3 Counts

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Lucium Barnett, real estate dealer, accused of illegally retaining letters written to Violet Valli Popovich, erstwhile chorus girl who shot Bill Jurges, shortstop with the Chicago Cubs, was fined $100 and costs on three charges in Municipal Court yesterday.

Barnett was convicted of assault, resisting an officer and disorderly conduct. Charges of extortion and larceny were set for a later date. Barnett was accused by Miss Valli of gaining possession of letters written by Jurges and attempting to sell them.

Harlan War Figure Faces New Charge

HARLAN, Ky., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—William Burnett, miner acquitted after the first trial resulting from Harlan County's mine labor disorders, was arrested yesterday on a charge of shooting with intent to kill in connection with the same disorder.

Burnett was tried on a charge of murdering Deputy Sheriff Jess Pace at Evarts in 1931, Harlan County's first mine labor fatality.

Man Slain in Fight Over Arbor Building

WEWOKA, Okla., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Willie Bemo and John Gibson, Indians, couldn't agree, authorities said, on the method of constructing a brush-arbor at an Indian tabernacle near here. As a result, Gibson is dead from gunshot wounds and Bemo is held in jail to face murder charges.

ACTION SPEEDED ON CITY BUDGET

City department heads were instructed today by Mayor Kline to have 1933 departmental budget estimates in his office by September 25.

It was said the order was given to facilitate an early start on preparation of next year's budget. Directors and bureau heads will be asked to pare their expense to the bone.

After the Mayor inspects the estimates the city cost accountant will study them and then Council, headed by Finance Committee Chairman W. Y. English, will prepare to set the 1933 tax levy.

Municipal and civic organizations, including the Building Owners' and Managers' Association, Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, Chamber of Commerce and League of Women Voters will be invited to join Council in deliberations on the budget.

ACQUITTED MAN SUES PFARR

Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr was made defendant in a $10,000 damage suit filed in Common Pleas Court, the plaintiff being John Carrington, of Coraopolis, who charged Pfarr maliciously made an information charging felonious burning.

The action was brought November 4 against Carrington before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan who held Carrington for court. He was required to give bond. Carrington through his counsel, Herman C. Hofacker, says he was tried January 28 and acquitted. He declares the action brought by Pfarr caused him great humiliation and expense.

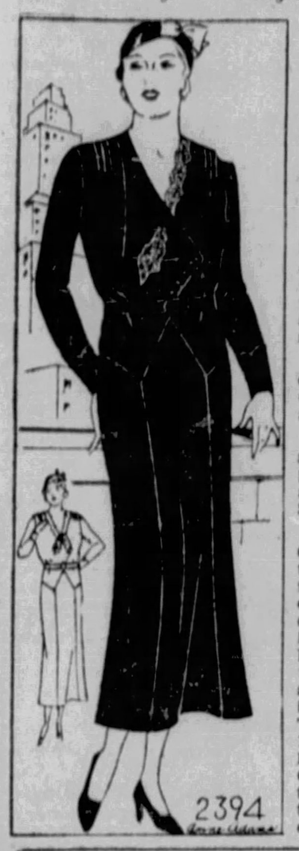
Slim Lines for Matron

Pattern 2394

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern



Step-by-Step Instruction Diagrams Included With This Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

One can't emphasize half enough the importance of slimming lines so prevalent in the present mode. This frock has been designed carefully with that very thought in mind. For example, note the pointed seaming, flattering rever and stunning new one-side treatment of lace at the neckline. It is one of those models that never fail to improve one's appearance. It may be made like small sketch, also.

Pattern 2394 may be ordered only in sizes 36 to 46. Size 36 requires 3½ yards 39-inch fabric and 1 yard 1½-inch lace.

OLD BOND FIRM FACES CHARGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—S. W. Straus & Co., described as the oldest real estate bond house in the country, had been called upon today to show cause why it should not be restrained from selling securities except under conditions laid down by the Attorney General.

One condition would require the company to make disclosures to its clients of the true value of the properties against which it sells bonds. The Attorney General's office, in applying for an injunction, alleged this had not been done in the past.

S. J. T. Straus, chairman of the board, issued a statement declaring the material allegations in the petition were not true.

Deputy Attorney General Lazarus Joseph, who filed an affidavit with the petition, charged that salesmen for the company switched customers from interest-paying bonds to bonds that were in default, and that they received extra commission for doing so.

Man's Body Hooked By River Fisherman

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(INS.)—While trolling for sturgeon in the St. Lawrence River near Chippewa Bay, Maj. Joseph Caccavajo, of New York and Little Falls, N. J., hooked the body of a well-dressed man of about 35 and brought it to the surface. The line broke and the body sank in 25 feet of water. State troopers resumed grappling operations.

Authorities believe the victim fell or jumped from a steamship and the body was carried in by the swift current.

Fairbanks to Sail For Tiger Hunting

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—Douglas Fairbanks, actor, will depart tonight for San Francisco to sail Thursday for a tiger hunt in the wilds of Manchuria. He will be accompanied by Mary Pickford, his wife, as far as San Francisco. She will return here to finish a picture. Later, Miss Pickford will join Fairbanks in China and they will visit in Russia and France.

YOUTH, ACTRESS TRYING TO WED

PARIS, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—John Amery, son of the adviser to the British delegation at the recent imperial economic conference in Ottawa, said today that he is determined to marry Una Wing, an actress, despite his family's opposition and difficulties with legal technicalities.

They were to have been married in London on Monday, but his family halted the ceremony, asserting the young man was still a minor. They came to Paris and encountered legal difficulties. Now, he said, they intend to go to Biarritz and then to the Spanish-Portuguese frontier where he expects the requirements will not be so rigid.

Patricia Pitt

Almost as much enthusiasm is being evinced these days in the smaller social affairs as in the large ones of past years. The horse shows always were well patronized by the smart set, but now that they have been cancelled this season, a great deal of interest has been aroused in polo and the steeplechases planned by the Pittsburgh Hunt Club. The parking space reservation list grows day by day for the first chase to be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Among additional names on the list are Dr. Ralph W. Lynch, George Vang, Mrs. A. Rex Flinn, Mrs. John D. Evans, Mrs. Wallace Rowe, Jr., Dr. M. S. Redmond, Mrs. Houghton Phillips, Mrs. Lewis A. Park, John W. Lawrence, Mrs. A. K. Davidson, S. A. Keister, H. W. Ferree, H. R. Hilliard, W. C. Robinson, Jr., Charles Kohne and Mrs. Carl H. Borntraeger.

Seven Entries

And already seven entries have been made for the children's one-half-mile race. Marian McCague has entered "Peanut" and Mollie Hays, an expert young rider, will enter one horse, name unknown. Henrietta Gould and her sister, Peggy, also will ride, and Nancy Patterson will be seen atop Red Wing, and Jane Flaccus upon Rockaway. Swift Shuffle has been entered by Joe Roberts, the only boy so far on the lists.

John W. Lawrence and Col. George H. Cherrington will be stewards for the races and judges include Torrence Miller and John Ormsby Burgwin. Paddock judge will be George William Jack and starter will be George R. McNary.

In Bridal Party

A wedding in the East on September 2 will include a Sewickley girl in the bridal party. She is attractive Virginia Doyle. The bride will be Mildred Ross, daughter of Mrs. John Henley, of Madison, N. J., who will marry Theodore Engle Eckseldt, of Chestnut Hill, that day. The bride-elect, you know, is a granddaughter of David B. Oliver, of Pittsburgh, and a frequent visitor here.

Virginia's mother, Mrs. Charles L. Doyle, entertained yesterday at an informal luncheon at the Allegheny Country Club in honor of the Marchesa Dusmet, of Rome, the guest of her mother, Mrs. James B. Oliver, of Shields. Mrs. Doyle also will attend the Ross-Eckseldt wedding, leaving on Friday for Madison.

One of the popular members of the younger set, Carolyn Clare Snow, daughter of the L. Blaine Snows, of Kinsman road, a visitor recently in Minneapolis, as the guest of the Dwight P. Yerxas, and Loraine Briggs, of Chicago, a former school friend, is returning to Pittsburgh this week.

Martha Sheers Receives Her Master's Degree

Miss Martha Sheers, daughter of George F. Sheers, of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, received her master's degree at Cornell University on Friday, and will teach this fall in the Nyack (N. Y.) High School. Miss Sheers is also a graduate of Pennsylvania College for Women.

Miss Schnitzer Weds Man From Scotland

On Sunday evening in the Venetian room of Webster Hall, Miss Marian Schnitzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Schnitzer, of Bryn Mawr road, became the bride of Usher Solstone, son of Abe Solstone, of Edinburgh, Scotland, at a beautifully appointed ceremony. Officiating was Rabbi Goodman A. Rose, before an altar of ferns, pandannas and summer flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and father, wore a simple gown of crepe in an off-white shade, and her veil of tulle cascaded from a cap of tulle caught with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried white roses and orchids showered with lilies of the valley. Mrs. Edward Scrull, of Baltimore, formerly Miss Alice Perloff, of Pittsburgh, was matron of honor and wore her wedding gown of white jericho crepe and carried red roses. Miss Anne Alpern, in pink chalk crepe, and Miss Sylvia Friedman, of Washington, Pa., cousin of the bride, in aquamarine point d'esprit, were bridesmaids. They carried talisman roses.

Harry Fisher was his cousin's best man and ushers included a brother and cousin of the bride, Ted Schnitzer, and Ted Miller, of Baltimore.

The bride's mother wore a Sunday night frock of beet root velvet with a shoulder corsage of pink roses. Miss Dorothy Friedman, another cousin of the bride, sang.

There was a reception immediately after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Solstone leave Pittsburgh on Sunday for New York to sail for Edinburgh, Scotland, where they will make their home.

Potts, of Greensburg, on September 3 in the McCullough home. The Rev. George Fisher, of the Highland Presbyterian Church, will officiate. The wedding will be very informal with just the members of the two families attending.

Rose M. Levine Selects Sept. 4 as Wedding Day

September 4 is the date chosen by Miss Rose M. Levine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Levine, of Bryn Mawr road, for her marriage to Harry Shriber, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Shriber, of Stanton avenue. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock in the B'nai Israel Synagogue with Rabbi Benjamin A. Lichter officiating. Ann Levine will be her sister's maid of honor and Max Shriber wil serve as best man.

NEW FRENCH STYLES SIMPLIFY GETTING IN AND OUT OF DRESSES

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 24. — The dress which had to slipped on over the head and struggled with every time it was put on or taken off, is now listed among old-fashioned ideas. At least this is the claim of the majority of the fashionable dressmakers of Paris. New French styles are planned with the idea of simplifying life from at least one angle—that is, in lessening the time required to dress well.

* * *

THERE ARE any number of new methods of fastening dresses and blouses which obliterate the old-time wrestling required to get into and out of a slim frock. The coat-dress, which wraps about one's figure like a topcoat, is one; the dress which has an opening reaching well below the waistline, and is easy to button and unbutton, is another; a third is the dress which fastens down the center-back or side-back.

* * *

ELA SCHIAPARELLI is one of the designers who is particularly adept at figuring out new ways of fastening dresses without clinging to classic methods. Practically every frock in her collections are built on the easy-to-get-into plan; they even eliminate buttons, buttonholes, hooks and eyes and all other familiar methods of fastening and make use of clips that are easy to maneuver.

* * *

TODAY'S DRESS is one of Schiaparelli's. It is of heavy crinkly silk crepe in a new color which is a cross between mauve and grege, yet darker than both. The clips are in galalith in the same color as the dress.

* * *

THE BRUYERE sailor hat, of black felt, with an upturned brim, is especially interesting for its trimming—a flat silver ring which rests against the fold at the top of the crown. The pumps, from Hellstern, are dark brown and have a little braided decoration of the leather across the vamp.

Scout Director To Join Party Of Leaders

Miss Josephine Schain, national Girl Scout director, will join the group of Girl Scout leaders who are starting on a 200-mile trip through the rolling hills of the Sacramento and the Guadalupe Mountains in Southeastern New Mexico this week. The group will leave Camp Mary White, in Roswell, N. M., on Friday, and their objective will be the Carlsbad Caverns.

The pack trip, which is an annual feature of Camp Mary White activities, will last until September 8. It is limited to experienced riders and campers over 18, and will be led by Elza White, veteran cattleman and father of Mary White, member of the national Girl Scout field staff. Another member of the expedition will be Carl Livingston, archaeologist.

Miss Schain will stop en route to New Mexico to meet the Girl Scouts who are taking the Gypsy trail trip through the Ozark Mountains in Missouri.

McKeesport Scouts To Survey Traffic

A three-day traffic survey of McKeesport's business district will be made this week by Boy Scouts under the direction of the McKeesport Better Housing Council.

The purpose of the survey is to obtain data upon which the council may make recommendations for the removal of vacant and unsightly buildings to create additional parking space in the congested area.

Dean of Americans In Paris Now 90

Jewish Juniors To Assist at Bundle Day

Not only will Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Juniors, assist the senior council at its Service Shop bundle party next Wednesday afternoon at the Hotel Schenley, but the occasion will mark the beginning of a new Service Shop activity on the part of the juniors. During the coming season, a junior is to aid at the shop every day by serving as cashier.

Service Shop work is only a part of the juniors' social service committee activities, which also include assistance at the Tuberculosis League and co-operation with the workreator plan, which several other organizations are promoting in order to create employment.

Mrs. Louis Ruben, chairman of the junior committee, and her aides will have charge of the table for bundles brought by juniors. Also they will assist Mrs. Clara Jacobson with the fortune telling and will keep a registry for the junior members present. The aides are Mrs. Peter Cooper, vice chairman; Mrs. E. A. Keizler, Miss Florence Marcovsky, Miss Dorothy Rubenstein, Miss Riv Kimball, Mrs. Joseph Orringer and Miss Laura Kraus.

Allen, of Middletown road, Ingram, their daughter, Miss Beulah Belle Allen, became the bride of John Verner Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest V. Brown, of Sheraden. Officiating was the Rev. W. T. Hartley, of the Crafton Heights Methodist Episcopal Church.

The bride wore a dark blue crepe traveling costume, with a corsage of delphinium and gladiolus. There were no attendants.

Later in the afternoon there was a dinner for 20 guests, members of the families, after which Mr. Brown and his bride left for a two-week motor tour of the New England states. After September 7 they will be at home in Middletown road.

200 at Benefit Of Fox Chapel Garden Club

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

More than 200 guests, all attired in charming summer frocks, attended the benefit held yesterday by the Fox Chapel Garden Club at the home of Mrs. W. M. Henderson, Squaw Run road. Tables for bridge occupied several rooms and were placed on the terraces for those who preferred outdoor playing. Many of the guests chose swimming in preference to cards and the beautiful pool was a lively place all afternoon.

Two young girls, Patsy McKillips and Sally Royston, sold cigarets, and Mrs. John A. Ellen, chairman of the benefit, had as aides Mrs. F. L. Bishop, Mrs. Charles Stewart, Mrs. W. A. Royston, Mrs. B. L. Sichelsteil, Mrs. Francis Harbison, Mrs. W. J. Burnap, Mrs. J. B. McKillips, Mrs. W. L. Hague, Mrs. Jack Lewis, Mrs. C. L. Snowdon, Jr., Mrs. Harold E. McCamey and Miss Esther Flynn.

At Tea Tables

Mrs. A. P. Hill, Mrs. J. E. Lewis and Mrs. A. P. Meyer, president of the Garden Club, presided at the exquisitely appointed tables, where the center pieces were lovely arrangements of garden flowers.

The hostess wore a simple little summer frock of printed coral chiffon. Mrs. Ellen was in blue crepe with white, and Mrs. Bishop also wore a blue print. Mrs. Wallace H. Rowe, in apricot, entertained a party at one table and at another Mrs. George M. Law, in a rust-colored ensemble with broad-brimmed hat of dark blue, was the hostess.

Mrs. O. W. Oppenheimer looked smart in white, with touches of red and blue, and Mrs. A. M. Oppenheimer was entirely in white. Mrs. Raymond Kaufmann's frock was a green print. Miss Mary Henderson, sister-in-law of the hostess, chose a white crepe with heavily-embroidered panels of pale blue and apricot. Mrs. John Follansbee wore blue crepe; Mrs. T. W. McFadden was in blue and white. Mrs. J. G. Chalfant in gray chiffon with a red hat, Mrs. H. C. Loudenbeck in a dark red and white ensemble, Mrs. George Wittmer in pink crepe with a white hat, Mrs. John M. Phillips in apricot crepe, and Mrs. James Shilliday in a white sports dress with pink straw hat. Mrs. E. R. Gardner, in white with touches of orange, was hostess to Mrs. John Hermes, Mrs. W. J. Shortreed and Mrs. Samuel E. Diescher.

Enjoy Swims

Out at the pool one glimpsed Mrs. John Robb, Miss Betty Ransom, Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, Jr., Mrs. G. M. Durschinger, Jr., Mrs. Henry Hanna, Miss Olivia Boss, of Washington, a niece of the hostess, who is spending the summer with her; Mrs. Nelle Moore Sprowls and many others who divided their afternoon between the pool, the lovely gardens and the house.

The proceeds of the affair, by the way, are to go to the club's welfare work in O'Hara and Indiana townships, and for the same purpose Mrs. Ralph E. Flinn will entertain on September 20. The club's regular meeting is to be held next Wednesday at Mrs. Francis Harbison's home on the Hunt road. Then on September 28 a flower show will be given at the Pittsburgh Field Club. It will not, however, be open to the public, but only to an invited list. Mrs. W. A. Wilson is chairman and Mrs. W. P. Langworthy, Mrs. R. F. Edgar and Miss Esther Flynn have been named hostesses.

Social Calendar Of Wilson Club Promising

A garden party, a bridge tea, a student-aid benefit, the annual Christmas luncheon, a mid-winter tea and the annual spring luncheon and reunion are among the many social events listed for the coming season by the Wilson College Club. The garden party, which is to be Saturday, September 10, is to be at the summer home of Mrs. Joseph M. Johnson, Lincoln highway, McKeesport, and will be in honor of the girls who were graduated from Wilson this year.

The bridge tea will be held at the home of Miss Hannah J. and Miss Helen Patterson, Linden avenue, on Saturday, October 22. November's event, the student-aid benefit, will be on the twenty-fifth and is scheduled to take place at the College Club.

Mrs. Cassius Jackson Keyser, president of the Wilson Alumnae Association, will be speaker and guest of honor at the Christmas luncheon, an event which is to be held at the Twentieth Century Club on December 27. At the mid-winter tea, in the home of Mrs. Edward Rolfe Williams, Macon avenue, on February 25, Miss Margaret Disert, registrar at the college, will be guest of honor.

Honors will be shared at the spring luncheon by Miss Helen V. Martin, a Wilson alumna, who is on the staff of the Delineator, and Dr. E. Grace White professor of biological sciences at the college.

Bald Men Scored As Horrible Example

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—The much-maligned wig had a new champion today—Miss F. Tobey, transformation specialist. Speaking to delegates at the American Cosmeticians' convention, Miss Tobey described baldness as "a horrible example" and declared that men should wear wigs for the sake of their wives, if for no other reason.

'LADIES' NIGHT' -:- Feminine Songbirds Take Spotlight -:- ON THE AIR

Countess Albani, Gladys Rice Ruth Etting Radio Stars; 'Pirate Gold' Drama

It's "ladies' night" on the air.

No less than five outstanding feminine song-birds take the spotlight in radio's realm tonight and promise an evening of enjoyable music, ranging all the way from the operatic and classical to jazz and "blue" numbers. Countess Olga Olbani, dark-eyed Spanish beauty, returns for her third broadcast on that tire program heard over WCAE at 9 o'clock with the Revelers. Her numbers include the new popular waltz, "Masquerade;" the Russian gypsy air, "Dark Eyes," and Noel Coward's "Someday I'll Find You." Following on the same station at 9:30, Gladys Rice, soprano, introduces a new arrangement of "Trees," with Nat Shilkret's Orchestra, while later she is accompanied by the Men About Town trio in "You Forgot Your Glove."

Miss Rice

Countess Olga Albani, dark-eyed Spanish beauty, who returns as guest artist in the tire program on WCAE at 9 tonight.

Pittsburgh's own contribution comes from KDKA in the person of Sarah Logan, contralto, who is heard at 8:15 in a program including "In the Luxemburg Garden" and "I Hear a Thrush at Eve."

With Old Sol due to hide his face next week, Ruth Etting turns from her famous "Harvest Moon" to assurance that "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise" as a feature of her performance with Nat Shilkret on that "program that satisfies," heard over WJAS at 10.

Kate Smith apparently has declared it "Sweetheart Night" for her appearance over WJAS at 8:30, when she sings "Goodnight, Sweetheart," "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," "Nobody's Sweetheart Now," "Sweetheart," from "Maytime," "You're Still That Old Sweetheart of Mine," and "Dream Sweetheart."

* * *

Program Pointers

Alexander Roy, tenor, and Frederick G. Rodgers, baritone, offer "Moonlight on the River" and "The Night When Love Was Born" during their "Westinghouse Watchman" program from KDKA at 6:30. Russell Merritt and Aneurin Bodycombe, pianist, present "Drums Singin' Sam, on WJAS at 8:15, gives Little Jack Little's latest composition, "There's Oceans of Love," together with old favorites, including "Memories and Roses."

Mr. Roy

A tale of "Pirate Gold" and of Captain Kidd is dramatized by NBC actors over WCAE at 8:30. It's the story of a search for buried treasure.

Government economies are stressed in a talk by Representative Joseph B. Shannon, of Missouri, during the American Taxpayers' League program over KDKA at 8. His topic is "Taxation and the Government in Business."

Ward Wilson mimics "Eddie McGurk," the hard-boiled sports announcer played by Ray Knight, on KDKA at 7:15.

* * *

Fan Fare

Nancy Garner, cousin of Speaker John N. Garner, who's heard on WCAE during the Musical Comedy Hits programs, goes in for red in a big way. She likes red beads and always carries a red handkerchief... The summer heat doesn't prevent Col. Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle from working overtime in his laboratory. Recently he emerged with a revolving goldfish bowl so the fish won't have to swim around.

Miss Garner

... Louis Dean, CBS announcer, will join the Four Eton Boys in making "organiogues"... Benny Kreuger has had the same saxophone for 10 years and has worn out almost 2,000 reeds and five cases equipping it.

There is a story about the Columbia announcer who thought it was a gag when he was handed continuity reading as follows: "And now you will hear the Jolly Fellows Waltz by Vollstedt."

H. V. Kaltenborn, who's been traveling from capital to capital in Europe interviewing governmental and economic leaders to develop background material for his broadcasts, was accorded the honor of a private audience with Pope Pius recently.

Ben Bernie posed for pictures pending the opening of his new NBC broadcasts with the warning "Make me look like a genius."

James Stokely, the Philadelphia astronomer who will describe the sun's eclipse for Columbia listeners, took a ton of equipment with him when he left for his observation post in Conway, N. H. Eighteen packing cases were required. His apparatus includes a five-foot telescope with four-inch lenses.

The Boswell Sisters appear as a trio of telephone operators in the film "The Big Broadcast"... and Arthur Tracey sings a number specially written for him.

Casting Wizards, Hunt Jockey On WCAE

C. W. Ward, president of the local chapter of the Izaak Walton League and head of the Pittsburgh Casting Club, introduces a group of fly-casting champions gathered here for the national tournament as a feature of the broadcast by the Trained Seals of the Sun-Telegraph sports department from the WCAE studios tonight at 6:50. Pat O'Donnell, famous English jockey, who will ride in the Pittsburgh Hunt Club race Saturday, is another of the program highlights. Hub Reinhart, singing tennis star, and Miss Marian Salmon, pianist, provide the musical background. Julius Levin is in charge, with Leland Becraft announcing.

Mark Shields, back from Harrisburg where he covered the special session of the Legislature, returns to the WCAE microphone at 6 for his weekly political review, which will include a discussion of the pending utility investigation.

Stars of the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club of the Air on WCAE at 11 are the Lawson Sisters, Andrini Brothers, Raymond Griffin and orchestra, with Pat Haley as master of ceremonies.

Louis L. Kaufmann, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, gives his news flashes right off the wire for WCAE listeners at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

BY SALLY MARTIN

We Must Do Our Bit to Make Living a Pleasure

He's only 19, but already he has decided life isn't worth living.

According to him, this world is just a vale of misery, and the human race—all but him, perhaps—a complete washout. So—

"I can't see any reason why I was ever born," he complains bitterly. "It all seems so useless!"

Well, you've probably thought that yourself about 7,895 times; so maybe you'll sympathize with Den.

My dear Miss Martin—

I wonder what you'll think of this letter of mine. I don't know exactly why I am writing it, except that I have been doing a great deal of deep thinking and wondering about what life is all about, and why it is, anyway.

Personally, I can't see anything to it, to speak of. I am 19 and in my first year of college. That is, I've just finished my first year. And frankly, it all seems to me to be a lot of wasted effort.

Now don't get the idea that I feel that way because I have such a hard time getting along. That is not it. My folks are well off, and fortunately didn't suffer to speak of in the depression. I have a car, a small one, but it lets me get around wherever I want to go.

I have lived. I know my way around. And it seems to me that I've tried out pretty nearly everything that living has to offer except, of course, getting married, and I don't think I will ever do that. Most girls are so selfish in this day and age. They want their own way. They want a fellow to give them everything, and they give very little in return.

AN EMPTY LIFE

In fact, it seems to me that most of the world is that way—just a hot-bed of competition and strife, and every fellow for himself.

I wonder often why I was ever born; why any of us were ever born, in fact, to fight and scramble and dig each other in the ribs.

Can you tell me? I know some people seem to get something out of life, but to me it is just a lot of hooey. I honestly feel as if I didn't have anything at all to live for. Why? Is there something wrong with me, or are those people just a lot of stupid clods who don't try to think things out like I do?

Denton.

Why were YOU born? Why were ANY of us born?

I can't tell you that, son. I don't know. Nobody knows. But I can tell you this—life can be a glorious adventure. It is a glorious adventure to many people. Why isn't it to you?

Because it has been handed to you ready made, son, and you can't have adventures that way. You can only get out of an adventure what you put into it—in struggle, and enthusiasm, and sacrifice, and risk—and you have, as yet, put nothing into the adventure of life. All the cost has been borne by dad's pocketbook; and so you know nothing of the real thrills.

LIFE IS FASCINATING

You say you've lived because you've gone around, seen places, done things. But you haven't even started to live yet. You've only made gestures. You're like a baby practicing swimming on the nursery floor. You've never dived off the deep end yet.

Life's the most amazing show on earth. Even if it breaks your heart, it is endlessly fascinating. But most of that show lies outside yourself. You'll find it in the lives of those around you; in the way those lives shift, and change, and battle. You'll find it in books, too; in woods, in strange city streets.

But you'll never find these things unless you look for them. You'll never find them as long as you just go on making gestures, passing up the real adventure.

Stop grouching. Get out and take care of yourself, since you're buying nothing but grief on dad's money.

Find something to do; something to accomplish; something so hard that it'll take every bit of grit and pep you have. And when you've done it, and found yourself, write to me again, and tell me if that accomplishment seemed "useless."

For that's life, big boy. Let's see how much you're worth at it!

Work Is Universal Element of Life, Says Fay King

THE LITTLE DANCER IS REALLY WORKING!
IT IS WORK TO LOOK AND ACT ONE'S BEST IN SOCIAL ACTIVITIES
THE BEAUTIFUL GIRL ON THE MAGAZINE COVER MEANT WORK!
FAY KING

By FAY KING.

Work is the one thing that is universal in this world and every one of us is a worker.

Nothing is accomplished without a certain amount of effort, energy and concentration, and this is work.

The result may be trivial or important, good or bad, but the motive power was work or there could be no result.

What is one person's entertainment is another person's work. The book you read, the painting you admire, the song you enjoy, the dance you applaud—is but work that pleases you.

And the casual comic antics of your favorite comedian are the result of laborious effort and elimination.

There is no such thing as idleness from the cradle to the grave, no matter what your walk in life.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Carelessness Causes Blindness of Hundreds of Children

An interesting study made recently by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness reveals that within a short time more than 500 school children have lost their eyesight because of carelessness.

Dr. Copeland

From 750 to 1,000 children every year suffer accidental injury to the eyes, and some of them are actually blinded. In former years most of these accidents occurred in connection with Fourth of July celebrations.

More than 100 cities in the United States have prohibited the sale of toys that may be detrimental to the safety of the eyes of children. There are still innumerable communities, I am sorry to say, that permit the sale of many toys and fireworks that menace the common welfare.

To prevent the occurrence of such accidents, it is planned to restrict the use of air rifles, shot guns, blank cartridges, cannons, arrows, rubber-band "flippers" and other dangerous toys. To complete this work of mercy, children must be instructed in the dangers of sharp-pointed objects, such as knives, scissors, sticks, nails, wires and hooks. When these are carelessly handled, serious damage to the eyes must be expected.

The last Fourth of July recorded a marked decrease in the number of such accidents. Previous to this year, it was estimated that fireworks caused 20 per cent of all eye accidents to children. I am glad to say that fireworks are now more difficult to get, and that we may expect fewer accidents as the public is educated.

The danger to children in handling sharp objects cannot be over-emphasized. Children should never be permitted to play with scissors or any other object having a sharp point. A young child does not realize the danger of waving a pointed instrument or stick, and it is really amazing that there are not more accidents.

Another common accident to the eye is traced to flying particles in industrial plants, and employes in certain occupations are protected against this danger by wearing goggles and use of protective screens around machines. Children should be told about this, and warned against exposure to flying pieces of wood, steel or any other hard substance. In carpentry and wood-chopping, this menace ought not to be forgotten.

Accidents caused by dirt, cinders or sand thrown or blown into the eyes are dangerous, for infection may result if the cornea of the eye is scratched, either by the particle that has been blown in or by unskillful efforts to remove it. These cases should receive immediate care by a physician. The average layman should not attempt to remove any foreign object from the eye. This requires special skill, and the untrained hand may cause harm to the delicate coverings of the eye.

It is hoped that adequate legislative steps will be taken everywhere to control the sale of any toy or object that is detrimental to the safety of children's eyes. Until then parents should select toys carefully, and instruct children in the proper care of their eyes. Much credit is due the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness for their efforts to reduce the number of accidents that threaten blindness in children.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Take a glassful of tomato juice before breakfast every morning if the skin is sallow. Unsweetened lemonade with salt added is also recommended.

When slipping on her frock a woman should take the opportunity to do stretching exercises, make play of it. Stretching keeps the backbone supple, pulls in the muscles of the tumtum, invigorates the chest cavity. Stand facing the wall and see how far you can reach. Up on the toes, stretch, down on the heels, stretch again, breathing deeply the while.

What kind of a walker are you, madame reader? Do you use a rhythmic gait, swinging along easily, breathing in lungfuls of fresh air, or do you just scuttle to get there? Scuttling seems to be the most popular method; it is not beautiful. Two miles a day of brisk marching for every woman is the beauty rule. Sauntering isn't exercise. To gain complexion color and freshness to aid health, the walker should steam up, be highly energized.

Hints for the Household

When making table jellies, add a few drops of lemon juice; this enables them to "set" in a few hours.

Oilcloth pillows, made in different shapes and in various colors and trimmed with contrasting shades, are not only colorful and practical but are economical, says Mrs. P. W. who finds them ideal for a summer cottage.

When mending large holes in woolen sweaters, baste a piece of material on the wrong side, matching it as well as possible, then darn through the patch. This will keep the shape of the garment and make the darn stronger and able to stand wear.

Whenever possible, serve salad dressing separately and let the guests help themselves. Not only does the lettuce wilt when dressing is on it for a length of time, but there are so many varied ideas in regard to salad dressings that it is the safest way to do.

On the top of the trunk and chest in the storeroom or attic, paste a piece of paper on which is written the contents of the containers. Then you will not disturb carefully packed clothes hunting for something that is in the opposite trunk to the one in which you started.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

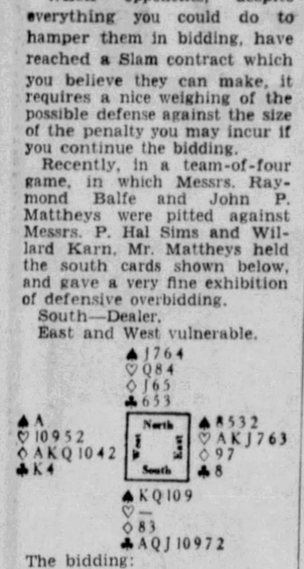
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Defensively Bid Grand Slam

When opponents, despite everything you could do to hamper them in bidding, have reached a Slam contract which you believe they can make, it requires a nice weighing of the possible defense against the size of the penalty you may incur if you continue the bidding.

Recently, in a team-of-four game, in which Messrs. Raymond Balfe and John P. Mattheys were pitted against Messrs. P. Hal Sims and Willard Karn, Mr. Mattheys held the south cards shown below, and gave a very fine exhibition of defensive overbidding.

South—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♣ (1)	3NT (2)	Pass	4♡
5♣ (3)	6♡ (4)	Pass	Pass
7♣ (5)	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

(1) An entirely conventional bid.

(2) Mr. Sims is rarely conventional, and has a distinct liking for playing hands at no trump contracts. He counts on his hand as likely to take 8 tricks, and expects to find the game trick in his partner's hand. In any event, the bidding shows his partner great strength.

(3) Defending against a certain game.

(4) West does not temporize.

(5) A beautiful Defensive bid. Apparently East and West cannot make seven hearts, but almost as surely, from South's hand, they can make six hearts.

In the play, Mr. Mattheys was defeated 4 tricks. East and West winning two diamonds, the Ace of spades and the King of clubs. East, as Mr. Mattheys rightly reasoned, could have made six hearts and, indeed, seven hearts, unless the Ace of clubs was the Opening lead.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

Today's Question

What is the proper response to partner's one spade bid, holding the following hand:

♠ 3 2 ♡ 10 9 8 6 4 3 ◇ J 5 ♣ A Q 8

Answer—Two hearts. Any six-card suit is biddable, and the hand contains 1½ plus honor tricks.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Garden Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am planning to give an outdoor party, or could I call it a "Garden Party" for the benefit of a baseball team to get uniforms, ball and bats. Could you give me some instructions as to how to proceed?

I thought of cards, "Five Hundred" and "Bridge," with three prizes for each, running high, second and low. Would it be necessary to have three prizes for ladies and three for men, making a total of 12 prizes, or would you just have three prizes for "Five Hundred," and three prizes for "Bridge?"

2. I thought for lunch I would serve sandwiches, cake and lemonade, and charge thirty-five cents per person? Is this quite all right?

AN ANXIOUS BALL PLAYER.

1. What a fine and generous plan you have devised for raising money to get uniforms for the ball-team. Congratulations, and I am sure that the party will be a great success. I hope that you can have it out-of-doors, for such a party would be especially appropriate in the open. Your plan to have two kinds of card games is good, and perhaps you could have a radio on the porch, for dancing.

Twelve prizes seem to me too many to buy when you are charging so little for the refreshments, and when you want to have every penny count for the "proceeds." I'd suggest just the three for bridge, and three for "500."

2. Yes, this would be a reasonable charge for these refreshments, and these refreshments will be ample. Perhaps you could ask a group of girls who are interested in the "team" to help you by making the sandwiches and the lemonade. They'd love to be asked . . . of that I'm sure.

Louise Thaden Seen on Screen

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Mrs. Frances Marsalis, of St. Louis, and Mrs. Louise Thaden, former Pittsburgh aviatrix, now of Baltimore, are pictured in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News at Curtiss Field after having completed their endurance flight. In their "Flying Boudoir," the two women remained aloft 196 hours, eight days, beating the old mark of 123 hours set by Bobby Trout and Edna May Cooper. Mrs. Thaden, who collapsed not long after the pictures were made, was unable to talk for Hearst Metrotone, but Mrs. Marsalis tells how happy she feels over breaking the record. The current Hearst Metrotone News is being shown in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters.

Another aviation subject shows the arrival of Capt. J. A. Mollison, the intrepid Scotchman, landing at Roosevelt Field from St. John, N. B., completing the last lap in the first solo flight ever made from Ireland to the North American continent. In his tiny Puss Moth plane, Mollison circles the field, then sweeps down close to the crowd awaiting him. He tells of his trip and then through Hearst Metrotone sends a message to his bride of three weeks.

Gov. Roosevelt, the Democratic nominee for President, is seen and heard in his flaming attack on the present administration during the state convention at Columbus, O. Highlights in his speech include his flaying of Republican leadership and enunciation of an economic system whereby he declares that "a few powerful interests are permitted to make industrial cannon-fodder of the lives of half the population of the United States."

Spectacular scenes of Mussolini's battleships in the biggest review since the World War are presented. Maneuvers which were held on the Ionian Sea were thrilling and there is a graphic description by the Globe Trotter.

Norma Shearer Starts New Beret Fad

Norma Shearer has started a new hat style for women by adopting the "beret cap" for sport wear during leisure moments from the filming of "Smilin' Through," her new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature.

Affair

Dorothy Mackaill is starred in the feature film, "Love Affair," opening in the Sheridan Square today.

Jack Lait Stories To Be Screened

Jack Lait has arrived in Hollywood to confer with Charles R. Rogers on his two stories, "The Girl Without a Room" and "I Can't Go Home," which Robers will make on his current schedule of eight pictures for Paramount.

Bleached Bones Used In Weird Film

Two tons of bleached bones have been obtained for a weird setting to be used in "Mask of Fu Manchu," the story of Chinese intrigue to be filmed at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Byron and Albright Secure "Polo" Jobs

Walter Byron and Hardie Albright, two of the younger screen actors who have been crashing the gates of popularity in recent pictures, have been signed for two of the five important roles in support of Jack Holt in "Polo," a story of horses, helmets and Meadowbrook, produced by Columbia. Evalyn Knapp plays the feminine lead.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

BY MARK HELLINGER

Devotion's Reward

The old man lay dying.

I would like to be able to tell you that as he lay on his deathbed he was surrounded by sorrowing relatives weeping copious tears. But that would not be strictly true. There were plenty of relatives, but there was a scarcity of tears. And you could hardly describe the old man's kinsfolk as sorrowing. Impatient would be a much better word.

All but Mary. She knelt at the foot of the bed and wept bitterly. Mary was the old man's granddaughter. As his weary old eyes rested on the touching figure, they softened. He called her to him.

Drying her eyes, Mary went and sat on the edge of the bed.

"You're a good girl, Mary," the old man said in his dry cackle. "You're the only one in the family that cares anything about me. You're the only one that's taken care of me while I've been sick. Well, now I'm dying."

The old man waved a bony hand.

"The rest of 'em never cared a hoot for me," he whispered. "They're only waiting for me to die so they can grab my money."

He began to chuckle unpleasantly.

"But maybe they'll get fooled. You're the only one that loved me, Mary, and if you go on loving me and thinking about me, Grandpa's going to take care of you later on."

The relatives exchanged amused glances. Now they were firmly convinced that what they had suspected was true. The old man was undoubtedly crazy. Talking about the future when he would scarcely last through the night.

Well, they had always had an idea that something was wrong somewhere. There was, for instance, the money. As Louise Fort can tell you, they all knew that the old man had a roll somewhere. Not that any of them had ever seen it. But Grandpa was the world champion nickel squeezer.

Then there was the geranium plant. No one who spent so much time as the old man did hanging over a flower pot could possibly be considered sane. He cared for it jealously, watering it, transplanting it. The family felt that he might have saved himself the pains. None of them could ever remember having seen it blossom. It was little more than a bare stem with a few drooping leaves. In its huge pot, it looked supremely ridiculous.

Mary had never laughed at grandpa for his devotion to his geranium. Obediently, she had moved it from window to window so that it might catch the sun.

Aunt Lucy approached the bed with a suspicious glance at the others. As she whispered a question in grandpa's ear, his eyes glistened for a moment and he shook his head.

"Didn't make no will," he cackled.

Then, to the great relief of Aunt Lucy and Aunt Molly and Cousin John and Uncle Henry, the man died . . .

Scarcely had the body been removed to an undertaking parlor when the great hunt was on. They had heard from the old man's lips that there was no will. So it was obvious that the money must be somewhere in the house.

Aunt Lucy and Aunt Molly began with the attic. It was quite a job. Not only hunting on their own accord, but keeping an eye on Uncle Henry and Cousin John, who were searching downstairs.

Mary alone took no part in the activities. She sat in a corner and wept quietly. Apparently nothing interested her save the fact that grandpa was dead.

Finally her mother cried impatiently, "For heaven's sake, stop that sniffling! Even if you did love grandpa, you could help your mother out by looking for the money!"

"I don't care anything about the money," she sobbed. "Poor grandpa!"

With disgusted glances the other members of the family went back to their searching.

At the end of two days, they were forced to admit that there was nothing doing. The money simply wasn't to be found. So they did the next best thing. They went through the house sorting out grandpa's possessions. When they found anything that they could sell, they were very happy indeed. The other things they tossed into the ash barrel.

They came at last to the geranium on the window sill, and were all for throwing it out. But Mary dried her tears and spoke up for the first time.

"Indeed you won't throw it away," she said firmly. "Grandpa loved that plant. If none of you wan it, I'll take it and care for it. I know that grandpa would want me to. Give it to me!"

The argument that followed almost resulted in a free-for-all, with Mary forced to battle them all. No one felt very kindly toward the old man. No one wanted any reminder of him about. The flower pot was going out. That was final. If Mary wanted to go with, well that was all right, too.

Mary circled the geranium plant with a loving arm.

"Come, mama," she said. "I'd rather go somewhere else than have grandpa's plant die uncared for."

Mama wasn't exactly pleased about the whole affair, and didn't mind saying so. She considered Mary very foolish, and didn't mind saying that, either. At least they had a roof over their heads. Now what were they going to do?

"Don't worry," soothed Mary. "I've reserved room for us at a hotel."

"At a hotel!" shouted mama. "Have you gone crazy, too? How are we going to afford that?"

But Mary would say no more. She called a cab and they drove in state to their new quarters. Others beside mama felt that Mary was crazy as she meandered through the lobby carrying a large awkward flower pot which, in turn, held a scraggy geranium plant.

Mama was still fuming as they began to unpack their things. She went into the closet for a moment to hang up her dresses. When she came back, she found Mary fussing around the flower pot. She was digging into the dirt. As mama watched, puzzled, she saw Mary draw out a small oilcloth package.

Mama pounced upon it eagerly. She tore away the string and unfolded the oilcloth. Ten dirty, folded, one-thousand-dollar bills were inside.

The overjoyed woman threw her arms around Mary's neck and kissed her roundly.

"My darling," she quavered, with tears in her eyes, "you were sweet to want to care for dear grandpa's plant. Your love for him was genuine. Now heaven has rewarded you!"

Mary looked at her coldly and retorted:

"What do you think I stuck around the old man for? I knew he wasn't fooling around a mangy old plant for nothing. So I sneaked up behind him one day and saw him counting the dough!"

Former Stage Star Makes Film Debut

Boots Mallory, featured beauty in the late Florenz Ziegfeld's Broadway production, "Hot Cha," is making her screen debut in the leading role of James Dunn's latest Fox picture, "Walking Down Broadway," in which Minna Gombell and Zasu Pitts have important assignments. The picture is now in production under the direction of Eric Von Stroheim.

Edgar Wallace Play To Be Given

Guthrie McClintic will produce Edgar Wallace's "The Case of the Frightened Lady" in the Belasco Theater in New York City the end of September, according to cable advices received from him from London. McClintic was to sail from Southampton this week on the S. S. Bremen for New York to begin preparations for the American presentation of the Wallace mystery drama which ran for a season in Wyndham's Theater, London.

Young Signed to Work On Screen Play

Waldemar Young has been assigned to prepare the screen play for "Island of Lost Souls," in collaboration with Thomson Burtis, according to Paramount. Norman Taurog will direct. Young has just completed his work on Cecil B. DeMille's "The Sign of the Cross," while Burtis has been at Paramount during the filming of his novel, "Madison Square Garden," which Charles B. Rogers is producing.

SARDINES BLOCK AIRPORT WATER COOLERS

Everything but the missing link was stuck in the "innards" of electric water coolers at the county airport which was why they have not been working. W. J. Loeffler, representing the Whitehill Danforth Company, which sold the coolers to the county, presented a package of evidence to the Commissioners yesterday.

The package contained parts of three sardines, cuds of chewing gum and tobacco, and toothpicks, matches and leaves.

Loeffler, pointing to part of his evidence, said:

"These are parts of sardines. They are dried out. But you can tell they are sardines by the smell."

Airport Director Halsey J. Bazley said complaints had been registered against the coolers, manufactured by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

Loeffler declared:

"Vandals unscrewed a cover plate to put these articles in the drain pipes. No cooler built would operate with somebody stuffing it."

Bazley said:

"The drains are too small."

Commissioner William D. Mansfield commented:

"If the pipe had been too large to be stuffed with a fish they would have used potatoes or bananas."

Loeffler guaranteed the coolers to work if nobody plugs the pipes."

OFFER $10,000 FOR RETURN OF GEMS

A reward of $10,000 has been offered here for the return of $100,000 worth of diamonds, alleged to have been stolen from a trunk in the Pennsylvania Railroad Station recently. Announcement of the reward was made by Toplis and Harding, insurance adjusters, Standard Life Building.

The diamonds were brought here from New York by Joshua Crohn, salesman for the Oppenheim Company. Crohn placed the stones, contained in a leather case, in his trunk at the Pennsylvania station, he said, and checked the trunk through to Cincinnati. Arriving in Cincinnati the next morning, he said he opened the trunk to find the diamond case gone and in its place a package containing women's wearing apparel.

No questions will be asked concerning the return of the jewels and the reward will be paid upon receipt, a representative of Toplis and Harding declared.

SEEKS SOUVENIR OF SHIP

Pittsburgher Aboard When She Rammed Tank Boat

A Pittsburgher, who experienced the most thrilling sea rescue ever made by the U. S. S. America, famous wartime ship, which went to a watery grave in Chesapeake Bay on Monday, today was trying to obtain a souvenir from the ship.

The souvenir seeker is Capt. William E. Collins, of the Volunteers of America. He was on board the America on July 14, 1918 when she rammed an English tanker in mid-ocean, while carrying 10,000 troops across. He said:

"Shortly after midnight the boat gave a mighty jar. Many fainted and others started to pray. They didn't know what had happened. We soon learned, however, that we had cut an English tanker in half. An old Englishman who was rescued took it all as a joke. It was his thirteenth shipwreck"

Capt. Collins is trying to obtain from the United States Shipping Board a light or some other memento, which might have been saved from the ship before it was sunk.

The America was once the pride of the Kaiser's merchant marine and later the pride of the American merchant marine. Many times she was the first to arrive at the scene of a sea tragedy.

COUNCIL LAUDS MERMAIDS

Homestead Borough Council at a special meeting last night passed resolutions praising Lenore Kight and Anna Mae Gorman, Homestead Olympic swimmers, on the honors they had brought to the borough. Later the resolutions, which will be engraved and presented to the girls, were read to them at a mass meeting arranged in their honor in the Stahl Theater.

Several thousand persons turned out to greet the swimmers when they returned to Homestead yesterday. Streets were decorated and business houses closed during the ceremonies.

Wounded Suspect Still in Hospital

RICHMOND, Ind., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Jesse Stafford, 34, of Buffalo, N. Y., who was shot and wounded in an alleged attempted holdup at New Paris, O., last August 10, is in an improved condition in a hospital, but still is unable to be moved. He will be taken to Ohio later to face the robbery charge.

Thomas E. Carnahan, 433 Denniston avenue, left an estate estimated to be worth $55,000, by his will filed for probate today.

He left $2,000 in trust to his brother, William F. Carnahan, and the remainder in trust to his sister, Elizabeth Carnahan Saltsman. At her death the estate is to be divided between his nephew, Frank Alexander Saltsman, and a niece, Florence Saltsman. Other relatives received bequests of $500 each.

Joseph Loibl, of Carnegie, leaves an estate valued at $15,000 to his four children.

Czech Widow Sues Railways Company

Mrs. Anna Kalvin, a resident and citizen of Czechoslovakia, whose husband, Stephen Kalvin, was fatally injured in Pittsburgh, December 7, 1931, filed yesterday, through counsel, a suit in Federal Court against the Pittsburgh Railways Company, for $25,000.

She declared her husband was on a truck of the American Reduction Company, of which he was an employe, when it was struck by a street car. He died in Columbia Hospital.

Oyster Industry To Employ 17,000

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The Oyster Growers' and Dealers' Association of North America opened a three-day convention with the prediction that the oyster crop this year would provide employment for 17,000 men and amount to 20,000,000 barrel.

SECOND STRIKE TIES UP ERECTION OF POSTOFFICE

POLITICS

Speculate on Effect Of Davis Indictment

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Mr. Shields

Considerable speculation surrounds the effect the indictment of Senator Davis will have on the Republican campaign in Pennsylvania. Along with officers of other fraternal organizations Davis, as a leading Moose, is charged with profiting from lotteries carried on by their units in membership drives.

Davis asserts his innocence from personal profit, and denies knowledge of the procedure. He has asked for an immediate trial, and probably will have a statement on the entire subject when he first appears in court next week. In anticipation of that explanation, some of Davis' friends assert he withdrew from any profitable connection with the Moose when he became a candidate for the Senate against Joseph R. Grundy two years ago.

It is understood that until that time Davis had some form of contract with the Moose through which he received a percentage on each membership initiation fee. This agreement ended with his candidacy for public office.

* * *

Little Discussion Of Davis Indictment

So far there has been little real discussion of the indictment in political circles. The Democrats probably have little hope that it can be capitalized to the disadvantage of the Senator, unless it can be proven that he personally profited from the lotteries. Then the expectation would be not so much that the public generally would turn against him, but that the Moose themselves would.

At the national convention of the Moose this week in Cleveland, the Senator was given a rousing welcome, so up to now there is no sentiment against him within his organization.

If there is any appreciable effect on the campaign, it probably will be more to the detriment of President Hoover than to Davis, a condition which may extend outside the borders of Pennsylvania. There are some Republican leaders, it is known, who fear the animosity of fraternal organizations which have been named. This fear will be greater if the reports from New York are true, that the inquisitorial finger of the District Attorney there is to reach deeper and emerge pointing at some prominent church organizations and sects.

On the score of political expediency alone these Republican leaders wish the charges could have been averted until after election, whether or not they have real substance. And their concern is directed not so much inside Pennsylvania, where their fears are of a nature which if realized, will help rather than hinder Senator Davis, but elsewhere in the country where every organization accused has large and influential memberships.

This may be a cold-blooded way of looking at the matter, but it is the attitude of politics.

* * *

Convinced Political Dynamite in Inquiry

State Chairman Edward Martin, according to reliable information, intends to remain as completely detached from the Senate investigation of the Public Service Commission and utilities as the entanglements he has with utility chiefs will permit. The state chairman has been convinced that there is political dynamite in this inquiry and that, should it prove a dud, be ultimately labeled a whitewash by public opinion, the Republican organization would be indelibly connected with the fiasco and that connection would be continued on to the national campaign committee trying to re-elect Mr. Hoover.

This will compel the Senate committee to carry all the load, and force it to accept any blame officially, though there will remain a prevalent conviction that the Senators in their actions, good or bad, are under the influence of the regular organization. It is that kind of a committee. The substitute for Senator Buckman, resigned, the only Pinchot member on the original committee, is Senator Pethick, who no longer has any affection for the Governor.

One thing which may spur the Senate to vigor is the investigation being made by federal income tax authorities into the financial condition of former Chairman W. D. B. Ainey of the Commission, and former Commissioner James S. Benn. Their $10,000 salaries as state officials are exempt from the federal tax.

* * *

Incomes Not Exempt From Federal Taxation

But their income outside of that is not.

Whether or not Benn paid sufficient tax is something known only to the federal officials now investigating accusations by the Governor that he banked $375,000 in three years. If Mr. Benn paid the proper tax on whatever that sum may have earned the federal officials can have no further interest in the affair.

Chairman Ainey, outside of his salary, is known to have had extensive holdings in bonds, many of them foreign. One report is that the total of such holdings was above $120,000, a figure and a fact not heretofore printed.

It should be interesting to the committee to discover the nature of these bonds, the date of their purchase, as well as the source of the $4,000 with which the late Arthur Thompson paid Ainey's hospital bills.

Val Is Grief-Stricken When Millie Goes Away and Leaves Her Behind

CHAPTER III.

So Val came to Aunt Julia. Came red-eyed and weeping, in the dead of the night.

Millie tried to comfort her. "Val, pet, don't cry. It won't be for long. Other little girls don't expect to be with their mothers every minute. I've spoilt you—"

"Take me! Take me!"

"But I can't take you. There are no schools for little girls where I'm going. That is, I don't know of any—"

"I don't care. I want to be with you and Jim! I can bring my books, and—"

"Now, that's enough. Will you keep quiet?" Millie was afraid people were looking. They were crossing the bay on the last ferry, going to Oakland.

The ferry whistled. The lights of San Francisco, tier after tier of them, rising to the distant stars, twinkled across the dark waters, farther and farther away.

For all her misery, the child must have dozed. They were off the ferry, on the train, and a brakeman was calling, "Twenty-third avenue next!"

Millie picked up the small black leather bag that held Val's clothes.

"Not a cab in sight! Can you beat that?"

They came to a halt in front of a stucco bungalow, with a neat patch of lawn and some nicely-trimmed rosebushes in front.

"This is the place," Millie said grimly.

She rang the doorbell, and looked away while she waited for Miss Julia Macfarlane to answer.

"Well, goodbye, Val. Be a good girl, and I'll be back for you soon."

Poor Millie. She had determined to be so brave. But at sight of the little girl's trembling lip and hurt, frightened eyes, she broke down. She dropped to her knees and strained the thin little body to her. Little whimpering sounds came from her.

Tears blinded Val. She could not see Millie. She could hardly hear her voice. Weeping wildly, she let the strange woman, who was her aunt, take her into the house and put her to bed.

* * *

"Well, I'll keep her a while," Miss Macfarlane had agreed, grudgingly.

"Just for a month—two at most!" Val's mother had begged.

A child to clutter up the place! And such a child. A thin, shy little thing, with eyelashes so long they were hardly decent, and a headful of crazy, romantic notions.

STAYS THROUGH SUMMER

"Of course, if I were going to have her permanently, I wouldn't mind so much. It would be more worth while," Miss Macfarlane thought at the end of the first month, packing the child's flimsy finery away, surveying the sturdy, little garments she had made, with pride.

At the end of the second month she wrote: "Now that I have had all the trouble of outfitting her, I might as well keep her through the summer."

And Millie replied by return mail that it might be just as well if Val wasn't too much trouble. Her affairs were still unsettled, but she would be ready to take her baby soon, and in the meanwhile would Julia kiss her darling for her, and see that she didn't forget her mother?

Forget her! The hard part

Synopsis

Valentine Macfarlane is the shy, dreamy daughter of Millie Macfarlane, a widow, whose gay, romantic nature is not spoiled by poverty. Millie has numerous men acquaintances, but best of all her daughter likes Jim Atkinson, the sea captain. The girl feels very sad when the captain goes away. Then he suddenly returns, crying to Millie that he loves her, but "never dared hope that you'd have me, with things like they are." A year of happiness follows, but Jim goes back to the sea and Millie has difficulty in making a living. Val is awakened one night and finds their baggage in the hall of their flat.

SEX INFLUENCE METHOD TOLD

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—The sex of babies may be definitely influenced through scientific means known to experts today, Dr. Jacob Sanders, Rotterdam, told the closing session of the third international congress of eugenics.

If the acid content of the bloodstream of the expectant mother is high, he declared, she will probably give birth to a girl; if low, to a boy.

Both conditions may be artificially produced, Dr. Sanders asserted.

Home Lending By U. S. Offends Moochers Abroad

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Now, all we have to find out about the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is whether it's pleasure or business.

Fifty-five million government wafers have been loaned to home talent. We have reached that stage in life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness where the government trusts a local boy.

In a way, we object to charity beginning at home. Even at six per cent. Why not lend all our gravy to Europe and save the price of bookkeeping?

Europeans are all steamed up because Americans are borrowing money that Europe bought a tincup for. They claim it is unfair to organized mooching.

Banks and sovereign commonwealths have sliced themselves a hunk of federal antiseptic financial dressing.

And the small business man? Well, he's just a polka dot on the industrial fabric. It takes a lot of them to make a necktie.

Anyway we have started. The next step is to wade back through the amendments in an effort to reach the Constitution.

Boy Coach Builders Sail to Sports Meet

107 Young Craftsmen Keep Guides Busy On Pleasure Hunt

By MAX HENRICI
Staff Correspondent.

DETROIT, Aug. 24.—The serious business of the convention of state winners in the Fisher Body Craftsmans' Guild miniature coach building contest has been completed, and this, the third day of the meeting, is being given over wholly to entertainment. The 107 boys were taken by steamer to Tashmoo Park in Lake Saint Clair for a barbecue luncheon and athletic sports. A guild official said:

"The only way to keep these lively youngsters in tow is to run them ragged."

BOYS BUSY ALL DAY

In pursuance of that aim they are kept busy from reveille to taps but their energy and enthusiasm show no abatement. Adult group leaders look after the boys with all the solicitude of parents.

The boys visited the General Motors Corporation's proving grounds at Milford yesterday. There they saw cars driven up 24 per cent grades, and over all kinds of roads and through water, and around a speedway. They saw a car with peculiar stream lines designed to test wind resistance. They saw many kinds of experiments which are being made in an effort to improve, if ever so slightly, the various kinds of General Motors automobiles.

From there the boys went to Flint to visit the Chevrolet plant, there was no sign of industrial dullness there. Cars were being turned out by the hundreds with feverish activity.

WATCH AUTO BUILDERS

The boys followed the assembling line from the point at which it starts with the bare chassis to the point at which the fully equipped automobile left under its own power. While the labor was finely sub-divided the boys found that the story that one man might do nothing all day but put on bolt No. 16 was a myth. The workers were not quite such automatons as that.

W. S. Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet Company, gave each of the boys a handsome leather portfolio with his name stamped on it.

From there the youngsters went to the Fisher Body plant, which was found no less interesting.

The day was finished with a trip to the Orchard Lake Country Club, for swimming and dinner.

Tomato Juice Firm Receiver Appointed

John McK. Reed, of Pittsburgh, was appointed receiver of the Standard Preserving Company, 300 North Lexington avenue, by Federal Jurge R. M. Gibson, in an equity suit filed by Hutton Kennedy, who said the company, which makes and sells tomato juice, owes him $3,225 on notes.

The plaintiff said the company is solvent, but because of trade conditions is unable to meet current obligations. The company admitted the allegations and the receiver's bond was set at $5,000.

Aviatrix Takes Rest At Husband's Plea

ONTARIO, Cal., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The Esthonian aviatrix, Elvy Kalep Miller, said today she had promised her husband, W. E. Hutton Miller, to desist from flying for three months.

But the flier said the ban was not permanent, just long enough to give her the first long rest she has had in two years. After her marriage to Miller in New York July 5, the aviatrix cancelled plans for an ocean flight to Athens with Roger Q. Williams.

HOISTER UNION, EMPLOYERS DEADLOCK

Builders Refuse to Interfere With Gravel Plants

The second strike of hoisting engineers on the new postoffice building continues, with contractors and union officials definitely at odds on the meaning of a signed letter which ended the five-week strike for one day—Monday.

The entrance of federal authorities into the negotiations has thus far apparently served only to confuse both sides as to what the other side agreed.

$15,000 PAYROLL IDLE

In the meantime, 250 men, including structural ironworkers and mechanics on the job, are out of work. A payroll of approximately $15,000 a week is not being distributed.

The men were called out for a second time late Monday by Peter J. Dagnall, business agent of Local Union No. 905 of Operating Engineers, when he was informed by telephone by F. O. Reed, secretary of the Building Trades Employers Association, that Dagnall's interpretation of the agreement signed to end the strike was incorrect.

The union had insisetd, according to Dagnall, that union engineers be employed on all sand and gravel hoists of members of the Building Trades Employers Associantion and companies with which they do business.

Dagnall said he was told Thursday by Federal authorities, including Col. James F. Dewey and Murray Garsson, representatives of the Secretary of Labor, and D. G. Aronberg, of the Aronberg-Fried Company, contractors on the postoffice, that all conditions were met in a letter signed by Reed.

DENIES YIELDING

Reed, on the other hand, denies the employers yielded in their position as stated to Federal authorities. He said:

"We would make no attempt to enforce an agreement on parties who are not members of our association."

Dagnall says he was told by the Federal men:

"This letter gives you everything you asked for."

The letter states that the Employers' Association agrees to employ union engineers on the sand and gravel hoists, as stated in a previous agreement and addenda.

The previous agreement and addenda provide that union engineers be employed where the work is "under the control of a member" of the Employers' Association.

CHARGES TRICKERY

Trickery is charged by Dagnall, who says:

"If Reed interprets the letter to mean something else than what we were told by federal authorities, then I say he is resorting to trickery."

The Aronberg-Fried Company today is putting to work a union engineer and fireman on a float on the Allegheny River to unload gravel for the postoffice job. The Pittsburgh Gravel Company is furnishing the gravel. The contractors plan to go ahead with as much of the concrete work on the building as is now possible.

The hiring of the float, a condition set up by the engineers' union that was met by the contractor, involves an investment of more than $15,000.

The new strike is aimed not so much at the contractor as at the association to which he belongs, it now appears.

Bus Fare Fight Data To Be Given Probers

The State Senate committee investigating the Public Service Commission will receive the records of the Allegheny County Allied Board of Trade's fight for low bus fares, it was decided last night at a meeting of the Allied directors.

W. G. Negley and George Kountz, counsel, were ordered to present the information to the investigating body. C. V. Snoup, secretary, was ordered to communicate with Gov. Pinchot to urge the appointment of a Pittsburgher to one of the commission's vacancies.

2 ADMIT STORE HOLDUPS, LAUGH

Laughingly admitting two more holdups, two alleged "tape" bandits were reprimanded by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Morals Court today as he held them for the grand jury.

Rothenberg told Douglas Shearer and Frank Sullivan, both 22, of Philadelphia:

"You must think this is a joke. You don't seem to realize the serious nature of your offense."

Shearer replied:

"Yes we do, but why be sad about it?"

They admitted attempted robbery of the Ground Gripper Shoe Company store, 517 Grant street, and the $35 robbery of the W. L. Douglas Company shoe store, 417 East Ohio street. They had been held on three similar charges since their capture last week. They frequently used adhesive tape to bind their victims, police said.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I just came to the conclusion that I am the "dumbest" guy in America. Everybody I meet and talk to can tell me exactly who is going to be elected President. When I talk to a Republican or Democrat and even ask them, they look at me like I was crazy, or kidding 'em, that I don't already know.

COUNTY TO BALLOT IN FALL WITHOUT VOTE MACHINES

REPAIRS DELAY USE; PATENTS DEBATED

It will be impossible for Allegheny County to use voting machines in the presidential election in November, according to Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank. He told the County Commissioners that more time is needed for repairs, continuing:

"Although a few weeks ago I expressed the belief that the machines could be used, developments within the last 10 days have convinced me it would be unsafe to use them in their present condition."

The Commissioners now intend to study a lengthy report by the "Committee On Voting Machine Research," and decide on the next act in the comedy that has cost the county $1,100,000 but has not provided workable mechanical vote registers.

PATENTS SOUGHT

Patents have been applied for on three improvements the committee has developed on the machine. Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, told of the patents, said:

"I am wondering if this is against public policy for the county to take out patents. If the patents make it harder to cheat the machine the idea should be given out to the public."

Commissioner C. M. Barr explained:

"If we have the patents we are in better shape to deal with the credit company in the voting machine business. The patents can be reassigned to anybody after we reach a settlement."

STRATEGY REVEALED

That was the idea in getting the patents, Frank declared, continuing:

"Although we did not intend to disclose this piece of strategy, that's the idea of getting the patents."

Concluding the discussion McGovern said:

"This gives somebody a chance to sandbag the county. I don't like the idea. We are flirting with another lawsuit here."

MRS. LOUISE THADEN (SEATED) AND MRS. FRANCES MARSALIS AFTER THEIR FLIGHT

Food and sleep, you might think, would be the first demands of two young wives who for more than 196 hours had been soaring around in the heavens, but hot baths, dresses and a mirror came first! They set a new record. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

CHESTER URGES ASPHALT FOR ROAD JOBS

Substitution of asphalt and asphaltic emulsion for tar heretofore used in county roads has been recommended by Director of Highways F. J. Chester.

The County Commissioners yesterday split a contract for 20,000 gallons of asphalt and tar between the Atlantic Refining Company and the Koppers Company.

A contract for 150,000 gallons of asphalt surface treatment material was awarded to the Byerlite Company.

Representatives of several companies sought to convince the Commissioners of the advantages of their products.

TESTS PROPOSED

Commissioner Charles C. McGovern then suggested that a test road be laid out, the county to build the base and the companies to put in sections of their products for test. The plan may be carried out later.

The asphaltic materials are cheaper than tar. Maj. C. B. Schaffer, representing the Koppers Company, said the tar wears better and is less slippery than asphalt. He offered to put in a section of road in competition with the asphalt produce companies.

FAVORS NEW SYSTEM

Commissioner McGovern, before the awards were made, said:

"The competitive bidding method does not seem to be the best way to buy asphalt and tar. In the past it took a lot of whispering, and maybe something else, to buy road materials. I think we should make the tests and maybe work out a new system for buying."

But Director Chester insisted the material was needed immediately, so the contracts were awarded.

ROOFTOP RADIO EXPERIMENT ON THE CATHEDRAL OF LEARNING....EFFICIENCY TEST

CHIEF RESIGNS, CULT PERILED

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The future of 15,000 Doukhobors in Western Canada was uncertain today as a result of the proffered resignation of Peter Verigin II as president of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood.

Verigin has resigned practically as an absolute monarch over the social, business and religious life of the Doukhobor colonies since 1927. He is now serving an 18-month sentence for perjury in the jail at Prince Albert, Sask.

The executive board of the community has not yet accepted the resignation. S. W. Poochin, vice president, said it had been rejected.

Verigin's proposed withdrawal and rumors of financial difficulties besetting the community revived speculation as to the dissolution of the organization, which controls farm lands, industries and other wealth running to millions of dollars.

Banker-Marksman Foils 3 in Holdup

DIERKS, Ark., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—A banker who learned about firearms during the World War wounded two of three men who robbed the Bank of Dierks of $6,000 yesterday, and forced the trio to surrender an hour later with their loot after a posse of officers overtook them.

Vice President J. L. Keener remained in the bank until two of the robbers forced the cashier, Aubrey Gore, into their automobile and then he opened fire with an automatic postol.

Secrets Told, Finns Oust Defense Head

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—Accused of divulging military secrets to an official of an American aviation company, Maj. Hallamaa, chief of the aviation bureau of the Finnish ministry of defense, has been dismissed, it was learned today.

Maj. Hallamaa was charged with revealing the "secrets" to Commander Bruce Leighton, U. S. N. R., vice president of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation of the United States.

Weldon, Kelly Given Contract by State

Weldon & Kelly Company was awarded a contract for plumbing in a building at the state oral school for the deaf at Scranton, according to Harrisburg dispatches today. A bid of $6,100 was submitted.

The state rejected all bids for steel windows, doors and frames in the north and south cell blocks and chapel at the Western Penitentiary.

3 Deny Sounding False Fire Alarm

A bellhop, James Maine, 35; a doorman, Frank Graybill, 26, and a guest, H. S. Currie, of the Roosevelt Hotel, denied in Central Police Court today they had sent in a false fire alarm from Wood street and Oliver avenue at 4 a. m. They were held for investigation. Battalion Fire Chief George Spahr testified 238 false alarms have been rung since the last of June.

MOLLISON HITS AMY'S SEA TRIP

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Capt. James A. Mollison disapproves of a reported plan of his wife, the former Amy Johnson, to duplicate his feat of flying solo westward across the Atlantic.

His only comment when he heard that his bride had given an interview to a London paper, in which she outlined a plan to fly from Europe to New York and then return—as he plans to do—was:

"I don't expect her to give up flying, but I do hope she will not make such a trip."

Bomb for Merchant Trading With Japs

HANKOW, China, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—China's "blood and iron" society, sponsoring a boycott against Japanese goods, delivered a bomb to a prominent Chinese merchant here today with a note which read:

"This time the fuse is not set. Stop handling Japanese goods or the next time it will be."

Truck Driver Dies In 60-Foot Plunge

KITTANNING, Pa., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Roy Hoffman, 29, of Akron, O., was killed last night when his truck plunged down a 60-foot embankment, exploded and caught fire, Simon K. McIntosh, of Toledo, O., his helper, was injured seriously.

Auto 'Studio' Linked To University by 5-Meter Outfit

High above Fifth avenue, on the top floor of the Cathedral of Learning, an important short wave radio experiment is being carried out by the University of Pittsburgh physics department.

The experiment is being made with a five-meter two-way radio and telegraph outfit, to determine the efficiency of such a sending and receiving set in the Pittsburgh district. It is the first time that such an experiment has ever been made here.

Heading the experiment is Dr. George A. Scott, professor of physics at the university. Assisting him are Anthony Mag, local amateur radio expert, and several students of the Pitt physics department.

Mag travels within a 25-mile radius of the city, in an automobile carrying equipment similar to that on top of the Cathedral.

The radio experimenters at the Cathedral talk with Mag in his radio car. The call letters of the Cathedral station are WHBE.

Dr. Scott, in explaining the experiment, said:

"The purpose of our experiment is to letermine what results can be obtained with a five-meter radio outfit. So far we have experimented for distance. We have carried on a conversation within a 25-mile radius of the city so far. The experiment has been going on for the past three weeks and will probably go on indefinitely."

Charge Withdrawn Against Irish Leader

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—A charge of attempted murder against George Gilmore, widely known Republican leader, was withdrawn today and a police guard was removed from the hospital where he is recovering from wounds received in a gun fight with police a week ago.

Gilmore, T. J. Ryan and Bernard Lowe were charged with attempting to kill two detectives. The charge against the other two also was dropped.

RAILWAYS COMPANY CLAIMS HUGE DAILY REVENUE DROP

ENDING OF PASS SHOWS LITTLE EFFECT

A tabulation of earnings for the first eight months of 1932 show the Pittsburgh Railways Company suffered a decline of approximately $9,688 in revenue instead of $500 daily, as recently published, according to William H. Boyce, commercial manager. The report is compared with a similar period last year.

Boyce produced figures showing that for the first 17 days of this month the average daily decline reached $8,991.21. This figure, however, is not regarded by company officials as adequate to show the actual decline from last year, since July and August are regarded as "low peak" months.

For the month of July a daily while in June it reached $9,688. decline of $9,308 was recorded.

Considerable public interest in the company's financial affairs has existed since the elimination of the $1.50 weekly pass in June. Withdrawal of the pass, Boyce estimated, thus far has caused a reduction of only one-half of 1 per cent in the daily receipts.

The test, he added, has not continued long enough to determine if the elimination of the pass is satisfactory. The decline averaged on a weekly basis was running close to 24 per cent from the corresponding periods of last year, he said.

U. S. CONSULATE IN SPAIN FIRED

SEVILLE, Spain, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Unidentified persons attempted to burn the American consulate here during the night, but the flames were extinguished before serious damage had been done.

Part of the building was drenched with gasoline and ignited. A watchman discovered the fire and aroused Richard Ford, the consul, and assisted by neighbors they extinguished the blaze before more than a few hundred dollars' damage had been done.

It was reported that official circles believed the arsonists to be Communists.

The building is owned by the American government and contains much valuable furniture and equipment. American authorities have asked for added protection.

Brewery Stolen From Federal Government

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Missing: One brewery owned by the United States.

Federal officials, puzzled over what to do with the brewery formerly owned by Terry Druggan and Frank Lake, found their problem solved for them today.

They visited the former elaborately equipped plant and found little more than four brick walls and a roof—and the walls weren't complete, either.

Police said they believed that the woodwork had been cut up and carried away by the poor for kindling wood, that the copper vats and piping and other metal was stolen to be sold for junk, and that some of the bricks were taken from the walls by the homeless to build shacks.

ELKS OF STATE HOLD OUTING

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 24.—Five thousand delegates attending the twenty-sixth annual convention, Pennsylvania Elks' Association, made merry at Mount Odin Park today following business and memorial sessions in the Penn-Albert Hotel.

Meanwhile, members of the ladies' auxiliary attending the convention, were entertained at a bridge luncheon in the Mountain View Hotel.

Tarentum won the drum and bugle corps competition last night in connection with the convention, against 19 other competitors. Uniontown was second, McKeesport third, Jeannette fourth, and New Kensington fifth.

How to Lose Fat

a pound a day on a full stomach

Do Just These Two Simple Things — Fat Melts Away

Here is a quick and easy way to take off a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—with never a hungry moment. A way any doctor will tell you is safe and sure.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad Salts in glass of water half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses your system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute. Cut down on butter, sweets and desserts, bread. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clears the system of toxins. "The diet takes off fat with food that turns to energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

"Note particularly—Jad Salts is urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

MAN, GIRL HAZY ON SHOOTING

The victims of a "Lovers' Lane" shooting were unable to explain today why one of them, Michael T. Naughton, 35, fired the shots as they sat in an automobile in Squaw Run road Monday night.

County Detectives say Anna Wolf, 25, of Wilkinsburg, told them Naughton shot her without warning. She said, according to the detectives, they had quarreled previously but had patched up their differences. Naughton, a bus driver, who is said to be estranged from his wife, said he did not remember anything concerning the shooting.

The condition of the couple was slightly improved today. They are in Pittsburgh Hospital.

Detectives said information will not be made against Naughton until his condition improves.

Escape Feared, Pair Go to Prison by Air

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Two convicted shoplifters were transported to the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia in an airplane yesterday because authorities feared they might attempt to escape if the usual automobile were used.

The prisoners are William J. Steves, 33, of Chicago, and Harry Martin, 25, of Albany, N. Y. Hudson Kline, a guard at the jail here, revealed he discovered a sheet was missing from Steve's bed and that the lock on his cell door had been tampered with.

Oklahoma Doctor Held Without Bail

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Dr. Richard E. Thacker was held for trial without bail yesterday on a murder charge growing out of the death, allegedly from an illegal operation, of Robbie Lou Thompson.

At his preliminary hearing, he was accused by Miss Thompson's fiance, Marvin Erdman, who said he witnessed the asserted operation and paid the physician $50.

YOUNG QUASHES BOLT RUMOR

By DAVID P. SENTNER, International News.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Owen D. Young, prominently mentioned for the Democratic presidential nomination until he withdrew from the field, today quashed the report that he would shortly come out for the re-election of President Hoover. He said:

"You can spike any rumor regarding political activity on my part. I am interested only in economics—not in politics."

Young left today for Washington to take part in the conference of business and industrial generals called by the President.

Friends of Young termed the rumor that he was about to turn Republican as "ridiculous," recalling that he was one of the first to send a congratulatory message to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, following the latter's nomination for the presidency.

Only a month ago, Young conferred at Hyde Park, N. Y., with Roosevelt on the international economic problem.

22 Drowned Cadets Buried in Germany

KIEL, Germany, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Twenty-two naval cadets, who perished in the recent sinking of the naval training ship Niobe, were placed in a common grave yesterday after an impressive funeral service.

A warship fired a salute and survivors of the disaster stood beside the open-air altar during the services. A number of distinguished persons attended, including Prince August Wilhelm, son of the former Kaiser, and Prince Waldemar, the Kaiser's nephew.

$41,000 in Rum Seized on Truck

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—A truck and its cargo of 3,600 quart bottles of allegedly imported Scotch whisky was seized on the Lake Shore road early today by state troopers and two Detroit men were arrested. Police valued the seizure at $41,000.

Finds Doors Gone For Failure to Pay Bill

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—When John C. Brennan came home the other night, with the key to the house extended in one hand, he didn't have to bother to unlock the door, because there wasn't any.

This seemed strange, so he walked right in and passed to the rear of the place, to find that the back door was also missing.

Then he looked at the garage and found that his wife's job of putting up the car had been greatly simplified because there wasn't any door there either.

The mystery of the doorless front and rear was explained when Brennan appeared before Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter, with John Bunch, the millwork man who put the doors up in the first place. He explained he had taken them away because the bill for his work was unpaid.

Doctor Killed Giving Electric Treatment

TONKAWA, Okla., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Dr. Joseph M. Hancock, 55, was killed yesterday as he administered an electric treatment to a patient. He accidentally turned a switch with his foot and fell against a high voltage wire. He died just after a nurse cut off the current.

An attendant, A. B. Mayes, and Mrs. Albert Robinson, wife of the patient, received slight shocks. The patient was not injured.

U. S. Will Auction 49,334 Seal Skins

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Eighty per cent of the world's annual supply of seal skins is on its way to St. Louis to be tanned, dyed and sold at public auction.

The shipment consists of 49,334 skins taken from the Pribilof Island herd by the United States Bureau of Fisheries. Under an international agreement, 15 per cent of the proceeds from the sale go to Japan and Great Britain.

HEARING WAITS PENSION AUDIT

A hearing to determine whether an injunction to prevent reduction of police pensions should be made permanent was postponed in Common Pleas Court for a week today, pending completion of an audit of the pension fund.

Retired officers who obtained an injunction to prevent the cut from $86 to $51.60 a month were given permission to have the fund audited. Attorney Ralph H. Smith, counsel for the Veteran Police Association, told Judge Thomas M. Marshall a continuance was necessary pending the audit.

Poincare Recovered Presides at Council

BAR LE DUC, France, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Raymond Poincare, war time president of France, presided yesterday at a session of the general council of the Department of the Meuse. It was the first public function in which he had engaged for a long time because of poor health. M. Poincare announced recently that he is a candidate for election to the Senate.

Wife Drops Charge, Husband Discharged

Roger B. Wheeler, 23, of May street, North Bessemer, was discharged from surety of the peace charges when his wife withdrew the complaint, which she had filed, it was learned today. The case, growing out of a quarrel, was to have been heard by Justice of the Peace August Miller, of Unity, last Saturday.

PHILS FACE PIRATES TODAY

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Grimm Earns Retention.

Champ May Drop Title.
Two Claiming Pinckert.

CUBS WIN 14 IN 19 UNDER NEW BOSS

AMONG THE MAJOR league managers already renamed for the season of 1933, none deserved reappointment more than Charley Grimm. The action of the Cub owners in signing Grimm to continue as leader of the club next year will be generally approved in baseball circles as the logical step. The popular former Pirate, whose new contract came almost as a birthday present, by the way, inasmuch as he will celebrate his thirty-third anniversary tomorrow, has made good just about as quickly as any pilot ever did.

Charley Grimm

Grimm brought about a great change in the spirit of the Bruins after taking charge of them. Under his leadership they have won 14 of their last 19 games. Of the preceding 19 games under Rogers Hornsby, they lost 10. They played little better than .500 ball for Hornsby during the season, and were five games below first place when Grimm took the reins to drive them into the leadership. The hardest task for Charley and his Bruins comes now in the series with their Brooklyn pennant rivals, a series, incidentally, that offers the Pirates a chance to gain on one or both of the clubs ahead of them if George Gibson's men can meanwhile hit up a winning gait against the Phils.

THE DOUBLEHEADER BETWEEN the Pirates and Phils tomorrow, resulting from the moving up of the game scheduled for September 1, to save the Quakers from spending three idle days on the road, will be the final bargain bill of the Forbes Field season, barring postponements or tie games during the remainder of the home stay.

The Bucs have not enjoyed any great measure of success in doubleheaders during recent weeks. Since they cleaned up two such affairs in succession in New York on July 27 and 28 they have played six twin engagements. Three times in a row they lost both games and in the last three they broke even, or nine defeats against only three victories.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE rule providing that, when a protested game is thrown out, the work done by every player shall count in the official averages and records, is being followed by the American League in connection with the Yankee-Tiger game of August 1, which President Harridge ordered played over.

Everything done by every player counts just as though the game had stood. Denny MacFayden keeps his pitching victory and Earl Whitehill is charged with a defeat.

IT WAS TOUGH enough for the Braves to lose their hard-hitting outfielder, Bob Worthington, through a broken leg, but Bill McKechnie's ill luck did not stop there. He has been deprived of the services of another valuable player for the remainder of the season, Catcher Pinky Hargrave having suffered a broken ankle in blocking the plate when George Watkins was stealing home in a game at St. Louis. With Art Shires added, the Braves are finishing without the services of three of the best men, as the result of severe injuries in action.

Floyd Vaughan

NO MATTER WHAT Floyd Vaughan's all-around record may be for the present season, there is no doubt about his future, in the opinion of Max Carey. "That kid is going to be a great ball player," Carey predicts. "He has speed and a great arm.

"Also, Vaughan is going to be one of the best left-hand hitters in the league. He lacks only experience. It must be remembered that he had only one year of professional experience before coming up, and he was asked to play shortstop for a club fighting for a pennant, and beside a secondbaseman who also is a kid."

OLLIE CARNEGIE, former sandlotter of this district, leads the International League at knocking in runs, with 119 to his credit in 115 games. He is hitting .345 and ranks fourth among the players who have played in 100 or more games, being headed by Puccinelli, of Rochester, .395; Walker, of Newark, .357, and Arlett, of Baltimore, .350.

Frank Packard, Pittsburgh lad with Baltimore, is hitting .326. Bill Regan, on the same club, has a mark of .279, and George Susce, with Montreal, is listed at .226. Two ex-Pirates, Clyde Barnhart and Jim Stroner, are hitting .321 and .316 for Jersey City and Baltimore.

AMONG THE MOST ardent admirers of Equipoise as a great race horse is John McGraw, former manager of the Giants. He goes so far as to express the opinion that Equipoise not only is as good as Man o' War was, but may be even better, pointing out that Man o' War was retired at the very peak of his career after his 3-year-old season and was not asked to meet the handicap field and give it weight, as has been the case with Equipoise as a 4-year-old. "When Equipoise starts running, all the others look as though they were tied," McGraw remarked to Bill Corum. "Sonny Workman knows him so well he knows just when to let him down, and when he does it ceases to be a horse race. Equipoise has such a burst of speed that he doesn't have to run more than about an eighth of a mile in each race. I think he is about as fine a horse as American racing has produced."

THE CASE OF Maxie Rosenbloom is in contrast to the usual kind, in which a champion is ordered by a boxing commission or the N. B. A. to defend his title or forfeit it. Rosenbloom has notified the New York commission to find an opponent for him. Otherwise, he says, he will surrender his championship.

Business is so dull in the light-heavyweight division, Rosenbloom reports, that unless the New York board finds an opponent for him in a title match he will surrender the 175-pound crown and cast his lot with the heavyweights.

THERE'S A FOOTBALL fight in progress between University of Southern California and University of California at Los Angeles for playing privileges at the Los Angeles Coliseum, recently renamed Olympic Stadium.

The Trojans have been using the field since 1923 and claim to have had a lease giving them first right to the Stadium on all Saturdays and holidays from September 13 to December 31, each year. They are asking for another 10-year preferential lease of the same nature. U. C. L. A. says it would be frozen out by such an arrangement, except for such dates as the Trojans might not want, and has applied for equal rights to play at the field with a fair division of dates. The decision is up to the Los Angeles City Council and the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

Ernie Pinckert

ANOTHER COAST FOOTBALL figure involved in a squabble is Ernie Pinckert, famous Southern California back. It was announced a few days ago that Pinckert had turned pro and signed a contract with the New York Giants for the coming fall. Whether or not Ernie signed two contracts has not been established, but from the football headquarters of the Boston Braves in the same league comes the assertion that Pinckert is Boston property and cannot play with the Giants. So there's something else to be straightened out. Pinckert, who evidently believes himself free to join the Giants, says he decided to turn pro because he wants to complete his education. "I can average about $300 a game and there are 15 games during a season," he explained. "I don't know of any other honest way I can earn that much money in three months. I hope to return to Southern California in December, enroll for the spring semester and complete my course." course."

MRS. CAMPBELL BOWS TO MRS. WADSWORTH

By TOM BIRKS

Mrs. Sarah Fownes Wadsworth, of Oakmont, will oppose Mrs. W. G. Boggs, of Chartiers Heights, and Miss Barbara Warncastle, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, will meet Mrs. F. S. Sloan, of Edgewood, in semi-final round matches in the annual Western Pennsylvania women's golf championship tournamentat the Fox Chapel Golf Club tomorrow.

As a result of her manner of winning today, Mrs. Wadsworth will go into the semi-finals as the title favorite. In putting out Mrs. Frank Campbell, of Stanton Heights, former champion, the Oakmont star this morning shot the most brilliant golf of the tournament, turning in a medal score of 83. Mrs. Campbell, too, played extremely well, and her defeat, 1 up, was due to her requiring three putts to hole out on the eighteenth green.

MEDALIST DEFEATED

Mrs. Sloan, who plays in the No. 1 position on the Edgewood team in the women's team league, advanced at the expense of Mrs. Louis K. Friedman, Westmoreland champion and tournament medalist. This match also was decided on the home green, Mrs. Sloan winning by 2 up

In the duel of young and accomplished stars, Miss Warncastle started sensationally and finished well to defeat Miss Violet Trautman, of the Pittsburgh Country Club, 4 and 3. Mrs. Boggs put out the only remaining out-of-town title contestant, Mrs. William Ritter, Johnstown champion, 4 and 2.

SENSATIONAL FINISH

Mrs. Campbell's defeat was something of a heart-breaker in that she matched Mrs. Wadsworth's record-breaking medal score of 83 for the round. On the eighteenth, where Mrs. Wadsworth needed only a halve to win, the Oakmont star topped her second shot into a ditch, and required four strokes to reach the green. Mrs. Campbell, meanwhile, was just off the edge of the green in two, and it appeared that the match would be squared. Mrs. Campbell, however, weakly topped her third just on to the edge of the putting surface, and then took three more strokes to hole out. Mrs. Wadsworth holded out a 10-footer for the halve that meant victory.

Mrs. Wadsworth was a finalist last year.

PAR-SHATTERING START

Miss Warmcastle, regarded as the Oakmonter's most dangerous rival, shot an eagle 3 on the first hole and a birdie 4 on the second in opening her match against Miss Trautman. The Field Club ace's

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON: A JOURNALISTIC RECORD—Murat Halstead (1892-1928) began his journalistic career with the Cincinnati Commercial in 1853. He established himself as one of the most brilliant war correspondents during the Civil War and the Franco-Prussian War of 1870. He was a man of tremendous energy and fertility. Between 1858 and 1898 he is estimated to have written more than 40,000,000 words, or at the rate of 1,000,000 words a year. Eventually he applied himself to the writing of books, about a score of which were quite profitable and lengthy.

BUCCO MOUND FORCES IN BAD WAY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The ball club that started the Pirates off on their terrible slump came to Pittsburgh today after doing a nice folding up act in Chicago. Victors in 11 of their 15 jousts with the Buccos to date, the Quakers will take on the Gibsonites this afternoon in the first clash of a four-game series. A doubleheader will be played tomorrow, the bargain bill being the result of moving up the contest originally scheduled at Forbes Field for September 1.

Dick Bartell, Chuck Klein and their buddies certainly did take it on the chin early and often after they had trounced the Pirates four times in a row in Philly to throw the Buccos off their pennant stride. Bartell probably gets a lot of satisfaction out of the Phils' feats when playing the Buccos, but the Quakers' doings while facing the Cubs were something that will hardly bring any cheers from or for the Men of Shotton.

ELLIOTT MAY HURL

If the team from the City of Brotherly Love runs true to form it will have Jumbo Jim Elliott all set for action against the Buccos this afternoon. This big left-hander has been a fly in the ointment since he left the Dodgers to earn his board and keep in the Philly family.

Manager Gibson's flinging staff is in bad condition owing to sickness and injuries, but Bill Harris appears to be able-bodied. Gibby stated this morning he probably would use the Texas Leaguer on the slab against the Eastern Pennsylvanians.

Steve Swetonic, Remy Kremer and Ervin Brame are all on the sick list so that the Pittsburgh club is pretty well shot in the hurling department. Swetonic and Kremer are suffering with lame arms and nobody seems to know when either will be ready. Brame is out with a cold. The last two named have been of little use to the club this year.

The courage of Larry French again dominated a Pittsburgh victory as the Pirates toppled the Giants yesterday in their last meeting of the season at Forbes Field. The score was 4 to 3.

French jumped into the battle after only two days of rest and twirled a fine game. He shared the hero honors of the afternoon with Gus Suhr, than whom there is no better hustler in the National League at the present stage of the race.

SUHR'S HIT WINS

Suhr came up in the third with the bases loaded and none out. On the mound was clever Carl Hubbell, who like French flings a mean screw ball. Hubbell has been a pain in the neck to Pittsburgh clubs since the day he landed in the National League, but San Francisco Gus rubbed out some of the sorrow in the big clinch by smashing a double off the right-field wall that gave a passport to the plate to P. Waner, Vaughan and Comorosky. The three markers added to one made in the second were just enough to insure the victory.

The Giants fought back furiously for the Forbes Field finale. They scored single runs in the fifth and seventh and almost had the tieing run across in the seventh. P. Waner's throw to the plate on Leski's fluke double cut down Marshall. Hogan opened the ninth with a hot grounder which Vaughan fumbled to put the tieing run on. French, however, took the next three hitters in a row.

TWO SHATTER 100 TARGETS

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Perfect and near perfect shooting continued today in the fifth card of events in the Grand American trapshooting tournament. Ben Mescher, Emery, S. D., and Walter Beaver, of Berwyn, Pa., were the first to post 100 scores in the race for state champions, while John Jahn, Spirit Lake, Ia., jumped to the front in the professional clay target championship of North America with a perfect score at the halfway mark.

Billy Hoon, Jewell, Ia., who tied for the North American amateur championship yesterday and then lost to Monty Dewire, Hamilton, Ind., after a 125-target shootoff, was out this morning with 99 out of 100, boosting his total for two days to 498 out of 500.

George Tucker, 72-year-old marksman of Gilmer, Tex., led the early finishers at the halfway mark in the veterans' race with 93 out of 100 targets.

Mrs. Hill Leads At Turn, 4 Up

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Clicking off a 37, three under par, Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Kansas City, defending champion in the Women's Western golf championship, today reached the turn in her second round match against Mrs. Austin Pardue, Minneapolis, 4 up.

CHILLY SAUCE

Having hit the bullseye for his fiftieth two-bagger yesterday, Paul Waner needs only 10 more doubles to establish a National League record. To hang up a new mark for the majors, however, he must click with 18 before the season ends.

Paul Waner

Chuck Klein, of the Phearless Phils, owns the high mark in the senior circuit. Klein unloaded 59 two-sackers in 1930. Earl Webb, Detroit outfielder of the present, who played with the Cubs a few years back, is the possessor of the major record. Playing with the Red Sox last year, Webb connected for 67 doubles.

Brother Paul's fiftieth smacker wasn't fair by more than two or three inches as it skipped over the outside corner of third base. The little slugger had been playing tunes on the rightfield walls until he encountered his slump. By scattering his punches he is gradually throwing Ol' Joe Jinx off his neck.

Gus Suhr's spirit is something to be commended. The clever first baseman has been up against a bad handicap in combating something like two lefthanders in each set of three games, but he has refused to submit. His winning double of yesterday was delivered like a champ would spank one.

Suhr's fielding and base running thrill the fans. It is doubtful if Charley Grimm or Bill Terry could make some of the assists which Suhr has turned in at second base. He hounds the ball and throws strikes whenever he cuts one. Let's have a cheer for Gus.

Larry French has copped his last three battles on the merit of nerve and skill. His defeat at the hands of the Braves before he started his present string saw him in a four-hit effort.

Comorosky came through with two hits and a sacrifice and he was deprived of another single when his hot smash off Bell's foot caromed into Hughey Critz's hands.

The latest Pittsburgh success showed the Buccos in a better tone all around. There was a real zest to their play. It is unfortunate that three of the club's pitchers are laid up with so much at stake.—CHARLES J. DOYLE.

FLY CASTERS WITH SEALS

Fly-casting champions from all sections of the country and a famous steeplechase jockey from England will be featured in the weekly broadcast of the Trained Seals of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph sports department over Station WCAE this evening. The program will run from 6:50 to 7:15.

Charley Edwards

C. W. Ward, president of the local chapter of the Izaak Walton League and the Pittsburgh Casting Club, which is staging the twenty-fourth annual tournament of the National Association of Scientific Angling Clubs, starting tomorrow at Lake Carnegie in Highland Park, will present the following champions:

Al Foss, Cleveland; E. S. Sutter, Chicago; Charley Edwards, Chicago; Robert Clarkson, Chicago; Fred White, Chicago; A. A. Trimble, Cleveland; Otto H. Peters, Buffalo; Eddie Braddon, Cleveland; Lou J. Hurst, Indianapolis; Leo A. Kob, Chicago, and A. Accetta, Cleveland.

Pat O'Donnell, well known steeplechase rider of England, now a resident of Pittsburgh, will relate some of his experiences in the outstanding races staged in this country and abroad. O'Donnell will ride in the Pittsburgh Hunt Club steeplechase next Saturday.

Herbert (Hub) Rinehart, Pittsburgh's singing tennis star; Miss Marian Salmon, WCAE pianist, and Leland Becraft, WCAE announcer, also will participate in the program. Julius Levin, of the Sun-Telegraph sports department, will be master of ceremonies.

EVANS LEADS MOE IN WESTERN AMATEUR GOLF MATCH

CHAMP 1 DOWN AT HALFWAY POINT

BULLETIN.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Back on the scene of some of his greatest conquests, Charles (Chick) Evans, Jr., of Chicago, today dethroned the youth, Don Moe, defending title-holder from Portland, Ore., 1 up in a sizzling first-round match of the Western Amateur golf championship.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Charles (Chick) Evans, Jr., of Chicago, held a one-up margin on the defending title-holder, Don Moe, of Portland, Ore., at the halfway mark of their first round 18-hole match in the Western Amateur golf championship today. Evans shot a par 36 for the stretch.

Bob McCrary, the tiny Scot from Des Moines, landed one-up over his rival, Arthur Bartlett, of Ottumwa, in an all-Iowa match. McCrary shot a medal score of 37 to Bartlett's 39.

Al Miller, of Chicago, led Billy Sixty, of Milwaukee, and Gus Fetz, of Chicago, topped A. J. Huhta, of DeKalb, Ill., both by one-hole through the ninth.

Charley Seaver, of Los Angeles, Walker Cup team member, shot par 36 to snatch a one-up lead over Frank Renwick, of Aurora, Ill., at nine.

Johnny Lehman, of Chicago, tournament medalist with a record-breaking 36-hole total of 137 shots, went out in 35, one under par, but it was only good for one-up lead over Joel Shepherd, of Kalamazoo, Mich.

SANDLOT GRID CONFAB SET

The initial meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Independent Football Conference will be held Sunday afternoon in the sports department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Just how the big professional loop will stack up this season cannot be told until the meeting is over. The success of the J. P. Rooneys is going far afield Art Rooney, manager of the popular North Side club, held a conference recently with Ray Peebles, newspaperman, and William McClelland, prominent sportsman of Erie, with an idea of the Rooneys representing Erie in pro football circles this season.

The Erie team has one of the best fields in the district, can play night ball and hopes to bring the outstanding teams of the Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Cleveland districts for night games.

Rooney wants Erie to organize its club and play in the Conference, which may be done yet, with a prominent Pittsburgh manager in charge of the team. Akron Awnings have been invited to attend the Conference as have the Cleveland Pennzoils.

The Burns Club, of New Kensington, is expected to be back. There is a movement on foot to have Grafton Sullivan, one of the most popular managers New Kensington ever has had, run the club. Sullivan was singularly successful during the days of Billy Doll. The McKeesport Olympics will be back and East Liverpool and Ambridge Merchants are reported as planning teams.

One Way to Ruin Chance to Score

UMPIRE PFIRMAN MARSHALL GRACE

Marshall's failure to slide in the seventh inning robbed the Giants of a chance to tie the score in yesterday's game with the Bucs. Marshall was on second as a result of a double when Leslie, batting for Schumacher, hit a lucky two-bagger to right. Marshall attempted to score standing up and was nailed at the plate on Paul Waner's throw to Grace. The Pirates won, 4-3. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

WADDELL SET FOR SEASON

By JESS CARVER

There is one coach for whom the approaching football season holds no terrors. It wouldn't hold a terror if his team had to play Notre Dame, Pitt, Southern California, Army, Tulane, Michigan, Ohio State and Spearfish on successive afternoons. The coach is Bobby Waddell, of Carnegie Tech and the reason—well, read on.

Bob Waddell

Though it is not generally known, but this fellow Waddell, who is about as pleasant and even tempered lad as decorates any gridiron picture, hasn't been a well man for some time. He hasn't been on a cracker-and-milk diet exactly, but until recently, his innards didn't function as Robrt would have liked. He thought maybe his toofies were on the fritz, blamed the depression, the Socialist party and everything from the drainage situation in Russia to some bum lobster he put away at a banquet back in '18.

APPENDIX REMOVED

Then he let the medicos take a peek at his appendix, and after they'd peeked and probed and prodded, he had them excavate. Result—a new Waddell. He brags of his half-a-grand operation (who, in these times, wouldn't?) and sits back and rubs his hands in anticipation of another year with the Carnegie footballers. Win or lose, Robert N. remains Robert N., always has in the past and now that he is in the best of physical trim—he plans to beam and beam.

"I have nothing to worry about. The depression? Why, it helped me. The doctors told me after I left the hospital not to do any strenuous work or lift anything heavy. I always have been against strenuous work and the depression took away the only heavy thing I ever lifted—my pocketbook. I'm in swell shape; Tech is going to win (or lose) all its games; we are going to have a lot of fun; Notre Dame will be Notre Dame and the officials always will be wrong."

Joking to one side or the other, Waddell looks for a great grid season hereabouts. He's glad he doesn't have to tackle the schedule they've lined up for Jock Sutherland and hopes that Tech will be able to take Notre Dame and Pitt, its two biggest games.

Bob will call his Skibo warriors together one week from next Tuesday for the initial drill.

The Tipoff

The assistant coaches and scouts out at Pitt are spending a lot of time worrying about which of their number will be the fortunate one and be assigned to go to California to scout Stanford. It is understood that the Panthers will put a scout on the Cardinals for two or three games.

There will be a general exodus of football coaches from Pittsburgh to their respective charges next week. Luby DiMeolo, assistant head mentor at New York U., will head for Farmingdale, L. I., where the Violets will train; Don Feagan, line coach at Villanova, will go back to Philadelphia; Tom Davies will return to Rochester, N. Y., and Ed McMillen will prepare to leave for Princeton.

Davies, by the way, holds one of the neatest coaching jobs in the country. Football never has been overemphasized at Rochester, one of the three most heavily endowed colleges in the country. If you win there, o. k.—if not, it's still o. k. Tom has a five-year contract at present calling for an annual stipend as great as that commanded by any coach in this territory, and when the present agreement runs out, he is in line for a new 10-year one.

The Koppers Building is recovering nicely from the meeting of the football officials there Monday night, at which time the new rules were discussed. Engineers say the way in which the building held up is a tribute to the building skill of modern man.

When he heard that Jess Quaise, Pitt's tackle star of last year, was in California, where he has a part in a movie, Bunny (Four Wins) Buntack cracked: "What! Are they refilming 'Frankenstein?'"

Nathan K. Parker, Dartmouth football captain in 1925 and former Rhodes scholar, has been named a member of the coaching staff at Swarthmore College by George R. Pfann, head coach. Parker now is with a local brokerage house.

Cancellation of the Santa Clara University-Rice Institute football game tentatively scheduled for December 10 at San Francisco, has been announced. Alvin J. Wolf, manager of athletics at Santa Clara, said that "in view of the fact that the second week in December is not a favorable date for an intersectional game in San Francisco, the board of athletic control of the University of Santa Clara has definitely canceled their proposed game with Rice Institute."

Charley Cravotta Gives Up Ring

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—A sparkling ring career of 101 wins in 110 fights came to an end last night with the announcement by Charley Cravotta, Uniontown welterweight and a member of the United States Olympic team, that he is retiring from the roped arena.

Cravotta, who was married on the eve of his departure for Los Angeles, was picked as an alternate for Eddie Flynn, Olympic winner in the welterweight division.

The Uniontown battler lost to Flynn in the finals for the American team but his showing was such that judges named him as a substitute for Flynn should the latter have been incapacitated.

ANSWER TO QUERY

J. A., Mt. Oliver—"Batter hits ball, which strikes foul along first baseline, six feet in front of plate, but bounds inside of first base and is fielded by first baseman. Is this a fair or foul ball?" Answer—Ball is fair.

SENATOR WIN RULED OUT

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Charleston's victory over the Huntington Boosters at Huntington Sunday has been declared illegal by Elmer Daily, president of the Middle Atlantic League. The game will be replayed later.

Johnny Stuart, manager of the Boosters, pitched the game for his team and after complaints were registered by other clubs a check-up revealed Stuart was not on the list of eligible players.

In yesterday's Middle Atlantic League tussles, Charleston held over the second place Beckley Knights by defeating them, 2 to 0, at Charleston. Murdock limited the Knights to three scattered hits.

Sandlot baseball interest this evening turns to West Field, Homestead, where the Aces, under the leadership of Jack Fertig, clash with the Carrick Eagles for the championship of the second half in the West Penn League.

Manager Fruend and his South Hills aggregation will fight hard to win this game, as it means a post-season playoff series and big gates. The Aces, with the first half title safely tucked away, naturally will strive to offset this idea.

One game will be played in the City League, Homewood clashing with Dormont at the High School Field. Manager Falconer still has an idea that Dormont has a chance for that second half.

The Books gained half a game on the idle Thomas nine in the second half City circuit race last evening by nosing out the North Siders, 5 to 3, in a nip and tuck battle on the Salt Works' grounds. Books, first half champs, now trail the Bloomfielders by just half a game, having lost one game more than the leaders.

The Scott Morgans hammered the Jack Potts nine, 6 to 2, and Millikens upset Pitcairn, 5-4, in important County League tussles.

Carrick Eagles defeated the St. Clair Frogs in a non-league fray, 4 to 3; Immaculate Heart downed the Cup Jenkins nine, 5 to 3, and Frick Park took the Martins, 5 to 2.

WILSON AFTER BATTLE WITH TED YAROSZ

Young Tommy vs. Midget Weigast, 10 rounds (non-title), Oakland, Cal.

By JAMES MILLER

If Jack Wilson, hard-hitting middleweight of the North Side, wins over Frankie Goosby, Cleveland Negro, in their 10-round main bout at Greenlee Field tomorrow night, he will demand a bout with Ted Yarosz, the Monaca boxer, who remains undefeated.

Irish Kane, Wilson's manager, claims that should he defeat Goosby, a good boxer with a punch, Wilson would be a logical local opponent for Yarosz.

The card is complete for the show tomorrow night, with the signing of Al Becker, of Sheraden, who defeated Jimmy Vaughn, of Johnstown, at the Hill arena last week, and Tony Constantine, of Soho, for the second bout. In the semi-final, Jackie Wilson, Negro, of Homewood, meets Joey Bosak, of Chicago. Curley Klaas, of the North Side, makes his pro debut in the opener against Jack Smiley, of the Hill.

Between Rounds

Six star amateur bouts are scheduled for the annual outing of the Shrine Auto Club this evening at Turner Grove.

A big celebration is planned by the Ameritia Club to honor the Italian Olympic boxing team when it arrives in town for bouts against the best of the local amateurs at Greenlee Field, Monday night. The personnel of the invaders is as follows:

Rodiques Edelvis, flyweight; Alesandra, featherweight; Bianchini Mario, lightweight; Fabroni Luciano, welterweight; Lenginotti Aldo, middleweight; Rossi Gino, light-heavyweight, and Rovati Luigi, heavyweight.

Andy Kosel, classy Wilmerding bantamweight, has been matched with Sammy Asto, of Uniontown, for the six-round second bout to the Ted Yarosz-Jimmy Belmont feature at Hickey Park, Millvale, Monday night. Matchmaker Bus Vogel is trying to line up Joey Speiser and Tom Maico, of Soho, for his semi-final. General Burr, Negro, of Aliquippa, will be one of the principals in the opener.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Well, I guess the Boston Braves' chances for success this fall have joined hands with the Socialist ticket. But the boys sure held on for quite a spell this year. You know, a Boston team's theme song is always "Will You Love Me In September as You Do In May?" because they look like champions till about Memorial Day when they start gathering lilies in their hands.

Nick Altrock

The Braves haven't won a pennant since 1914, and this season they figured they had a chance to come back just like the 17-year locusts. But I guess the boys got a head cold on their present road trip and started to blow up.

Oh, well, what can you expect in a year like this?

MORGANTOWN NET TOURNEY PLANS SET

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The fourth annual Morgantown Country Club invitation tennis tourney will get under way on the four clay courts of the sponsoring organization Friday, September 2, at 9:30 a. m. The foregoing decision was arrived at after lengthy deliberation by the board of governors of the Mountaineer outfit, doubt as to the feasibility of attempting a tournament under current conditions having been overcome just about in time to gather strong field for the usual Labor Day week-end dates.

Competition will be confined to men's singles and doubles. Women's singles will be temporarily discontinued due to dearth of rectangles for the holding of a four-day event.

Charley Hodges, genial boss of hostilities for the past three years, has been re-appointed secretary and, we daresay, official referee. Harold Carspecken is chairman of the committee in charge and has as able assistants J. Lewis Williams, John G. Zevely and George Dudderar. Entries may be mailed to Charles E. Hodges, Box 813, Morgantown, W. Va.

Tomorrow afternoon at the Westmont Tennis Club, Johnstown, there begin the yearly Southern Pennsylvania championships. Rufus Cooper, Westmont High School classmate of Dave and John O'Loughlin, defends the men's singles flagon on which he at present holds two legs.

"Oh Yeah? BUT SCIENCE SAYS O.G. IS THE BEST CIGARETTE"

© P. Lorillard Co., Inc.

NO MATTER how high you climb, or how far you go . . . you can't lose the cigarette ads.

Each brand never stops trailing you in its pleasant effort to win you over.

For our part, we say: "If you enjoy the brand you're smoking, STICK TO IT. All modern cigarettes are good."

On the other hand, if you truly want to know the cigarette of finest quality, let's dismiss the usual cigarette claims . . . and look for evidence!

Here's the impartial testimony of Science:

In 75 laboratory cigarette tests,* checked and verified by scientists of two leading universities, OLD GOLD was found to be the coolest and throat-easiest cigarette.

OLD GOLD won these tests because it is made of the PUREST and choicest tobacco . . . free of all hot-burning flavorings. That's the "why" of "not a cough in a carload." The why of O. G.'s greater taste appeal and throat-ease.

THE VERDICT OF SCIENCE

This is to certify that in 75 repeated tests made of four leading cigarette brands . . . measuring the heat content of each cigarette by the Calorimeter method . . . it was shown that OLD GOLD is from 112 to 156 B. T. U's. COOLER than the other brands. Careful measurement of the heat of the smoke further confirmed the fact that the smoke of OLD GOLD is definitely cooler.

CUBS, DODGERS OPEN KEY SERIES

BRUINS FACE BIG CHANCE IN RACE

Associated Press.

Having been giving a vote of confidence in the form of a contract to pilot the Chicago Cubs next season, Charley Grimm is afforded an opportunity the next three afternoons to thank his employers in the big, expansive manner.

All Grimm needs to do to repay all past favors from the front office is to drive his Cubs to victory over the second place Brooklyn Dodgers in their three-game "key series" starting today.

Three straight from the Dodgers and they can just about start measuring Wrigley Field for a world series that should break all attendance figures.

SERIES IMPORTANT

Three and a half games in front today, a clean sweep would place the Cubs virtually out of reach of the Dodgers and in fine position to withstand any closing drive Pittsburgh might summon. Brooklyn goes into the vital series fortified by a two-day rest, determined to crack the Cubs and start a drive that will carry them to the pennant.

The Cubs beat the Phillies for the fourth straight time yesterday, 5 to 1, as Pat Malone gave a warm, but weird demonstration of pitching skill. So successful was the veteran at making the Phils pop up that his side made only one assist, tying the major league record.

Pittsburgh beat the Giants, 4 to 3, to climb within a game of the idle Dodgers. Larry French pitched his second victory of the series.

The Boston Braves climbed into fourth place by defeating St. Louis 6 to 3. Wally Berger banged a home run and two singles.

WASHINGTON WINS

Washington and Cleveland gave the feature performance in the American League, the Senators winning a 13-inning struggle, 5 to 4, when Sam Rice singled to drive in Manush with the deciding run.

Tony Lazzeri's triple, a towering drive that Garms lost in the sun in the last of the ninth inning, drove across two runs and gave the Yankees an 8-to-7 decision over the St. Louis Browns.

Mickey Cochrane smote two home runs and two singles and drove in five runs as the Philadelphia Athletics buffeted the White Sox, 15 to 7.

Although Uhle and Bridges held Boston to five hits, the Detroit Tigers had to stage a two-run rally in the eighth to nose out the Red Sox, 5 to 4.

Gizzy Scores Win In Amateur Scrap

Young Gizzy, amateur prototype of his wild-swinging pro brother, Battling Gizzy, defeated Jean Pier, of the North Side A. C., in the feature battle of the simon-pure ring show at the Twenty-seventh Ward Republican Club last evening.

Millo Franke, home club 112-pounder, knocked out Joe Crynik, of the Todd A. C., in the first round. The summary:

112-pound class—Millo Franke, Twenty-seventh Ward Club, knocked out Joe Crynik, Todd A. C., first round.

120-pound class—Young Gizzy, Todd A. C., defeated Jean Pier, North Side A. C., 3 rounds.

135-pound class—Joey Severino, Twenty-seventh Ward Club, won by a technical knockout over Young Smitty, Todd A. C., second round.

145-pound class—Joe Moglan, Twenty-seventh Ward Club, defeated Johnny Weir, Todd A. C., 3 rounds.

MRS. WILLIAM RITTER, JOHNSTOWN GOLF CHAMPION

Mrs. Ritter furnished one of the big upsets of the first round when she eliminated Mrs. L. G. Riley, of Edgewood, 1 up. Mrs. Ritter, however, met her Waterloo in a second-round match with Mrs. W. G. Boggs, of Chartiers Heights, 4 and 2. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

VIOLET TRAUTMAN, VANQUISHER OF LINDSAY BOYD

Miss Boyd, of Montour Heights, one of the favorites to win the tournament at Fox Chapel, fell by the wayside in the first round at the hands of Miss Trautman, 2 and 1. Miss Trautman was eliminated by Barbara Warmcastle in a second-round match today, 4 and 3. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

BREHM BEATEN IN NET PLAY

Second round men's and women's singles competition featured today's program of hostilities in the first annual County Recreation Bureau novice tennis tournament, in progress since Monday morning on the six clay courts of South Park.

Outstanding contenders battled through morning tussles with only one serious upset. Bob Moyer, Riverview Park ace, registered in love sets over Bill Brehm, while Elmer Artzberger, South Hills satellite, disposed of Ralph Queck in short order, 6-1, 6-1. Oscar Saperstein, Bridgeville luminary, remained hot on the comeback trail with 6-1, 6-11 verdict at expense of B. Lorenzi, as Henry Ackerman, Rockwood mainstay, trimmed Frank Kowalski, 6-2, 6-2, and his team-mates, Harold Hatch and Don Dixon, accounted respectively for H. McFarland, 6-1, 6-1, and J. McDonald, 6-0, 6-2.

Bill Blum, North Side veteran and brother of Tourney Chairman Henry Blum, fell victim to the steady sharp-shooting of Richard Grant, 6-1, 1-6, 6-3, in the lone reversal of the session. Blum, looked upon as excellent bet to progress well into the latter brackets, found his darkhorse opponent a tough proposition to batter down and erred frequently enough, in stanzas one and three to decide the issue. The summary:

MEN'S SINGLES

Second round—George Bookie defeated Robert Schneider, 6-0, 6-2; Robert Meyer defeated William R. Brehm, 6-0, 6-0; Elmer Artzberger defeated Ralph Queck, 6-1, 6-1; Ray Burch defeated Jack S. Jamison, 6-4, 6-4; Oscar Saperstein defeated B. Lorenzi, 6-1, 6-11; Rich Grant defeated William Blum, 6-1, 1-6, 6-3; Mel Wertman won from Thomas Nee, by default; Kin Darragh won from John Raid, by default; Roger Ingham defeated Paul Martin, 6-3, 6-1; Frank Herron defeated William Ender, 6-4, 6-3; Henry Ackerman defeated Frank Kowalski, 6-2, 6-2; Roy Heckler defeated James Nugent, 6-1, 6-2; P. Galbreath won from K. Johnston, by default; William Cully won from J. Macalka, by default; Harold Hatch defeated H. McFarland, 6-1, 6-1; Don Dixon defeated J. McDonald, 6-0, 6-2; H. L. Beltzel defeated Ray Gray, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

WOMEN'S SINGLES

Second round—Etta Burch defeated Mary Lafferty, 6-0, 6-0; May Schneider defeated Ella Lachman, 7-5, 6-6, 6-2.

Third round women's singles play is scheduled for 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. The following matches are listed:

Elizabeth Reker vs. Mildred Cartwright; Caroline Churilla vs. May Schneider; Elizabeth McColligan vs. Kay Ries; Etta Burch vs. Helen Cusic; Margaret McColligan vs. Margarette Esser; Lois Brandt vs. Marie McColligan.

Franklin Promoter May Recover, Report

Leo L. Beatty, baseball coach and boxing promoter, of Franklin, Pa., who suffered brain concussion and a fractured shoulder Monday when the automobile in which he was driving to the Pirates-Giants' game overturned near Etna, was conceded a fair chance of recovery at the Allegheny General Hospital here today.

T. J. Beatty, Leo's father, escaped with bruises, but Kiefer Graham, 73, a farmer residing near Franklin, a third passenger in the car, died early this morning from injuries sustained in the crash.

At Saginaw, Mich.—Cowboy Owen Phelps defeated Freddie Reinz, 10 rounds; Bobby Thomas defeated Jose Fing, six rounds.

At Boston—Dave Shade defeated Norman Conrad, 10 rounds.

2,500 Victories In Store for Connie Mack

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Twenty-five hundred triumphs on the field of baseball.

That will be the achievement of Connie Mack, 69-year-old manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, if his players conquer St. Louis today and tomorrow.

Tomorrow's game will be needed to round out the 2,500 mark. Mack's players are determined to reward him with glorious victories.

Mack, oldest manager in the game, started piloting the A's 31 years ago. He says he won't quit until he feels he has become a handicap to the club.

U. S. NET DUO MEETS FRENCH

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Henri Cochet and Marcel Bernard were to meet Gregory Mangin, of Newark, and Berkeley Bell, of New York, in the quarter-final of the national doubles tennis tournament here today.

The top seeded combination of Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., and John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, opposed Sidney Wood, of New York, and Lester Stoeffen, of Los Angeles, in their quarter-final match. Wood and Stoeffen eliminated J. Satoh and T. Kuwabara, the Japanese combination and third seeded of the foreign entries, in yesterday's play.

The tennis wise looked to Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, and Keith Gledhill, of Los Angeles, to take their quarter-final match with Jack Tidball and Elbert Lewis, of Los Angeles.

Sande to Manage Col. Howard Stable

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Earl Sande, long one of America's foremost jockeys, has announced he will become manager and trainer for Col. Maxwell Howard, Dayton (O.) paper manufacturer.

Col. Howard, who formerly raced thoroughbreds on Metropolitan tracks, is planning formation of a new stable with Sande in complete charge. Their association will begin at the close of the current Saratoga meeting. What riding Sande may do in the future will be for Col. Howard.

Chisox Buy Two, Recall Ed Walsh

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(INS.)—The Chicago White Sox have purchased Outfielder Washington, leading Texas League hitter, and Pitcher Biggs from the Tyler club, it was announced here today.

The club also recalled young Ed Walsh from Oakland and is trying to have Oakland release Gregory Mulleavy so he can play third base.

ARDEN RACES CARDED

SOCCER CHANGE PLANNED

The West Penn Football Association, governing body of soccer in the Pittsburgh district, has under consideration a plan to create a commission to settle all soccer disputes having to do with the eligibility of players, violations of playing rules, and protests and complaints of all kinds.

The commission will be appointed within two weeks, it was indicated at the meeting of the West Penn Council last night.

The Central District Soccer League probably will be reorganized at a meeting at Spartan Hall, Penn avenue and Wood street, Wilkinsburg, tonight. Westinghouse, Clan Douglas and Union Switch already are in line, and Ambridge, Beadling, Braddock, Turtle Creek, Duquesne Republicans, Vikings and Hays Borough are among the teams said to be seeking membership.

Samuel M. Park, 641 Griffin street, Mt. Washington, is issuing players' registration forms.

Phillies Sign Liska, Drop Ace Elliott

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The Philadelphia National League baseball club today announced the signing of Ad Liska, former Washington pitcher, and the release of Harold (Ace) Elliott, righthanded hurler, to make room for the newcomer.

Liska, a "submarine" righthander, who went to Washington from Minneapolis in 1929, joined the Phillies in Chicago, it was announced. He was dropped by the Senators after suffering an arm injury. This was Elliott's second trial with the Phillies. He had won two and lost four this season.

Six-Base Clout Features Game At Uniontown

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—A six-base hit was hammered out by Charley Chalfonte, catcher on the Baptist team in a Uniontown Church League baseball game here last evening.

As he came panting into home-plate, completing a home run, he was met by a frantic teammate, who said:

"You didn't touch first."

So Charley kept on running, retracing his steps. He clawed first with his cleets and dashed for second, making it just ahead of the ball.

ANGLERS SET FOR MEET

The stage is set for the annual tournament of the National Association of Scientific Angling Clubs, slated to get under way at Carnegie Lake, Highland Park, and Forbes Field tomorrow and continue through Sunday. Eight national championship events are included on the varied and interesting program.

All events with the exception of the bait casting trials, will be staged at Highland Park, the bait casters being scheduled to perform at Forbes Field.

The program for the tourney follows:

Tomorrow—Morning, 3/8-ounce weight distance; afternoon, distance fly cast.

Friday—Morning, 3/8-ounce plug for distance; afternoon, salmon fly for distance.

Saturday—Morning, dry fly for accuracy; afternoon, 3/8-ounce for accuracy.

Sunday—Morning, wet fly cast for accuracy; afternoon, 3/8-ounce plug cast for accuracy.

Washington Hurler Signed by Tigers

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 24.—Sammy Griest, 21-year-old pitching star of this city, has been signed by the Detroit Tigers and will be farmed out to Huntington, W. Va., of the Middle Atlantic League, where he will report in the spring.

Griest was recommended to Billy Doyle, Tiger scout, by Earl Dunn, former high school grid star here, and later a member of the Detroit Heralds, professional eleven. Dunn is a Detroit city employe. The Tigers are reported to have an eye on several other players in the Washington County Baseball League, where a number of outstanding stars are performing.

SHADE GETS WIN

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Dave Shade, veteran California middleweight, won a decision over Norman Conrad, young Wilton (N. H.) battler, in a 10-round bout last night at Fenway Park. Shade weighed 161 and Conrad 159.

Advance in Second Grade Rails Attributed to Speculation

The rapid ascent of speculative rail bonds is viewed with some apprehension by bankers, who, in tracing the source of buying, have concluded that it is mostly of speculative nature and therefore capable of disappearing quickly. Neither the banks nor the life insurance companies reveal in recent compilations that they are in the market for second-grade rails, which are furnishing all of the fireworks for the advance. Traders in the over-the-counter market point out that no small part of the buying is traceable to investment trusts, which are scarcely in the mood to lose the opportunity for profits on the initial upswing. The speculators may prove to have been right, bankers say, but if they are not, the market may at some later date prove amazingly thin on the down side.

A good deal of the gossip in the street centers around such rumors as a wheat pool and a forthcoming bull campaign in that market. Another fruitful source of verbal speculation in the boardrooms is the doings centering around the visit of Governor Norman, of the Bank of England. One report which set wires buzzing was that the mysterious Britisher was here in connection with a scheme for raising the international price level. The more confident bulls sniffed at that report, pointing out that commodity indexes, which have been moving up for the past two months, indicated that if that was his real purpose here it might prove to be superfluous. Anyway, the market was illustrating the truth of the old observation that once started it generated its own bullish sentiment and buying power.

One peep into any of the larger boardrooms these days is sufficient to verify the tape indications of a broad increase in public interest in the stock market. Chairs in brokers' offices again are in demand. Considering the advertising the market has been getting on the front pages in recent weeks, reawakening of public interest in the stock market is not surprising. A check-up by one of the leading wire houses in the street showed that, on basis of its loans, there had been a steady increase in public participation in the market this month but nothing like the extent one would expect. Short-covering, both against the box and by day-by-day traders, and foreign demand have accounted for a good part of the buying, brokers say.

Announcement by the Standard Oil of Kansas that it will reorganize and enter the oil producing field after many years as a purchaser and refiner of pertoleum has caused considerable comment in oil circles. Among oil men the general plan of Standard Oil companies has been compared to a pyramid with distribution and sales the broad base. Refining and pipe lines the second layer and production the comparatively sharp top layer. In the case of many of the producing companies, the order is reversed, the pyramid becoming a top with distribution the peg, refining and pipe lines the middle and production the overbalancing upper layer. How desirable the pyramid type of physical setup is is found in the history of many of the present well balanced oil companies which began as producers but have since become refiners and distributors less dependent upon a capricious market.

Broad extension of industrial activities in Canada by American companies will be one of the earliest results of the economic agreement between Canada and Great Britain, according to officials of the Canadian Department of Trade and Commerce.

There is a report at Ottawa to the effect the United States Steel Corporation will increase its Ojibway plant to a $75,000,000 investment to produce the equipment which the conference sought to have Canada purchase from Great Britain. Many United States chemical and steel specialty manufacturers are said to be extending their activities to come within the "empire content" requirements necessary to share overseas preferences.

There are a number of small pools operating in the market, but thus far it is difficult to find any important grouping in any shares, in issues that are selling at low prices. Some groups have bought large quantities of stock without the formal ties of pool agreements. Banks are not favorably disposed toward large pools at the moment and most of these are being formed among Stock Exchange houses, with modest acquirements in view. A number of such pools are made for short periods and for moderate profits, and have been in and out with little trouble in the present market.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 24.—The market was due ½c lower. Opened as due and at 1.26 p. m. was off ½ to ⅝c.

The market was ⅛ to ¼ pence lower at 2.15 p. m.

Wheat closed ¾ to 7/8 lower today.

STEEL OUTPUT UNCHANGED

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Throughout the steel industry there is a belief amounting virtually to a conviction that an improvement of at least moderate proportions will make itself felt soon after Labor Day, the Iron Age said today. But in spite of this confidence steel ingot output is barely holding its own this week at 14 per cent of the country's capacity, unchanged from last week.

In the valley, where motor car steel requirements are such an important factor, production is not above 10 per cent. The Ford Motor Company will resume operations on September 7 and while some other large automobile plants will not increase activities until October, a resumption of steel buying by the motor car manufacturers is expected by mid September.

Railroad buying has not developed, but several roads are expected to enter the market next month for rails and track supplies.

The review reports increased sales and inquiries for pig iron in several centers and further strengthening of scrap prices, but with offsetting declines in prices of several grades of sheets and in foundry iron.

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The stock market appeared wearied today from the effort of reaching new higs for the recovery, and stumbled about confusedly in quieter trading. The list showed considerable weakness in the early afternoon.

Efforts to bid up some of the lower priced issues, while profit taking was going on in several of the traditional leaders, met with limited success. A few isolated groups were higher, with the hard coal railroad issues registering some sharp gains. Coppers and merchandising issues had an interval of strength.

The midweek business statistics were mildly encouraging, particularly the report of electric power production for the week ended August 20, showing the best seasonal upturn for that period since August, 1929. Of course, the volume of business had already started to recede in this month, three years ago. Compared to last year, production for the week was off 12.9 per cent, a slightly better comparison than the two previous weeks, when it was off 13.1 per cent.

A number of traders, however, appeared to be willing to take profits, pending more decisive indications of seasonal business pickup. Continued gains in loadings of revenue freight, according to some analysts, should be experienced in August as a forerunner to real improvement this autumn. In the week ended August 13, there was a gain of 16,000 cars. Another gain for the week ended August 20, would be encouraging. Among individual carrier reports for that week now available, New York Central and Pennsylvania show slight gains, while Santa Fe and St. Louis terminal loadings are off moderately. Stocks of the hard coal carrying railroads were evidently bought on the theory that the roads are coming into the season of extensive fuel movement and should report better earnings.

The continued low ebb of steel production, as reported by Iron Age, took some of the edge off the encouraging comment by Chairman Taylor, of United States Steel. Nevertheless, substantial pickup after Labor Day is still confidently expected in important steel quarters. National Steel, an outstanding strong spot in today's market, has been able to pay common dividends thus far this year. Coppers were heped by continued firmness of red metal prices abroad. The weekly petroleum statistics were favorable, showing a drop of 1,119,000 barrels in gasoline in storage, and a 33,400-barrel reduction in daily average crude production.

TRADE BUYING LIFTS COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Cotton futures opened steady, 1-6 lower in response to lower Liverpool cables and slightly better weather and under selling for southern accounts.

December eased off to 7.87 and March to 8.10 under the initial pressure, but demand was soon encouraged by reports of comparative firmness in the early stock market, and prices steadied up, with December selling around 7.94 at the end of the first half hour, when the general list was 1 to 4 points above yesterday's closing quotations.

The buying movement became much more active after the publication of the weekly weather report and December contracts sold up to 8.14 or 23 points above yesterday's closing quotations late in the morning.

Prices at midday were within a point or two of the best with active months showing net gains of about 20 to 25 points.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 24.—Cotton, 23,000 bales, including 13,800 American. Spot in fair demand; prices 4 points lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.53; good middling, 6.28; strict middling, 6.08; middling, 5.98; strict low middling, 5.93; low middling, 5.83; strict good ordinary, 5.63; good ordinary, 5.33.

Futures closed very steady, October, 5.92; December, 5.92; January, 5.94; March, 5.98; May, 6.02; July, 6.06.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Remington-Rand and subsidiaries report for the quarter ended June 30, 1932, net loss of $684,248 after depreciation, interest, etc., against $771,649 net loss in the June 1931 quarter. Remington-Rand showed an appreciable improvement in sales volume in the domestic market for the first 20 days of August. Sales for this period were up about 20 per cent compared with the first 20 days of July.

American Safety Razor Corporation reports for six months ended June 30 including wholly-owned subsidiaries, net profit of $304,802, after depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equal to $1.52 a share on the 200,000 shares, comparing with net of $305,744 or $2.53 a share, in the first half of 1931.

Reading Company July report shows net operating income of $649,779, against $136,309 in July, 1931. Seven months net operating income totals $5,102,563, compared with $2,896,410 in the first seven months of 1931.

United Gas Corporation in 12 months ended June 30 earned $4.07 a share on the 7 per cent second preferred stock, after dividends paid on $5 no par preferred, against 50c a common share earned, after preferred dividends, in 12 months to June 30, 1931.

Standard Gas and Electric Company reports that consolidated net earnings for the 12 months ended June 30, after all charges including retirement reserve and preferred dividends, showed a balance of $5,148,691, equal to $2.38 a share on the common stock, compared with $6,586,688, or $3.04 a share in the previous similar period.

The Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corporation for the first six months of 1932 reports net loss of $1,119,051, after deducting depreciation and amortization adjustments totaling $324,761. The loss in the second quarter totaled $733,986, compared with a loss in the first three months of $709,826.

Atlantic Refining Company in six months ended June 30 earned $1.18 a common share, compared with net loss of $4,012,962 in the first half of 1931. In the June quarter the company earned $1.02 a common share, against 16 cents in the previous quarter and net loss of $1,850,162 in the June, 1931, quarter.

MANAGEMENT ACTS TO SAVE OIL TRADE

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Management in the large has been alert in recent months in taking steps designed to save the petroleum industry from economic suicide.

An important influence in rationalizing this hitherto chaotic industry has been Judge Amos L. Beaty, president of the American Petroleum Institute and former head of the Texas Corporation. The idea of choosing heads of whole industries from successful executives of individual corporations is an interesting departure. The success in this case doubtless was a factor in inducing the uncoordinated and greatly depressed steel industry to follow the same principle, electing to the presidency of the American Iron and Steel Institute Robert P. Lamont, former chief executive of the American Steel Foundries, and more recently Mr. Hoover's Secretary of Commerce.

Mr. Rukeyser

The story of how the oil industry has recently emerged from the unhappy state of being the sickest in the United States is suggestive. Edward G. Seubert, president, Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and one of the outstanding personalities of the industry, in discussing the situation, told me:

"With but few relapses, the industry has been progressing commendably in its effort to bring production into line with demand. The task has recently been made more difficult by the increase in demand caused by declining consumption of gasolines. In other words, while we have been moving toward the goal, the goal has been picked up by the consuming public and moved farther away. Mr. Beaty's suggestion of reducing production to 2,000,000 barrels a day is something that must be heeded in order to assure stable conditions on the present demand, and we may have to go further if demand continues to decline.

"The indications of improvement in the industry most apparent are those we see in the earnings reports of oil companies for the first six months, which compare favorably with reports for the corresponding period of last year. Against these indications, however, there are many disquieting factors, such as too large stocks of gasoline, continuance of unsound marketing practices and adverse influence of additional taxes.

"It appears that the estimates of decline in domestic consumption of between 6.6 per cent and 15 per cent in the last nine months of 1932 are in keeping with good judgment, based on declines already noted."

BUSINESS

Industrial Profit Trend May Turn Upward This Year.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—While reports of domestic corporations for the first half of this year indicate all industry will show a decline of approximately 75 per cent for the period, some financial observers now believe there may be a partial reversal of the trend before 1932 draws to a close.

The severity of the recent decline is shown by the reports of 400 representative industrial organizations, which, statistical experts found, disclosed a net income for the first six months of 1932 of $37,744,000 against a total of $327,197,000 in the first half of last year.

* * *

Rails Report Huge Deficit

The deficit of 51 railroads in the corporate group reached the substantial total of $90,669,000 and represented an aggregate reduction of $119,432,000 from the net return of $28,763,000 in the similar 1931 period. Reports of 33 utilities showed combined net earnings of $208,354,000 compared with $250,044,000 in the first half of 1931.

"Preliminary evidence for the current quarter," the Standard Statistics Company states, "indicates that, while absolute net income will be even smaller than the drastically reduced results for the second quarter, the relative comparison with results in the like period of 1931 should show significant improvement. In short, it is probable that even in this ultimate index of business results, a reversal of the adverse comparative performance is close at hand."

* * *

June Quarter Results Poor

Although the first three months of this year were classed as "bad," most corporations found the second quarter still more unsatisfactory, as this period accentuated a continuing trend which has been without interruption since the start of the depression.

Of the three corporate groups whose earnings were considered, the industrial companies showed a relative recession in the recent quarter of 92.6 per cent, as compared with a drop of 86.1 per cent for the same units in the first quarter. The decline of the utilities was similarly increased from 15.4 per cent to 20 per cent and the deficit of the railroads was enlarged some $15,000,000, as compared with that for the initial three months.

A GIRL from MARS (Pa.) FOUND Her PIN

The First Day Her Want-Ad Appeared in the Sun-Telegraph.

HERE'S THE AD:

PIN—Phi Kappa fraternity set with pearls and amethysts; lost city; reward. Official, 0050 extension 559, or Mars 137.

Miss Dorothy Sample, of Mars, Pa., placed the above ad in the Sun-Telegraph. The ad was ordered to run for three days, but through it the person who found the pin was located. Naturally, Miss Sample was delighted and is glad to recommend the Sun-Telegraph to others when they lose some treasured possession.

VALENTINE :-: Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love :-: By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Val's Aunt Disapproves of Sending Little Girl To Join Millie

was to make the child remember anything else. It made Julia Macfarlane heartsick to see her sitting out on the front stoop, day after day, thin little hands clasped around her knees, eyes glazed with misery, watching and waiting for Millie to come back.

Sometimes little Joe Carey came over and sat on the stoop with her, and once she caught Valentine kissing him.

"Don't do that!" she warned her sharply.

"Why not?"

"Because — because it isn't nice. Little girls don't kiss boys!"

"Don't they?"

"No, they don't. You play with the little girls, instead."

REMINDED OF JIM

Silence from Val.

"Don't you want to play with the nice little girls?"

"No."

"Then play by yourself. I don't want Joey Carey and all that raft of young ones hanging around my front porch!"

Mrs. Carey didn't like it, either.

"Joe-ey! Jo-ey! Whoo-oo, Jo-ey!" she called across the street in her full contralto voice.

Then Jo-ey would have to go home, to wash the dishes or mind the baby. Val hated the sight of Mrs. Carey, blonde hair escaping from a pink boudoir cap, tight gingham sleeves rolled back to show fleshy white arms, always calling Joe to come, do something.

Joey was two or three years older than Val, an undersized, undernourished child with a shock of sandy hair and serious, clear blue eyes too old for his face.

It was the eyes that attracted Val to him at first. They were like Jim's eyes . . . the color of sea water. She told him about Jim, about Millie, about Sister Anastasia, about everything that had been her life.

He listened, nodding, saying nothing. She did not expect him to talk. He had nothing to tell. He lived in an ugly, gingerbread cottage, with his fat, loud-voiced mother and his thin, shabby father, and his five pasty-faced, uninteresting brothers and sisters. What could he say that would interest the daughter of a Millie Macfarlane?

"Why did your mother go away?" he asked her finally.

LETTERS FROM MILLIE

Val didn't know. A lump rose in her throat.

"Because she had to!" she cried, defensively. "She had to go to Honolulu!"

She took Millie's last letter out of the pocket of her middy-blouse and showed it to him.

"My darling baby, I am writing this in the lounge in the Royal Hotel at Honolulu. It is even more wonderful than I thought it would be. Darling, I can't send for you right away, but I will soon, so be a good girl and mind Aunt Julia. I am sending you a cocoanut, souvenir of Hawaii. Your loving mother, Millie."

"P. S.—Don't let anyone curl your hair. You are not the type for curly hair. Millie."

"I would like to see a cocoanut," Joe said wistfully.

Val's brows were drawn together in a thin, dark line of pain.

"I am afraid she forgot to send it," she admitted regretfully. "Millie forgets. I used to remind her, but you see she hasn't got me to remind her now. So she forgets."

"I see," Joe said, gently. His rough red hand closed over hers.

That was the time Val kissed him, and Julia Macfarlane told her not to play with him any more.

After that letters were further and further apart. Millie was traveling, on her way to the Orient. Val waited, with passionate impatience, opened them with damp, trembling fingers, read them over and over after she knew them by heart.

FRIEND'S DAD DIES

Whether they were written in the Royal Hotel at Honolulu, or the writing room on the steamer bound for Yokohama, or in Kobe, or Shanghai or Peking or Manila, they were all about the same.

"Be a good girl. Mind you wear a hat in the sun. Lemon juice is good for freckles. I'll send for you when I can. Your loving mother, "Millie."

One day there was a big black bow with long streamers tied to the Carey front door, and all the Carey children had on clean clothes, and walked up and down the sidewalk in front of the house, admiring the black bow.

"Papa's dead. We're going to have a funeral!" Betty, the one who was Val's age, called to her.

And mama's going to have another baby, right away!" Elwyn, the next youngest, shouted.

Val sat down on the stoop to think it over. She was sorry there was going to be another baby. Joe had so much to do already. Mrs. Carey would put it in the buggy and Joe would have to push it, and mind Georgie and baby Ruthie, too.

The other phenomenon did not seem so important. Mr. Carey had been so very gray and thin and shadowy. Very likely he was tired, and would be glad to be dead.

She went in to tell Aunt Julia. Aunt Julia was in the kitchen, tearing something into little bits. When she saw Val she gathered them up and threw them into the stove. Her florid face was very red.

Val noticed that, as she launched into her news.

"Joey's father is going to have a funeral, and Joey's mother is going to have another baby—isn't that too bad? And they have a black bow on the doorknob, and Betty has on her white dress, and Georgie's face is washed—"

"Of all things! That poor man dead and off his feet at last, and the kids running wild . . . well! Even she ought to know better than that! Humph—"

Aunt Julia went into the front room and looked through the lace curtains to see for herself. When Val would have pushed the curtain aside to see better Aunt Julia cuffed her hand.

"Idea! Didn't I bring you up better than that? Humph . . . letting the kids run wild while their own father—"

When Val cried, Millie tried to comfort her.

Val's hand wasn't hurt, but her feelings were. She sobbed.

Aunt Julia turned from her peek-hole at the window, lifted the child in her arms, comforted her absently.

Her mind had gone back to the letter she had just torn into bits. The letter from Val's mother.

And suddenly a rush of emotion spread over her, transforming her square, placid face, lighting her china-blue eyes, blurring the big, gold-rimmed spectacles.

She sat down on the chesterfield, holding the child, stroking her silky black hair. Why should she give her up, now? Her own brother's child . . . she owed it to him to see that his girl was brought up right . . . certainly the mother wasn't fit.

Val squirmed, freed herself.

"Did the postman bring anything from Millie?"

For the first time in many years Julia Macfarlane told a deliberate lie.

"No," she said.

And in a certain banker's apartment in the British quarter, in Hongkong, Millie Macfarlane, Val's mother, turned from a silver laden dressing table to face the ruddy-faced man who lolled in a long cane chair.

"I've sent for my child. You wouldn't deny me that?" she asked, watching him warily as she spoke.

He drained the glass at his side. Then he smiled. "I wouldn't deny you anything."

Millie threw her arms around him, showered kisses on his ears, his long reddish nose, his sparse, graying hair.

"I can hardly wait!" she cried, brushing the tears from her cheeks.

She was thinking of Jim Atkinson . . . children are so funny . . . Val would remember Jim . . . would wonder why Jim was gone, and this new man . . . And you can't explain, can't make a child see how things happen . . .

"Have a drink while you're waiting!" the ruddy-faced man suggested.

"I think I will," she said. "I'm—nervous."

Heart of a Wife

Madge Tries to Show Dicky Absurdity of His Jealousy

Dicky was what the old novelists used to call "sketchily attired," but there was nothing old-fashioned in the pajamas, bathrobe and slippers which he wore as he came toward me from the stairs. His frown, however, and the anger in his eyes were identical with those supposed to be worn by medieval husbands and later by heads of Oriental harems.

"So!" he said, and something in the intensity of the monosyllable loosened a devil of perversity within me.

"You have the wrong cut," I said, airily, wrinkling my nose at him, the while I tried valiantly to keep my knees from trembling. "'Aha!' is the right word, and you really should have a big sheath knife between your teeth. No, you couldn't say 'Aha!' then, could you? Well, then, you should be brandishing the sheath-knife in your right hand."

"I am not in the mood for comedy," Dicky said, and his angry voice I knew would be plainly audible on the side veranda. "This touching reunion is just a trifle too much for me to stand. 'I haven't words to thank you.' 'You can't imagine what this has meant to me. That's a nice mess of tripe for a—'"

"Hush! Dicky!" I implored "He'll hear you!"

"I hope he does. I want him to. Where is he?" He was fast working himself into one of his old tantrums—something I had not seen in a long time—and my red corpuscles froze as he strode past me and tore open the screen door to the veranda.

BABY HELPS

I was close behind him, my hand outstretched in what I knew would be the most futile of attempts to restrain him. But the veranda was empty, and Hugh's tall figure was already rounding the corner of the barn two hundred feet away.

I had but one possible weapon, I knew from my long parsing of my liege lord's moods and tenses. I already had used it to no effect, but any other—appeal, submission, anger, any one of them—was worse than useless. But if I could once pierce his risibles with the stiletto of absurd jest, my battle would be half won.

With a swift movement I shook my hair down, and cradling Baby Faith in my arms in the most approved ten-twent-thirt fashion of the mauve decade, I moved toward the veranda steps.

"Must I follow him out into the night?" I quavered. "It is so cold, and the snow is falling so fast—oh! have pity on the chee—ild, if not on me."

I shall always believe that babies have more advanced mentality than is credited to them. If my wee daughter had planned the piercing yell she gave at precisely that moment, she could not have been more effective or more helpful to my scheme for calming her father's wrath.

"See"—I shifted her so that her twisted face was toward him—"she is pleading for herself. Will you not—"

I saw Dicky's lips twitch ever so slightly, and knew that my battle was won, even though his voice sounded as angry as ever when he spoke. But it was a different kind of wrath, half feigned, but admirably designed to "save face" in Chinese fashion.

MADGE SUCCESSFUL

"Will you take that child upstairs and quiet her, instead of staging this very punk comedy stunt?" he demanded. "Old Phil Veritzen may consider you the greatest potential actress that has ever run out on him, but I don't believe he meant comedy roles."

But I was half way upstairs, apparently absorbed in hushing Faith's cries. By the time I reached the top, she was quiet again, but I did not wait for any further comment from Dicky. As I sped down the hall to the nursery, I was thankful for my

That I had dissipated his first black anger, I was as sure as I was that he had been tempted to laughter at my absurdity. But I was almost ready to wish that Hugh would continue his walk so far that he could never find his way back to the farmhouse.

I acquitted myself of any action to which Dicky reasonably could object, if he exercised justice and sanity in considering the subject. But when was jealous man ever sane or just?

A subdued tap at the door brought me to my feet.

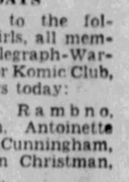
SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB



Members of the Belmar Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club received a very pleasant surprise Saturday at the regular meeting.

As each member entered the theater he or she received a big bag of popcorn and while they were enjoying their popcorn they were entertained by the "Texas Rangers," an instrumental quartet consisting of two guitars, banjo and violin. The "Rangers" as they were introduced to the members by Henry La Pertche, Grand Jester, received a great ovation which encouraged them to play all the old time jig tunes and ballads they knew. The members showed their appreciation by giving the "Rangers" a big round of applause when they were finished and cordially invited them to return again this week.

The club has been operating for the past two weeks minus the services of a grand jester, due to the absence of the youngster elected to this office. To fill this vacancy temporarily Manager Harry Seigel made arrangements for an election to be held and as a result, the inimitable Henry LaPertche was elected to this position. Henry is only about 4 feet, 6 inches tall, but he's 75 pounds of vim, vigor and vitality. And a great favorite with the members of this chapter.

EATING CONTESTS

Following the election, the pie-eating and watermelon-eating contests were held, and what contests they were. The girl's pie-eating contest was first, and between an effort to be dainty and a determination to win, they had the club members roaring with laughter.

The boys' pie-eating contest was much the same except for much more speed and smearier faces. Henry La Pertche, who participated had as much of the pie on him as in him.

The girls' watermelon-eating contest was again a battle between daintiness and determination. The boys, however, went to work on the watermelon with a vengeance and carried off all prizes for furnishing the members with laughs.

CONTEST WINNER

This contest, by the way, was won by a southern gentleman of dusky hue, with a set of teeth when he grinned, that lit up the interior of the theater. This young chap showed utter disregard for his sartorial splendor and appeared not to care whether he was considered a contestant or not, just so he had the watermelon. He had not only the watermelon, but after the seeds were clared away, he also had first prize.

Manager Seigel announced that this Saturday among other contests and stunts would be the first annual Belmar Theater Junior Komic Club Dog Show. All the members who own dogs are requested to enter them in the contest.

REDUCED CARFARE

Street car passes for the youngsters of Pittsburgh who are going to attend the Lucky Buck picnic at Kenneywood Park Friday, are now on sale at more than 50 different locations throughout the city. The Sun-Telegraph, through special arrangements with the Pittsburgh Railways Company, has obtained a special round-trip rate of 15 cents. The list of places where these passes can be purchased will be found in another part of today's Sun-Telegraph.

Q. & A. DEPARTMENT

Dear Auntie Bella—

Who was Cleveland, Ohio, named after?

—TINY TOT.

Ans.—

Aunt Bella is getting tired of being annoyed by Tiny Tot, who ought to learn to respect elders who are not so old, at that, and stop bothering them for needless information which has little or no bearing on his school work, and I don't mean maybe.

CLUNK!

Any man, by systematic training, can prepare himself for the ordeal of making out next year's income tax report. And it is not too early to prepare for the shock. A simple method is to obtain two good sized mineral water bottles. Hold one in each hand, and begin swinging the bottles gracefully to some catchy tune. Then, without warning, clunk yourself accidentally on the back of the head. Not too hard; not too easy. If the clunking process is repeated often enough, and vigorously enough, you will ultimately discover that you have built up an immunity against worry about the income report which, after all, isn't due until next March.

The Correct Spirit

Senator Coyne Can Do Commendable Job If Coming Investigation Is Undertaken In Right Way.

Senator James J. Coyne, chairman of a committee created by the special session of the Legislature to study the costs of government in Allegheny County, with a view to recommending to the next regular session legislation to bring about savings, says his inquiry will be along constructive lines.

The Senator denies original intimations that he procured the creation of the committee in order to satisfy political grudges or to do some more snooping.

He has made a good start in conferring with businessmen who may have suggestions for efficiency or the diminishing of public services which well might be performed privately, but which have been built up in an era of centralization of all forms of government.

He should pursue the same course when he comes to examine into the administration of public officials. The Board of County Commissioners has made a real effort at economy, but there may be new economies the board would favor which can be accomplished only through legislative action.

He may be able through questioning city officials to learn of savings there which require the approval, or mandate, of the Legislature, so long as Pittsburgh does not have home rule. It should be a simple matter of economy to abolish the fees of the delinquent tax collector, putting that office on salary and letting tax penalties go to the county treasury.

Coyne says he also will examine into affairs of the School Board, not with suspicion, but with a desire to see whether there has been unwitting waste.

The Senator's past attitude toward the School Board may arouse some skepticism, but there may be possible economies which have not been realized because the board members and school authorities live so close to their jobs.

A primary principle of the next Legislature will be economy in government, state and local. No one knows better than an organization leader, such as is Senator Coyne, how such savings can be effected, the useless jobs for political patronage which can be eliminated.

If he undertakes his task in that spirit he can do a commendable job. And if along the line he runs into and exposes political inefficiency and favoritism there will be no complaint.

Recommence the Work

Belligerents in Construction of Postoffice Should Strive For an Amicable Agreement.

Labor troubles again have tied up construction of Pittsburgh's new postoffice building, resuming the blockade which has existed for five previous weeks.

There is a serious conflict between building contractors and members of one union which has resulted in loss of employment to more than 200 men at a time when all badly need work. No snap judgment can decide which of the two contending sides is in the right, but there should be some coming together immediately of the belligerents to settle upon a basis for an amicable agreement.

Work should recommence immediately, not only because Pittsburgh needs the facilities to be furnished by the new and expanded postoffice building, but because the construction of this building is one concrete means of dealing with the unemployment situation and furnishing a buying power to men who need it badly to support their families.

The Blessing of Books

Carnegie Library Does Good Work in Relieving the Mental Strain of the Unemployed.

Two kinds of relief are required by the unemployed, material relief and mental relief. We hear more of the need for food and money than the need for diversion and consolation, yet we suspect there are many jobless persons who are more troubled by mental strain than by actual destitution.

The Carnegie Library has been doing good work in helping to relieve troubled minds. The semi-annual report states that during the first half of this year 2,199,000 books were loaned, or nearly 50 per cent more than during the corresponding period of 1929.

The increase is unquestionably due to the fact that thousands of persons now have leisure for reading, because of unemployment, who did not have it in 1929.

What a blessing books must be proving to them, in enabling them to forget, for hours at a time, their anxiety, their helplessness, their poverty!

Books divert their minds. In fiction these unemployed patrons of the library can cast off temporarily their identities and live the lives of others. But there is more than entertainment in books. There is inspiration, too, and education and mental hygiene.

Motor Law Enforced

Other Officers Should Follow Example of Highway Patrol In Dealing With Violators.

Some justices of the peace, constables and police forces of smaller governmental units might well learn a lesson from the policy of the state highway patrol in dealing with motor law violators. Recently many accidents have been reported due to a careless habit of motorists of crossing street intersections or railway grades without keeping to the right of highways.

The highway patrol intends to rigidly enforce the law as a safety measure. But it offers warning to motorists, tells them how costly the violations have proven in life and property, and gives them an opportunity to conform to the regulations without waiting for punitive action.

There would not be so much complaint about suddenly erected "speed traps," or spasmodically enforced forgotten regulations, if other officers would follow the same course.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

But Still They Marry

Some Cynic is always arising to inquire why any man should marry, in these days, when the comforts of home can be found almost anywhere, except in the home.

* * *

Well, there is no vital reason why a man SHOULD marry, perhaps; but the reasons why men DO marry and probably will go right on marrying, ad infinitum, are easily tabulated.

* * *

Lots of them marry, just because it is an old family custom, and they have been brought up to look forward to it, just as they look forward to shaving their chins, going to college and taking up golf.

Some men marry as a rest cure from bachelorhood. Just in order to escape from all the women who are pursuing them, by the simple method of tying themselves to one woman who will protect them from the multitude, and keep them out of foolish entanglements. Others take the fatal step, because they are pushed into it by the eternal nagging of all their friends, who are always tormenting them to meet some "nice, sweet girl."

* * *

Many men are attracted to marriage, these days, by the modern "fifty-fifty" arrangement, which promises all the joys and comforts of matrimony, with none of its responsibilities and restrictions. It is becoming more and more common for a young man to look around for a successful, self-supporting girl, who will help bring home the bacon and be a jolly little runningmate. It all looks so simple and easy and such a SWELL idea!

And men marry, today, as they have always done, for consolation or out of pique, when some woman has thrown them over a little too hard, and they want to lay their heads on another woman's shoulder and be sympathized with.

* * *

Some men marry in a spirit of bravado, as they go in for hunting big game or for making flying records; just to prove that they are conquerors and can "beat the other fellow to it" and cop the most popular girl.

* * *

And more than one man has waked up on "the morning after" a Big Night of whoopee, to find himself tied for life to some Permanent Headache, whose first name escapes him and whose last name he never heard.

* * *

Of course there are still plenty of old-fashioned men who marry because they are IN LOVE!

* * *

And there are still other old-fashioned men, who go to the altar deliberately and intentionally, because they want to secure a housekeeper, homemaker and nurse. In short, because they WANT to marry!

* * *

The modern man who has found that bachelor apartments are perfectly comfortable, that most girls are easily kissed, and that most romance dies, sooner or later, still goes right on marrying—for the same old "reasons," today, yesterday and forever.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—New York has innumerable Damon-Pythian companionships among celebrities. Frank Sullivan and Corey Ford are running mates, as are Frank Case and Jesse Laskey. Mayor Walker lately is seen everywhere with Jay O'Brien. George M. Cohan's after-dark buddie is Steve Reardon.

The late Ziegfeld and Gene Buck dined together several nights weekly, and George Jean Nathan's theater companion, when not escorting Lillian Gish, is the collar ad. of belles lettres, Charles G. Shaw. Kent Cooper and "Deac" Aylesworth even take college degrees together.

Until his passing, Rennold Wolf's Rialto pal was Eugene Kelcey Allen. Irvin Cobb and Bob Davis always fish together. Bernard Gimble is Gene Tunney's companion at the prize fights. Earl Carroll and his shadow, "The Count," are almost inseparable.

Al Jolson and Buddy de Sylva were together constantly during their New York days, as were the late Grant Clarke and Bill (Stage) Boyd. Before their separate marriages, Paul Whiteman and Billy Seeman did the town together. Wherever you see Sam Harris, you see Irving Ceasar.

About the only Broadwayite to go it alone is Lee Shubert. George White and his press agent, Benny Holzman, do the night places together. Earl Benham and William Gaxton are "thick as molasses." "Dinty" Moore and George McManus sit up until late hours fanning.

* * *

Lois Moran, the actress, was the only woman to put foot inside the Lambs in 60 years. The feminine barrier was removed when Miss Moran contributed her services to a film, made by the Lambs in an effort to remove the club's indebtedness. While the club has been skating on thin ice financially during the collapse, it has managed to replenish the exchequer in last-minute skirmishes. Incidentally, the Lambs refused $2,000,000 for its property four years ago.

* * *

Out of a hotel on East Fiftieth street, this morning, there appeared a pink-bereted lady with a Persian and Siamese cat on a leash. My Sealyham, spying them, lay flat on the pavement, then rushed up to play, the nut. And was he surprised!

* * *

The other evening, I watched Ann Pennington do her familiar dance routine, for perhaps the hundredth time, exciting customers to the usual applause. And it just occurs to me that in all these years, Miss Pennington never really has danced. She has, in a magnificent bluff, just wiggled. Yet her contortive epilepsies, apparently made up as she goes along, have always had a wide appeal. There is another talented person, billed as a dancer, who merely resorts to a series of crazy jerks and gyrations. I refer to Harlan Dixon.

* * *

There are fundamentals of tap and clog dancing, immutable as rules of music or literary composition. Vide Bill Robinson or Jack Donahue! But so often are they ignored. When Luella Gear was a theatrical toast, she invariably appeared in parts calling for dancing. She couldn't dance, yet so personable was she that she merely walked about in time to music and her unpredictable ad libbing evoked high favor.

* * *

This is the cloudless end of a dying afternoon with the city in grip of an unaccountable calm, and the silver threat of an Indian summer night. All of a sudden, my typewriter full stops, and I think of the smell of pine needles sifting through the fugitive arabesques of a lazy dusk. Sunsets, to me, are ever poignant, tweaking my awareness of a higher power. Too, I conjure a picture of grandma, hot and flushed, pulling loaves of golden bread from the kitchen oven. What wouldn't I give for a slice of that bread, spread with clear honey, and washed down with a cool glass of milk dipped from a cellar crock!

* * *

O, yes, in the grip of this nostalgic hunger, I'm panting for some of those dewy, luscious concord grapes found only on the arbor sheltering the mossy rock well.

* * *

No one can do justice to golden home-made bread or juicy concord grapes in a scant line or so of a hastily written newspaper column. Such topics require a blazing open hearth, old red slippers and hours of re-writing, polishing and re-phrasing. They should be worked over until they sparkle, do-se-do and balance all!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I don't think much of Prohibition. I honestly believe it has put Uncle Sam in a bad spot—created opportunities for lawlessness and crime—generated disrespect for law.

So—I don't think much of Prohibition. But I think even less of some of the arguments against Prohibition. The following, for example—

Dear Miss Robinson—

Will you write an article to help people like us?

We are a young married couple with a little girl of seven. We have a comfortable little home and our friends are all nice people. We want to live right, Miss Robinson, but there is something that bothers us worse all the time and that is this social drinking that has come in since Prohibition.

We can't go anywhere nowadays without having something to drink. It's cheap to make bathtub gin, and everyone tries to see how much they can drink. Ten years ago, when we went to parties, it wasn't nice for girls to drink, and if the boys had any, they had to sneak it. If anyone got drunk openly it was a scandal. Nowadays the parties are just one big headache.

Of course, if you go out at all, you've got to do what others do or they think you're queer or sore. And if you invite people to your house, you've got to entertain them the way everyone else does, or they just sit around and act as if they'd been insulted. But, though we go with a nice crowd, the noisy singing and rough acting is getting too much for us. And it is getting us in wrong with the neighbors. We'll surely be glad if the government does something about all this drinking.

MRS. BEN J.

It's up to the government to regulate its laws, lady, and to make laws which it can regulate. But it isn't up to the government to regulate your conduct for you—or to give you a backbone instead of a piece of spaghetti.

The Eighteenth Amendment may be a bad law . . . but it isn't pouring that booze down your throat . . . it isn't turning your decent home into a rowdy place . . . it isn't causing the neighbors to talk about you.

You, yourself, are to blame for all these things.

You're to blame because you haven't the gumption to stand up for your own decent ideals in the face of popular vulgarity.

You DON'T "have to do as other people do"—

YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE A COPY-CAT.

You can live a decent and dignified life if you wish to live one.

If you don't like drinking and your friends insist on drinking, get some new friends who won't insist on drinking. There are still plenty of such in this old world.

If people get bored unless you give them liquor in your home, invite people who won't be bored.

MAKE UP YOUR OWN MIND WHAT YOU WANT TO BE AND DO . . . . AND THEN BE AND DO IT.

You don't have to be preachy or pesty about it. You don't have to make other people uncomfortable. Just laugh and say—"Thanks, but I pass. I'm off the stuff." Then if they kid you, let them—BUT STICK BY YOUR GUNS. And if they get mean about it, set the well-known hind legs in motion and GET GOING!

FOR YOUR OWN SELF-RESPECT IS MORE IMPORTANT THAN THE OPINION OF A MILLION FRIENDS. AND THE DIRTIEST TRAITOR ON EARTH IS THE MAN WHO BETRAYS HIS OWN STANDARDS FOR FEAR OF RIDICULE.

So make your own pattern and don't be a copy-cat. And that goes for more than booze. It goes for endless silliness and vulgarity which flourishes in our daily life.

You don't have to drink unless you wish to.

You don't have to gossip unless you wish to.

You don't have to listen to dirty stories unless you wish to.

You don't have to go with cheap people unless you wish to.

You don't have to follow any silly fad simply because "it's being done." And, if you're cheerful about your refusal, you can retain all the worth while friends you ever had, and make more and better ones.

FOR THE WORLD RESPECTS THE MAN WHO MAKES AND MANAGES HIS OWN LIFE. AND, DESPITE ITS BALLYHOO OF GOOD FELLOWSHIP, IT DESPISES THE COPYCAT.

The Rhyming Optimist

BY ALINE MICHAELS

An Old House

An old house breathes a welcome
From out its portals quaint,
Though every room
Has lost its bloom
And walls are bare of paint.

It knows the wail of infants,
Their shrill and urgent cries,
Knows children's glee
And ecstasy
Of lovers' smiles and sighs.

It has a tender pity
For feeble folk, and old;
It understands
Their folded hands,
Their dreams grown dim and cold.

An old house is so kindly
To all who enter there;
Through every room
Sweet memories bloom,
And faded halls grow fair.

The Next Senate Is To Be Democratic

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The terms of one-third of the members of the Senate expire this year and they are up for re-election in the event of their renomination. There appears at this moment to be no doubt that the next House will be strongly Democratic. In truth, there is serious danger that it may be too heavily so; for when there is an unwieldy majority there is usually less solidarity than is desirable.

The Senate today is Republican; though with the aid of progressive Republicans the Democrats are able to dominate, and have dominated over Hoover in numerous instances. It is best for a party to have a clear majority of its own and not to be dependent on temporary alliances.

In hazarding a guess on the result of the senatorial elections this year, we may safely exclude from discussion the states where we may be sure there will be no political overturn.

There are 14 of these, and of the 14 the Democrats are certain to carry all but one. Certainly the Democratic nominees will be re-elected in Kentucky, Alabama, Louisiana, Ohio, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Arizona, North Carolina, South Carolina, Oklahoma and Maryland. The Republican nominee in Vermont is just as certain of re-election.

* * *

Ohio, Oklahoma Hardly Doubtful

Someone may challenge the conclusion as to Ohio, but there is every present indication that the electoral vote of Ohio will go to Roosevelt and that Senator Buckley, the incumbent in the Senate, who is exceptionally popular, will be triumphantly returned. For the sake of an argument someone may question the prediction that the Democratic nominee for the Senate in Oklahoma will be returned; but if the Democrats do not carry Oklahoma this year it will be a Hoover landslide—of which no one even dreams.

Thus of the 32 Senators to be chosen we may put down 12 as sure to be Democrats and one Republican.

* * *

Pennsylvania Seems Close

We might perhaps have included Pennsylvania as certain to return Senator Davis, Republican. We have left it in doubt because of the insistence from knowing quarters that Roosevelt has a chance to carry the state this autumn. We personally think he has only a bare fighting chance. It is probable that he could carry the state and the Democrats still lose the senatorship.

To be perfectly fair, then, let us add Pennsylvania to the list of certain Republican states—giving the Republicans two and the Democrats 12.

* * *

States Where Battles Loom

Unless there are factional dissensions in the Democratic party in Connecticut the Democrats should carry the state for the presidential ticket. This would be apt to sweep in the Democratic senatorial nominee. The Republican nominee, Senator Bingham, however, is apt to be stronger than Hoover because of the position he holds on prohibition. This, then, is a battling state.

In Illinois there will be a struggle. Normally the advantage would be with Senator Glenn because of the Republican majorities down state. There can be no doubt of a sweeping Democratic majority in Chicago. It requires more temerity than we possess to undertake to balance the one against the other. Another battle ground.

In Missouri, Senator Hawes, one of the most popular of men, has declined renomination. Had he consented to another term there would be scarcely any doubt of his re-election. His withdrawal has resulted in a very spirited fight for the Democratic nomination and this always leaves some scars. Even so, Missouri is more certain to re-elect a Democrat than Illinois is to re-elect a Republican.

* * *

Kansas Democrat Sure to Return

While the Republicans holding from Washington, Nevada, Oregon, Idaho and Colorado would under normal conditions have the advantage, there is a strong probability that Roosevelt will carry all these states; and if he does the Democratic senatorial nominess will sweep in with him.

The Democrat from Kansas is almost sure of election. It is no secret that Vice President Curtis seriously considered refusing a renomination at Chicago to run for the Senate from Kansas. He made a careful survey of the state and concluded, we may assume from his action, that Hoover has as much chance for re-election as has a Republican senatorial nominee from Kansas.

In Iowa, where Senator Brookhart was defeated for renomination, the Democrat has all the advantage. In the two Dakotas there is every indication of a Roosevelt victory; but the two sitting Republican senators have been anti-Hoover and these not unreasonably may prevail. This, however, does not contribute to Republican comfort.

There is a fighting chance to defeat Senator Moses in New Hampshire.

* * *

Five Contests Of Importance

In Wisconsin, Senator Blaine, anti-Hoover Republican, would only be endangered should the factional bitterness there impel the reactionaries to support the Democratic nominee in a spirit of vengeance.

This brings us down to five important contests—in California, Utah, New York, Indiana and New Jersey.

The amazing showing made by the Democrats in California in the registration justifies the hopes of the party there. If they are able to present a solid front they are almost sure to win. McAdoo will probably be the Democratic nominee; and while he is not so strong in San Francisco as in Southern California, his differences with leaders there are being ironed out. Nowhere is there more bitter dissatisfaction with the fruits of the Hoover administration.

* * *

Fight to Defeat Sen. Reed Smoot

Can the Democrats defeat Reed Smoot, the oldest Senator in point of service in Utah? They think they can. It is of some significance that his supporters there are now appealing for him on the ground that he is old and unfortunate financially, and should be given a big sympathy vote. This contest will be a battle, at any rate, that only the polls can settle.

In Indiana, Senator Watson is doomed. He thinks so. His most ardent friends think so, and say so. The state unquestionably will go to Roosevelt by a handsome majority. His Democratic opponent is a very able and popular man—and Watson himself is not what he used to be. It is almost a safe bet at this juncture that Watson will go down.

In New York it seems incredible that Senator Wagner, who has made a remarkable record of important public service, should be defeated. Only disloyalty in the Democracy in New York can accomplish that result. And there is no reason for disloyalty to Wagner.

In New Jersey there is ample justification for the conclusion that the Democrats will elect Percy Stewart, who made the sensational and successful race for Congress in a strong Republican district.

* * *

Democrats Sure Of 12 Seats

Thus to sum up: There are 32 senatorial seats involved.

The Democrats are absolutely certain to win in 12.

The Republicans are almost certain to win in but three or four.

At present these seats are held by 15 Democrats and 17 Republicans.

The Democrats have an excellent chance to win five, and a fighting chance in six. And there is not a Democratic seat that is in serious danger.

Thus there is every reason to predict that the next Senate will be Democratic.
